Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Say, our champion New York University team looked like Man-of-War, till that bunch of Oregon apple knockers got a hold of 'em this afternoon. It was no place for a raccoon-coat athlete up against an old bunch of wheat shockers whose college emblem is a pair of overalls. The old salmon diggers from the mouth of the Columbia had the city slickers strewn from goal to goal. With Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Columbia and Al Smith going down all in succession it just looks like it's the country boys' year.

BEES MAY GIVE AID TO LONGEVITY

Apiarist Plans to Utilize "Royal Jelly" of Queen in Human Experiment

TORONTO, Nov. 29. (AP)—A Toronto beekeeper who believes that men may learn from the bees some of the secrets of longevity today disclosed that two scientists are to investigate the life-prolonging possibilities of "royal jelly," the substance which the worker bee provides for the queen.

J. I. McArthur, apiarist, told the convention of Ontario beekeepers here that Dr. F. G. Bantino, discoverer of the uses of insulin in the treatment of diabetes, and Prof. H. P. Jackson of the University of Toronto, will conduct a research into the properties of royal jelly.

Mr. McArthur said he has sought the aid of other beekeepers in obtaining a supply of that substance for the experiments. He said he believes the food provided by the worker bees for the queen and her larvae prolongs the life of the queen bee by several yeaks, and may have similar properties in the treatment of humans.

BYRD FACES ADVENTURE

Commander Addresses Crew on Eve of Departure Into Ice Pack

All Hands Feast on Turkey and Mince Pie Aboard City of New York

BY RUSSELL OWEN

DUNEDIN (N. Z.) Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—A great cheer went up today on the stubby square rigger cluttered with stores and grimy with the dirt of loading when Commander Byrd called his crew together on the after deck of the City of New York and announced that with good luck the ship would sail tomorrow for Antarctica. It was Thanksgiving Day in more than one way as the moment had arrived for which the men have been looking forward to for many months.

A stiff breeze, almost a gale, whipped the waters of the harbor and clouds scudded overhead, in the air was a tang of the great southern world of ice and snow.

The men in the little group buttoned their coats tighter and grinned at each other as the air bit into the skin. In a week the sturdy bark will be staggering through sleet-laden gales close to the ice pack and those aboard will be looking eagerly for a way through that great floating barrier.

BYRD ADDRESSES CREW

Commander Byrd, slim and eager in his brown uniform, his eyes keenly surveying the group before him, told the men he appreciated their efforts and knew they would tackle the job ahead with the greatest enthusiasm. Byrd expects rough sailing.

"This is no picnic," he said. "We are going to have a rough time and must expect it, but if each man does his best, I have no doubt of the outcome.

"Keep smiling, remember that good fellowship is perhaps more important than efficiency on an expedition like this.

"We are going to try to get out tomorrow evening and if every man does his best we will do it. Now go to it."

Hats were snapped off and waved as the men cheered him, men grimy of face, clad in dirty dungarees, men who had been working long hours every day on the tremendous task of preparation, but men happy in the thought that in a few days they would face conditions which would make everything before seem like a Sunday-school party.

Commander Byrd's personality has won him an unusual response from his crews, and pilots, scientists and the captains of both ships have been working like stevedores. It was nothing to see a mate who held a lieutenant's commission in the Navy staggering along under a packing box or an Army officer lugging baggage or supplies for some one else. Everyone lends a hand and one has to be a member of such an expedition before it is possible to realize the meaning of the word comradeship. Probably nothing like it has been seen since the war.

THANKSGIVING FEAST

The Thanksgiving dinner provided a merry party. Every one ate aboard the City of New York. The big forecastle was filled with men and an overflow went aft.

The forecastle is filled with boxes for every inch of space must be utilized and in this light it was a place of indescribable confusion, with the bunks filled with luggage. Some of the center bunks were tipped up on their sides to make room, and along one side a big table was laid at which twenty-five men ate at a time.

The menu was turkey and cranberry sauce, mince pie, cake and ice cream.

As soon as the dinner was over the men scattered to the various tasks assigned to them checking stores and making sure that the proper provisions and materials were placed aboard. They will assemble at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning on the City of New York and have their clothing checked so that any deficiency in equipment may be made up.

The equipment is probably the best ever put together for an Antarctic trip. The Norwegians are particularly pleased with the gear for use on the ice barrier. The

TESTAMENT TALES HELD MYTHICAL

English Theologians List Bible Stories of Creation and Deluge as Fiction

LONDON, Nov. 29. (AP)—The Daily Mail today gives prominence to a review of a new commentary on the Bible, entitled "Commentary on the Holy Scripture," in which a number of Bible stories are declared myths and without historical foundation. Classed as such are the narratives of the Creation, the Deluge, and the legend of the Tower of Babel. Other stories of the traditionally miraculous age are traced to natural causes.

The book is the work of more than fifty contributors, all specialists in their subject, and many of them regarded as among the most learned and most devout leaders of the Church of England. The book itself was produced under the editorship of Dr. Gore, former bishop of Oxford, who was editor of the famous "Lux Mundi," and is regarded as the greatest living English theologian.

While questioning some popular conceptions of New Testament stories the commentators stress strongly their belief that the evidence for the existence of the Christ and of his resurrection is overwhelming, and they avoid any minimizing tendency, or any attempt to explain away the central points of Christian faith.

Capital Records Three Temblors

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Three earth temblors within a period of less than four hours were recorded today by the seismograph of Georgetown University.

They occurred at 9:49 o'clock this morning, 11:38 a.m., and 1:29 p.m. Father Francis A. Tondorf, director of the seismographic observatory, declared that the third shock was the heaviest. He added that he could not place the location of the tremors, but believed they all came from the same region.

Alabama Fires Hold Mystery

TUSCALOOSA (Ala.) Nov. 29. (AP) The second fire in as many days on the University of Alabama campus here today caused heavy loss to Comer Hall, which houses the engineering department. Yesterday water used in extinguishing a fire in the upper floor of Morgan Hall, classroom and auditorium building, caused a heavy loss.

The fires, university authorities said, are almost identical, both originating in the attic. Firemen are unable to determine their origin.

River-Trap Costs Nebraskan Life

OMAHA, Nov. 29. (AP)—His feet stuck in mud and his head barely above water, Ernest Kiesel, 32 years of age, was held fast in the Missouri River after a boat capsized so long that he died of exposure soon after a farmer rescued him.

His brother, Louis, 19, and Herman Wolfe, 25, are believed to have drowned. They were hunting ducks when the boat turned over.

Cripples Open New Ford Pool

WARM SPRINGS (Ga.) Nov. 29. (AP)—Some fifty infantile paralysis sufferers, most of them on crutches or in wheel chairs, celebrated Thanksgiving today in fitting dedication of a $30,000 glass inclosed swimming pool given to them by Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford.

A gay program suggested by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor-elect of New York and pioneer in the Warm Springs Foundation movement, had for its premier a water carnival topped off with a symbolic dedication exercise. Mr. Roosevelt, who is one of the patients, plays guard on the patients' water football team, which was matched against the physiotherapists, young women who superintend daily calisthenics.

BUCHAREST (Rumania) Nov. 29. It is expected that the matter will be threshed out thoroughly at this meeting.

Stacks of Gold but No Turkey

TARRYTOWN (N. Y.) Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—Although John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who hasn't tasted turkey in many a year, could not risk eating any today, he presided at a turkey-laden table when the whole family gathered for dinner at the Pocantico Hills estate.

The aged oil king played nine holes of golf in the morning. The turkey that graced the table was raised on the Rockefeller farm.

City of Los Angeles Party Given Panama Reception After Canal Passage

BY FRED HOGUE
"Times" Staff Representative

AT SEA ABOARD S. S. CITY OF LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29. (By radio, relayed via Miami, Fla.) (Exclusive) Thanksgiving on the high seas was celebrated on this ship today with a typical New England dinner served by Chef Casey after a glorious trip through the Canal Zone under clear skies.

The Latin America cruise party was given a reception at Panama, where the papers were filled with news of President-elect Hoover's trip, for which we feel we have paved the way.

Weather conditions have been ideal throughout the trip and there has been neither tragedy nor rough seas to mar the cruise. Romance is following the ship and two engagements will be announced in Los Angeles.

Deck sports are being played daily and several near-champions are developing. All the members of the party are sorry that the cruise will end so soon.

The passengers are bringing back to Los Angeles whistling monkeys, talking parrots, rare South American gems, Antarctic furs, Indian rugs, Panama hats and the good will of all the countries visited.

Six States Lie Hidden by Snow

DENVER, Nov. 29. (AP)—Under clearing skies, the Rocky Mountain region tonight lies beneath a heavy blanket of snow.

All of the States in the Rocky Mountains—Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Colorado, New Mexico and Montana—are covered in a blanket of white as the storm, marked by unusual high temperatures, moved slowly eastward. Many cities and towns in Colorado and Wyoming, where the snowfall was heaviest, are covered with from one to two feet of snow.

Burial Alive Fails to Cure

PRAGUE (Czecho-Slovakia) Nov. 29. (AP)—The Town Councillor of the little Moravian town of Bakova was deliberately buried alive after accidental contact with a highly charged electric wire that rendered him unconscious.

On the advice of a woman doctor of the village the official, Kutclera, was placed in a hole in the ground in the belief that the earth would absorb the electricity from his body.

When dug up after thirty minutes, interment Kutclera was dead.

LATINS BOW TO HOOVER

No Ill Will in Greetings

'Where You Ain't' Only Place Writer Can Hear of Any Anti-Americanism

Many Distinct Peoples on Itinerary Being Taken by President-Elect

BY WILL IRWIN

(Copyright, 1928, North American Newspaper Alliance.)

ABOARD U.S.S. MARYLAND, AT SEA, Nov. 29.—The correspondents in the late European war had as a useful motto "It's always hades where you ain't."

This applies to stories heard before the Hoover party started about the anti-American feeling in Central America and the prevalence of anti-American propaganda.

Of course, there has been no public manifestation — our southern neighbors being polite and hospitable peoples—except for one little handbill in Nicaragua of "Viva Sandino."

But interviews with leading natives and foreigners now inhabitants in that country indicate that this sort of propaganda is scarcely more important than is our small Bolshevik group at home.

SOURCES COMPLEX

Anti-American propaganda springs from complex sources—Americans honestly opposed to what they consider imperialistic policies, one or two interested governments and even companies trying to break into fields or concessions held by rivals. They will use anything which can be construed as reflecting on the United States.

At present, the "hero" Sandino occupies a singular position of isolation. Encouraged, possibly stirred up at first, by the Liberal party, he has become an embarrassment now that the Liberals, to their own surprise, have won the election. He has a very small following in Nicaragua, but continues to be the symbol of opposition outside of the country.

Perhaps we may find more active propaganda in South America, and we are certainly told so, but again: "It's always hades where you ain't."

PEOPLES DISTINCT

One of the greatest mistakes North Americans make regarding the peoples south of the United States, and one most failing to their sensibilities, is to lump them all in one group as Latin Americans.

There are twenty distinct peoples between the Rio Grande and Cape Horn, who speak the Spanish language and draw their culture from Spanish sources, but that is the sole common bond among them. A number of them have a colonial history older than ours.

If the race had remained pure the various climates alone would have wrought great differentiations. But, in addition, the peoples to the south of us have mixed with the native Indians, and among the Indians of the various sections of the American continent lie differences greater than those between Germans and Italians or Celts and Slavs.

VASTLY DIFFERENT

These peoples of Central and South America never think of themselves as Latin Americans, but as Peruvians or Bolivians or Costa Ricans. Lumping them together offends a fierce instinctive patriotism. We have learned that already in the first leg of the Hoover tour.

He called at the back door of three of the Central American republics and then hobbed through magnificent scenery to the capital of the fourth. Even this mere glance gave us the feeling of the essential differences among them.

In Honduras we felt the pre-eminent masculine atmosphere—like our old West. The Salvadoreans, under their exquisite Spanish manners, seemed brisk and business-like. The Nicaraguans wore an air of sociability. Finally, the tight little republic of Costa Rica, which prides itself on its poets and novelists, its university and the fact that it has more teachers of higher learning than soldiers, held out its hand to us with an air of cultivated courtesy.

NORTHCOTT OPENS UP

Talks Without Confessing

Murder Farm Suspect Makes Damaging Statements in Long Session

Prosecuting Officer Doubts Value of Admissions; Arrives Here Today

BY JAMES M. KENDRICK
Times Staff Representative

ON BOARD WEST COAST LIMITED, Nov. 28. (Exclusive)—Sitting at a table in his prison car with a deck of cards spread out in front of him, Gordon Stewart Northcott, suspected slayer of four youths on his Riverside county farm, today alternately played poker with his guards who are bringing him back to stand trial, joked, hysterically wept and made damaging admissions—all with apparent equal facility.

But, according to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Redwine of Riverside county, who is in charge of the prison car, the young suspected slayer did not tell the officers anything that can be used by the prosecution to convict him of the crimes with which he is charged and it is doubtful that he ever will make a full confession, although he did break down under a long grilling and say that he "might sign a confession in court."

Throughout the day Northcott's statements and actions varied as his mood changed. He answered few questions directly and these, which at times reached incriminating proportions, grew in conflicting proportions as his attitude changed.

TRANSPORTED BODY

Northcott's most damaging statements were in reference to the body of a heedless Mexican youth, with whose murder he is charged, according to the officers.

These statements the officers interpreted to be tantamount to a confession by Northcott that he took the body from the Riverside county ranch to a point near Fuenta, where it was later discovered, after burning for days.

The prisoner admitted to Redwine that he killed the Mexican, but from further remarks by him the officials deducted that he intended to convey the idea that the Mexican was killed with a .22-caliber rifle and a pistol and that he would not tell where the killing took place until he is taken to court, if at all.

Interrogated as to why the body was disposed of near Fuenta, Northcott replied:

"If I killed the Mexican as you say I did why shouldn't I dump the body near Fuenta, where Mexicans predominate?"

During a discussion of the case at another time he asked:

"If you were held up by a man and the .22-bullet you shot him with didn't seem to have any effect wouldn't you use a revolver of a higher caliber to finish him with?"

WINSLOW BOYS

He emphatically denied ever knowing either of the Winslow boys or the Collins youth whom Sanford Clark, his nephew, said were murdered at the Wineville ranch.

"Why, there are hundreds of boys who disappear every year and of whom there is nothing ever heard," he said. "These boys are just as likely to reappear in some part of the country a year or ten years from now and if you haven't got the bodies how are you going to identify them?"

In the next breath and without warning, Northcott declared:

"Oh, I might plead guilty to anything to save my mother. I might walk into the courtroom and tell anything that will prevent the real truth from coming out."

Asked what he meant by "the real truth," the youth replied:

"Oh, there is always the real truth about everything but that will be worked out in time."

Throughout his conversation Northcott repeatedly denied any of the crimes against him and he once told Redwine that he might decide to fight every charge against him.

At another time when he was questioned about the boys his

GUESTS FIND HOST SUICIDE

Playwright Ira Remsen Invites Dinner Party and Then Kills Himself in Festal Room

CARMEL, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—The instinct to dramatize that had been the motif of life for Ira Remsen until the time when the rejection of a play brought brooding that impaired his health, prompted him to invite a group of friends to a Thanksgiving dinner today and then shoot himself before the guests arrived. George Ball, manager of the Carmel Players, in the vanguard of those invited, found the body sprawled in a room where he expected to find a table laden with the delicacies of a Thanksgiving repast.

Remsen was 51 years of age and was the son of the late Ira Remsen, internationally known chemist and former president of Johns Hopkins University. On his own merits he had developed recognition as a portrait painter, poet, playwright, clubman and scholar.

Many of his shorter works had been produced by the Carmel Players, an organization imbued with the urge to present the better class of artistry, and by other amateur organizations. In addition to his other activities, he not only had found time, but had appeared to take keen delight, as a member of the San Francisco Bohemian Club, in printing that organization's annual "newspaper" for the summer "hijinx" in the club's redwood grove on the Russian River. The "newspaper" is conspicuous in that it never contains actual news items, but cartoons, poems and puns directed at members.

Remsen left no note to explain his act, but friends said evident worry over the recent rejection of a play forwarded to New York seemed to sap his strength almost immediately and his health failed rapidly thereafter. He was divorced in 1926 by Mrs. Helen Yoder Remsen and had lived alone here since.

nephew said were killed on the ranch. Northcott shot back:

"What do I know about the Winslow boys and young Walter Collins? Why, I don't even know that they are dead, if they are dead."

BECOMES QUESTIONER

Throughout the evening of intensive questioning by Redwine, James R. Quinn, Albert L. Kelley and Deputy Sheriff Bright, who are returning Northcott to Southern California, the youth continued to vacillate from one statement to another. Northcott, however, appeared to be most interested in the case of the headless Mexican and often turned from the role of the questioned prisoner to interrogator.

"How much do you know about the dumping of this Mexican's body where you said it was found?" Northcott asked officials. "It seems to me like you are assuming quite a good deal."

Throughout the early part of the evening, Northcott played stud poker with Quinn and Kelley in the compartment of the prison car, in which he is riding. During the entire card game, Northcott lost hand after hand. Without any indication of ill feeling, he finally threw down his hand:

"I hope you are not as lucky in the courts of Riverside and Los Angeles as you are in cards."

Immediately after abandoning the card game, the youth reopened the subject of the murdered Mexican. According to the officers, at one time he declared the Mexican was killed in Riverside, and then asserted he was just giving them "a run for your money."

"That man has been coached so conscientiously against signing his name to anything or making any admission that he would not even sign the immigration register as he entered the United States," Redwine said.

REFUSED TO SIGN

The Riverside prosecutor then revealed that Northcott got into an argument with border officials and despite their many efforts to get him to affix his signature to the register he persistently refused. The immigration officers, finally forced to sign for the prisoner, made the entry read: "Undesirable alien in custody of police officers being returned to America to answer to the crime of murder," according to Redwine.

Northcott laughed at the entry, Redwine said tonight.

In discussing his doubt that the youth will ever confess, Redwine stated that he is unable to extract anything from the youth that can be used directly by the prosecution to convict him of any of the murders with which he is charged.

HISTORY OF FOUR MURDERS FACED BY NORTHCOTT

A tale of four murders told by a youthful kinsman and the discovery by officers of bits of hair and skull bone declared to be human near what is asserted to be blood-splotched quicklime graves form the strongest links in the amazing chain of evidence entangling Gordon Stewart Northcott with the Wineville chicken ranch investigations.

Specifically he is charged with four murders but there is corpus delicti for only one. The persons named in the indictments against Northcott as victims are:

(1.) Walter Collins, 10 years of age, who disappeared from his home March 10, last.

(2.) Lewis Winslow, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Winslow of Pomona, who on May 16 went adventuring with his brother:

(3.) Nelson Winslow, 9. The last word from the brothers came in a letter from them which was posted to the mother from Corona.

(4.) An unidentified dark-skinned youth, whose body was found February 2 near Puente, nude, decapitated and wrapped in burlap. He had been shot through the heart with a .22-caliber bullet. Northcott is asserted to have killed the youth at 1239 Britannia street and severed the head.

NEPHEW'S CHARGES

Sanford Wesley Clark, 15-year-old nephew of the accused man, was the first to make revelations concerning the Wineville ranch where the three boys are asserted to have met death. He made the statements while he was being questioned by immigration authorities.

Young Clark is a Canadian. His sister, Jessie Clark of Saskatoon, Sask., Can., came to the Wineville ranch to visit her brother August 18, last.

Miss Clark said she learned that Northcott was mistreating her small brother and that when she remonstrated she was beaten and threatened with death by Northcott. It was then that she became suspicious and wrung from her brother the story of the asserted murders.

TELLS HER STORY

Horrified by the revelations, Miss Clark returned to Canada where she told the American consul at Vancouver, on August 26, the story of the murder farm, asserting that her brother, virtually a prisoner at the ranch, had been brough into the United States on false entry papers.

At the instance of the consul young Clark was taken in custody by the immigration authorities and to them told a weird story of young boys slugged to death with an ax and the bodies disposed of in quicklime.

On August 31, a day after young Clark was taken in custody and placed in Juvenile Hall here, Northcott and his mother, Mrs. Louisa Northcott, sold the ranch furnishings and disappeared, heading for Canada, where he was captured September 18 at Okanagan Landing, B. C., and she at Calgary two days later.

After young Clark had told his story over and over again without discrepancy, one of the most penetrating investigations ever staged in Southern California was begun by Los Angeles and Riverside county officers.

KILLED COLLINS FIRST

Walter Collins was the first to be killed, young Clark said in his statement. The boy was sitting in a henhouse at the Wineville ranch, he said, when Northcott, his mother and he went into the place.

The Clark lad said he attracted young Collins' attention and Northcott swung the axe, striking the body again and again.

Lewis Winslow was the next to go, he said. The little chap was sitting on a stool in the henhouse, playing with toys. Again he accused his uncle of swinging the heavy double-bitted ax.

A few minutes later, Clark said, Nelson Winslow, who was in the ranch-house, was slain in a like manner.

BURIED IN QUICKLIME

All the bodies, according to the story, were buried in quicklime but later Northcott forced young Clark to exhume them and scatter the quicklimed remains around the yard.

Cyrus Northcott, father of the accused man, is under arrest as a material witness. To officers he said his son is "a peculiar boy" and admitted hearing some strange talk between his wife and son about "killing people."

While the international search was on for Northcott and his mother, the authorities went over the ranch in minute searches. Bits of hair and bone were discovered. Chemists said they are of human origin.

In the Britanna street house the officers found a double-bitted ax, spoken of by Clark. In that house, the officers say the dark-skinned youth was shot to death and his head chopped off by Northcott. The head was taken in a bucket, they say, to the ranch, where it was burned; the body thrown on the highway at Puente.

IMPOSTOR ARRIVES

The disappearance of the Collins boy had a dramatic sequel in Los Angeles, when an impostor, Walter Hutchins of De Kalb, Illinois, was returned to Mrs. Christine Collins and harbored by her for several days. Finally she decided the boy was not her son. She so told police and was committed to the psychopathic ward by Capt. Jones.

After she had been sent to the ward, the Hutchins youth admitted he was an imposter and knew nothing of the Collins case.

A bitter controversy over committing Mrs. Collins to the psychopathic ward arose and after several official hearings Capt. Jones was suspended from duty for four months.

Search for the missing Northcotts centered in Canada, their former home, and September 18 the Riverside grand jury indicted the Northcotts on charges of murdering Walter Collins and the Winslow boys, and Gordon Northcott for statutory offenses against the Clark boy.

Then began a long fight for extradition. Papers sent by Riverside authorities to Sacramento for signature of Gov. Young were found to be faulty and more time was consumed redrafting them.

In the meantime Los Angeles officials entered into the case when the grand jury returned an indictment on October 3 charging Northcott with murder of the headless Mexican boy.

Extradition papers were completed in this State and forwarded to Secretary of State Kellogg on October 8. Delays and postponements in Vancouver and Calgary resulted in action on extradition being held up until October 21, when Mrs. Northcott was ordered returned to this country, and the 8th inst., when Gordon's extradition was granted.

RIVERSIDE PROSECUTOR EXPECTS CONVICTION

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 29. (Exclusive) When Dist.-Atty. Ford was informed of Gordon Stewart Northcott's damaging admissions on the train bearing the young prisoner from Canada, he expressed himself as gratified with the latest development in the case. He said he is confident of a speedy conviction for first-degree murder.

Under orders from the District Attorney, no one was permitted to see Northcott's father, Cyrus Northcott, in the detention ward of the County Hospital. Sanford Clark, the nephew whose tale to the police was the first intimation of the asserted murders, and his sister, Jessie Clark, today were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Morton in Elsinore for Thanksgiving dinner.

The boy has been under guard ever since he told his story to the police but he was allowed to go to the Morton home today in the custody of Loyal C. Kelley, his sister's attorney.

HICKMAN'S CELL FOR NORTHCOTT

County Jail Makes Ready to Take Prisoner

Cars from Sheriff's Office Will Meet Train

When Gordon Stewart Northcott enters the County Jail today after he is taken off the train bringing him to Los Angeles he will find waiting for him Cell No. 1 in Tank 10-B2, the cell occupied for several weeks by William Edward Hickman, who died on the gallows recently for the murder of little Marion Parker.

The cell is not particularly set aside for the housing of suspects in murder cases but it is close to the attorneys' visiting room and sooner or later almost every one who is charged with a major crime finds a temporary abode there because it is more convenient for trips to the visiting room than from any other cell in the jail.

No special preparations have been made for the reception of Northcott and he will be treated like any other prisoner, jail officials said last night. They are uncertain as to just how long he will be kept here or whether he will be taken almost at once to Riverside for trial nor did they know what plans are being made aboard the prison car in connection with Northcott's movements here.

Two automobiles from the Sheriff's office will meet the train to bear Northcott and his guards to the jail. The exact time and place at which the cars will meet the train will be determined early today after telegraphic advices are received from the officers in charge of the prisoner.

NORTHCOTT STORY TOLD CLARK GIRL

Witness Against Prisoner Hears of Revelations at Thanksgiving Party

ELSINORE, Nov. 29. (Exclusive) Jessie Clark, 18 years of age, sister of Sanford Clark and one of the State's star witnesses in the murder charges involving her young uncle, took the news of Northcott's damaging admissions while aboard the southbound prison car today "composed and very calmly," according to George W. Morton, Sr., at whose home here she is residing.

"We had a Thanksgiving party, and a very happy one at that," Mr. Morton said. "Miss Clark and her brother, Sanford, were entertained by my wife and myself, Sanford having been brought over by a deputy sheriff from the Riverside detention ward."

Long after dinner, the Thanksgiving Day host stated, news came to the house of Northcott's statements.

"We read the details at 4 o'clock this afternoon and neither Sanford nor Miss Clark appeared troubled to us," he added. "Later Miss Clark's brother was taken back to the detention ward while Jessie went visiting friends."

MARYLAND HAS EQUATOR RITES

Davy Jones Boards Ship as Neptune's Envoy

Elaborate Dinner Served Guests and Crew

U.S.S. MARYLAND, EN ROUTE TO GUAYAQUIL (Ecuador) Nov. 29. (AP)—This was a day of alternate thanksgiving and trembling aboard the battleship Maryland as the mighty craft, carrying Herbert Hoover, President-elect, and his party neared the equator on its voyage to Guayaquil, its next port of call.

In consequence of the Thanksgiving holiday the ship observed Sunday routine. There was a divine service on the quarterdeck which was attended by both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover. This was followed later with an elaborate dinner, not only for the President-elect and his party, but for all the crew.

Dinner concluded, the Maryland was brought to a dead halt momentarily while Davy Jones, personal agent of His Majesty, King Neptune, came aboard to issue subpoenas to all those who have not until now crossed the equator. These were summonses to appear for initiations tomorrow on the forecastle deck where a ducking tank has been rigged up.

WORK ON "POLLYWOGS"

Jones was presented to Capt. Kimberly and the President-elect formally as soon as he came over the side of the vessel; then he repaired to the quarterdeck where the subpoena ceremony was enacted.

Even before his arrival, however, the "shellbacks," as those who have crossed the equator before are known, were busy working on the "pollywogs"—as those who haven't are known. Some of these latter had been placed in the brig, others being chained up on the deck by their necks, wrists and feet.

In the course of the religious services which were conducted by the chaplain, Lieutenant-Commander Huske, in a drizzling rain which continued intermittently throughout the day, prayers were offered for the recovery of King George of England and others who are ill.

INVITATIONS RENEWED

Mr. Hoover let it be known today that he is anticipating with the greatest pleasure his visits to South American cities, the first of which will be made Saturday at Guayaquil. A number of invitations, once acted upon, are being renewed and received on the Maryland. Notable among these is one to stop at Arica, Chile but it is unknown whether it will be possible to include this halt in the trip.

The abundant spirit of friendship and welcome manifested in Central America has given rise to the hope of substantial realization of good will in the South American republics also.

Mr. Hoover was particularly interested in feeling manifested in both Nicaragua and Costa Rica favoring the construction of a Nicaraguan canal. Central American observers seemed to think that the time inevitably will come when the United States must give serious study to such a project.

ENGLAND PLANS GOOD-WILL FLIGHT TO SOUTH AMERICA

RIO JANEIRO (Brazil) Nov. 29. (AP)—Europe's reaction toward the Latin-American trip of President-elect Hoover has aroused much interest in the Rio Janeiro press, which says that the publicity which American products thus indirectly receive apparently is worrying European exporters.

The Jornal Do Brazil, for instance, says that an announcement in London that a fleet of airplanes will soon make a good-will visit to South America is the first European step toward combating the effects of Mr. Hoover's visit and to call attention to British goods.

The Jornal says that the vast undeveloped markets of Brazil have been the special objects of European concern in recent years. The European nations see the Hoover visit as threatening to cut their exports and to turn the demands of South Americans more and more toward American products. The paper also says that the recent flights and demonstrations of American aviators in various South American countries also appears to be a reason for the proposed flight of the British planes to South America.

WALES PLAYS GOLF AND ATTENDS DANCE

DAR ES SALAAM (Tanganyika) Nov. 29. (AP)—The Prince of Wales played eighteen holes of golf this afternoon in a foursome with members of his staff and this evening attended a quiet informal dance, at which ceremonious dress was ignored. The Prince himself wore a lounge suit and a characteristic East Africa Blue Shirt.

He arrived an hour after dancing had begun and, although manifestly in the best of health, he looked careworn and preoccupied and took a very unobtrusive part in the festivities. He danced with Lady Cameron, wife of the Governor, and two or three others, and then returned to the government house.

It is understood he has declined an invitation to a public dinner Saturday, wishing to avoid festivities as much as possible.

HOOVER FINDING LATINS CORDIAL

company of soldiers met the President-elect of the United States at the dock. Costa Rica has only two or three commanding officers for its 500 or 600 soldiers, and the people consider this all that is necessary. Instead, the Hoover party was met by journalists from San Jose and local literateurs, all courteously eager to help and inform and these took charge of the American correspondents.

All of this courtesy was the more touching because we landed in Costa Rica in the midst of a national disaster, more serious in proportion to the resources of the country than our Mississippi floods.

It was the first news of this disaster, with its destruction of the roads and the annihilation of the railroads, which made us believe two days before that we could not visit San Jose. But the disaster occurred not on the Pacific side of the country, but on the Atlantic, where the unprecedented rains ran lime cataracts down the sides of the twin volcanoes, Irasu and Corriallav, and wiped out the best coffee district.

SIX YEARS TO RECOVER

It will be six years before these plantations produce again and for three months all communications between the Atlantic coast and the the capital must be by boat through the Panama Canal.

The mountain range of Costa Rica, up which climbing looks easy at first, is much like the Appalachian of our Atlantic coast, except it is more pleasing and broken. On a second inspection the real difference comes out in the scattered palms and close banana groves and in the large yellow and purple flowers.

The farm houses along the way, one-storied with red tiled roofs, are well kept. From doorways, men in high-crowned hats and women in bright yellow dresses, with an indescribable Spanish cut at the neck, waved and smiled at us as we passed. The day was only pleasantly warm, with a cooling mountain breeze.

Overhead, the vultures in the distance seemed beautiful, with their build of an airplane and their free soaring flight. While we were at the station in San Jose, one of these privileged scavengers lit in friendly proximity to inspect us. In spite of its evil reputation, it is a rather presentable bird.

HEAVILY LOADED

The work of loading goes on rapidly all day and tomorrow, when the City of New York leaves the harbor she will be heavily laden. No load can spoil her seagoing qualities, however, and Capt. Melville insists she is the stoutest and best sailing little bark in the world.

"Let the gales blow," is Capt. Melville's motto. "She'll ride 'em like a duck."

The City of New York will have a big deck load as one and probably two of the planes will be loaded on her and the space between and over the main hatch will be used to house a lot of the dogs. There will be dogs all over the ship wherever they can be tied.

One portable house will also be taken on the bark and as much gasoline as is necessary to provide for flying until the steamer Eleanor Boiling arrives at the ice barrier base.

HOOVER FILES FINAL REPORT

Department of Commerce Activity Shown

Railroads Prosper and Air Business Grows

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Herbert Hoover's last official pronouncement as a servant of the government before his election as President was made public today in the form of the annual report of the Commerce Department for the fiscal year 1928, which closed June 30, last.

The department's keynote stressed "the remarkable continuity of the prosperity of the United States during recent years and its prevailingly upward trend." In the foreword, usually the Secretary's own production, the steadiness of prices, the improvements in transportation, and the phenomena of finance were treated, while agriculture was given a special study.

"Viewing the agricultural situation as a whole, no very marked difference appears between conditions in the fiscal year 1927-28 and the preceding fiscal year," Mr. Hoover's section said. "The crops harvested in the autumn of 1927 were in the aggregate of approximately the same magnitude as those of 1926 and larger than in any previous year except 1918 and 1920.

INCREASE SLOW

"It is true that the increase in agricultural production both over a long period of time and during recent years has been decidedly less rapid than that in the production of manufactured and mineral products. The demand for farm products, which are for the most part necessities of life, tends to increase little if any more rapidly than population. On the other hand, there is practically no limit to the demand for manufactured commodities, many of which are in the nature of semiluxuries or luxuries. Even if the need for one type is fully met, new and more highly elaborated articles are constantly coming into use with the advancing standards of living and of the equipment for production."

Turning to another field, the report remarked that "during the past seven or eight years, the amount of construction (of buildings) in the United States has been unparalleled in the history of this or any other important country."

"This high activity reflects both expansion of the equipment of industry and commerce," Mr. Hoover's report said, after giving the figures of the continuation, "and marked improvement in the quality of that equipment, and, above all, in the quality of the homes of the people."

SERVICE ADEQUATE

Railroads were said to "have continued to furnish adequate and efficient service and to enjoy large traffic and revenues."

"The betterment of railway service has been the result of effort on the part of railway companies themselves," it was added, "and of cooperation on the part of shippers and receivers of merchandise. The railway companies have improved their roadbeds and equipment. The co-operation of business men has been particularly conspicuous in the form of regional advisory boards of the American Railway Association."

Analyzing the movement of gold to Europe, with the fluctuating reserve bank rate that has accompanied it, and the resulting swings in bank deposits, it was said that after making allowance for "the extraordinary volume of trading on the stock exchanges," the situation indicated "a healthy state of business activity."

The country's foreign trade was illustrated by special report sections prepared by Dr. Julius Klein, the department's director in that activity. Canada's emergence as the best customer of the United States, displacing Great Britain from a long-held post, was noted, and the conclusion was expressed that international exchanges for the year had brought about "very heavy new investments of American capital in foreign countries."

EXPORTS EXPAND

Expansion in the export of manufactured goods, Dr. Klein said, in presenting a study prepared with the assistance of E. Dana Durand of the foreign trade statistics section, was the most remarkable fact disclosed.

"The efficiency of American production, the vigorous efforts of American business men in finding markets and the active aid in promoting trade," the report declared, "have borne fruit which must furnish satisfaction to all classes of our people. Notwithstanding the exceptionally self-sufficient position of the United States, our high standards of living demand the import of a number of important and many minor commodities which the country itself cannot produce.

"The task of finding foreign markets for American products has met with noteworthy measure of success."

AIR MILES INCREASE

W. P. McCracken, assistant secretary for aeronautics, declared in an accompanying report that there had been "phenomenal progress in every phase of the industry" during the year. He remarked "unprecedented increase in air transport service alone," which had resulted in increasing the regularly flown air-route mileage in the country from 8395 miles to 11,191. Railroad interest in the field had brought about co-operation, and the development of betterments had made more usable machines available.

"Commercial aeronautics is no longer on the threshold," he concluded. "It has entered the business world, and without subsidy has become an integral part of American industry and transportation. There is every indication of still greater growth during the ensuing biennial period."

Plot Aiding Midwest Group Charged in Action

Plaintiffs Assert Improper Letting of Lease

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Nov. 29. (AP)—Judgment for $10,000,000 asserted to be the value of petroleum taken from certain lands in the Grass Creek oil field of Wyoming, is asked by Roy Henderson and Frank J. Bon, both of Cheyenne, in an amended petition filed in a suit against the Midwest Refining Company, which they originally instituted in March, 1927. The land involved in the action, the plaintiffs claim, is owned by the State of Wyoming and operated under lease by the defendant corporation.

The amended petition of the plaintiffs set forth a series of asserted transactions following the filing by Henderson on May 14, 1914, of an application for a lease on the land. Under the circumstances then existing, the plaintiffs assert, "the allowance of a lease to Henderson by the land board became and was a purely ministerial act imposed by the clear command of law." The plaintiffs charge, however, a conspiracy through which the land was leased to applicants other than Henderson. They claim the value of the petroleum which has been taken from the land, which they estimate at $10,000,000.

Individuals named in the plaintiff's petition are Senator Kendrick, then Governor of Wyoming; Herman B. Gates, then State Treasurer; Frank L. Houk, then Secretary of State; S. O. Hopkins, then State Commissioner of Public Lands; T. Y. Taylor, Charles Orchard, Leslie A. Miller, H. S. Ridgely, William Irvine, John F. Arnott, E. E. Lonabaugh, Edward B. Good, William Hines and Henry M. Blackmer of Denver, then president of the Midwest Refining Company. The Greybull Refining Company and the Midwest Refining Company are asserted to have been involved.

On motion of the Midwest company the case is to be transferred to the Federal Court, for Wyoming from the District Court of Cheyenne.

OLD DOMINION FETES COOLIDGE

President Spends Holiday in Varied Activity

Thirty-pound Gobbler Pays Final Tribute

SWANNANOA CLUB, NEAR WAYNESBORO (Va.) Nov. 29. (AP) A bountiful Thanksgiving dinner was prepared for President and Mrs. Coolidge this evening at the Swannanoa Country Club, the secluded mountain mansion where they are spending the holiday week-end.

True to tradition, the principal course was turkey. A huge gobbler, weighing more than thirty pounds, was provided for the Presidential table by Virginia friends. Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge dined alone, as the only guests whom they had invited to accompany them into Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, were unable to go because of the illness of Mrs. Stearns.

BUSY DAY

The dinner came at the end of a day of many varied activities which included attendance at church, an informal luncheon reception and a college football game.

First of all, the President tested his marksmanship and a new gun in some clay pigeon shooting on the vast estate which surrounds the Swannanoa Club. Knowing of Mr. Coolidge's fondness for this form of recreation, in which he had his initiation last summer during his vacation in Wisconsin, the club had provided traps for his stay here. At a distance of forty yards the Chief Executive succeeded in breaking seventeen out of twenty-five flying targets.

The shooting over, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge motored to Charlottesville for church services. For Thanksgiving and the President's coming, all the Protestant churches of the city united in services at the First Baptist Church. The sermon was delivered by Rev. J. W. Moore, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

MEETS GOVERNOR

At the conclusion of the services, the President met Gov. Byrd of Virginia and Gov. McLean of North Carolina and with them posed for photographs on the steps of the church.

From the church the President and Mrs. Coolidge went to the home of Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, where they were guests of honor at a luncheon. Included in a small party, which was invited to meet the President there, was Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the war-time President.

After luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were spectators for a short time at the Virginia-North Carolina football game and then returned to the Swannanoa Club for dinner.

The President's plans for tomorrow are indefinite. He has accepted no invitations and the day probably will be spent in resting at the club, with a little clay-pigeon shooting and possibly an automobile ride for diversion.

INSTANTANEOUS TRANSLATIONS TO MARK PAN-AMERICAN MEET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—When the delegates from twenty-one nations meet at the Pan-American Building in Washington December 10, at the conciliation and arbitration congress, a new method of instantaneous translation is to be demonstrated by the State Department in honor of the distinguished guests.

Each visitor will find ready on the table in front of him a special telephone head set which may be used at will, and this installation is to be connected by a special arrangement of wires with the microphone on the platform, where Charles Evans Hughes will preside.

Special translators are to be seated near by with microphones in front of them and as speeches are made in English or in other languages from the platform these will be instantly translated by the expert for the benefit of the visiting delegates. Thus if a speech is in French, and the guest understands only Spanish, he need only apply his individual set of head phones and "listen in" to a skilled translation of that speech in his native tongue.

Behind the scenes will be a large control board in charge of a radio engineer from the Bell Telephone Company and two experts will assist him in controlling the volume which must be adjusted to the speaker's voice in each case. A couple of wagon loads of amplifying equipment is now being collected by the company, according to Charles B. Graham, the radio executive who is acting as liaison officer for this interesting novelty, which long has been thought of but never before accomplished.

DUCE PRAISES GIRL ON FASCIST THESIS

ROME, Nov. 29. (AP)—Premier Mussolini today received in audience Miss Carmen Haider of New York, who holds a degree from Columbia University for a thesis on the fascist government which is considered here to be one of the best done by a foreigner. Miss Haider came to Italy to pursue her studies. Premier Mussolini complimented her on the thesis and said it showed a thorough knowledge of his principles and the way they were being carried out. He encouraged her to persevere in her new investigations.

FRIEND OF LAME CHILDREN DIES

Ex-Mayor of Minneapolis Aided Cripples

Fortune of Million Given to Finance Hospital

Eustis Would Not Let His Name be Used

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 29. (AP)—William Henry Eustis, philanthropist and former Mayor of Minneapolis, died at his hotel suite here late today. He was 83 years of age. Mr. Eustis had been seriously ill for several weeks.

The apparently hopeless dream of a destitute crippled boy was realized in the life of Mr. Eustis, founder of a $1,000,000 hospital and home for crippled children of the Northwest. In March, 1923, in his seventy-eighth year, Mr. Eustis deeded sixty-five acres of beautiful wooded property, central to Minneapolis and St. Paul and overlooking the Mississippi River, to the city and to the University of Minnesota to provide sites for the famous Dowling School for Crippled and for the hospital and home of his dreams.

Mr. Eustis then pledged funds to build and endow the hospital, totaling $1,500,000—his entire fortune. He stipulated that the trust should not carry his name "since the name of the donor will, in a generation or two, at most, be forgotten."

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LUMBER AND PAPER COMPANIES TO MERGE

FIVE MINNESOTA CONCERNS WILL ENTER CONSOLIDATION TOMORROW

DULUTH, Nov. 29. (AP)—The News Tribune today announced the contemplated merger of five Cloquet (Minn.) concerns dealing in lumber, railway transportation, paper and several other commodities. The companies involved, according to the newspaper, are the Northwest Paper Company, the Northern Lumber Company, the Duluth and Northeastern Railway Company, the Cloquet Lumber Company, the Johnson-Wentworth Company and their several subsidiaries.

The consolidation of these firms is to take place Saturday, the paper said.

The Northwest Paper Company is to take over the other firms and the consolidation will operate under the name of the former.

The combined company next year is said to plan to cut 100,000,000 feet of lumber. The output of the combine will include lumber products, crating, newsprint, kraft and other kinds of paper.

ASHES AND BONE FOUND MAY SOLVE MYSTERY

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 29. (AP)—Investigation into the disappearance of Mrs. Ella Rogers, Louisville widow, who vanished from a fashionable apartment here October 7, last, was held up today pending return to the city of Dr. Vernon Robins, city chemist. Dr. Robins, who is expected to arrive next Tuesday, will be called upon to determine if ashes and a piece of bone found in the furnace of the apartment from which Mrs. Rogers disappeared are the remains of a burned human body. Meanwhile, search of health resorts of the South is being conducted.

MURDERESS ELECTED TO GUILLOTINE

Husband Slayer in France Joins Three Others of Sex Awaiting Knife for Crimes

VERSAILLES (France)— Nov. 29. (AP)—Anne Brucy was sentenced today to death for the murder of her husband. This makes her the fourth woman in France awaiting the guillotine, unless clemency is granted by President Doumergue.

Mme. Brucy was convicted of killing her husband to collect insurance equivalent to about $400 in American money. While he slept she opened all the gas jets in his bedroom and later reported his "accidental death."

She will join in the deathhouse Theresa Kures, Serbian woman awaiting the guillotine for kidnaping and murdering a little girl; Jeanne David, sentenced to death for choking to death her 10-year-old stepson with a sponge, and Blanche Fabre, who killed a stepson by stabbing.

While France ordinarily looks askance at the execution of a woman, a strong sentiment is growing that the President should refrain from exercising clemency in these cases, especially of the women who wantonly murdered children.

SHIPS RUSH TO RESCUE FREIGHTER

Chief Maquilla Reports Flooding of Engine Room and Boats Washed Away

SEATTLE, Nov. 29. (AP)—A message from the Chief Maquilla, freighter reported in distress early this morning, picked up by the Seattle harbor radio late today said the engine room is flooded, the starboard lifeboats washed away and the starboard bunker hatches stove in. An earlier message from the Montreal Maru said that at 2 p.m. she was 100 miles from the stricken vessel. Three other ships also are rushing to give aid.

The Chief Maquilla has a Chinese crew with white officers. Capt. E. K. Scott, Wiltshire, Eng., is in command.

Robber Targets Nailed Oftener

CHICAGO, Nov. 29. (AP)—John Stege, deputy police commissioner, pointed out today that ten robbers have been killed by policemen since William F. Russell became commissioner of police August 1.

This number is greater, Stege said, than were killed during the entire sixteen months regime of Commissioner Russell's predecessor, "Go-get-'em Mike" Hughes.

LOVE MURDER WIDOW DISAPPEARS WITH SON

BALTIMORE, Nov. 29. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Beatin, 21 years of age, widow of Thomas Beatin, who was fatally shot last Sunday when he discovered his wife in the apartment of Frederick Ledbetter, disappeared today after taking her 4-year-old son from the home of friends. Mrs. Beatin was released on $500 bail yesterday as a material witness in the shooting for which Ledbetter, her asserted sweetheart, is charged with murder.

DIMPLED KNEES LOSE STIGMA

Will of Man Who Proffered Cornell $1,000,000 for Sex Ban Didn't Have It

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—The marcelled heads of Cornell co-eds no longer need be bowed by the thought that their dimpled knees have cost their alma mater $1,000,000.

For today the will of Hayward Kendall of Cleveland and New York was probated here and it revealed that the Cornell alumnus did not have the million he offered to the university he called a "misfit" if it would give the air to "caste, co-eds and sexy characteristics."

The knees of the girl students particularly bothered Kendall, and he condemned co-ed dresses that revealed them. Kendall died the 19th inst. and his will as filed today disposed of an estate of only $690,000.

U. S. Atty. Tuttle Has Only Few Witnesses Left

Nature of Opinions to be Rendered in Doubt

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—The end of two official inquiries into the loss of the liner Vestris is in prospect for tomorrow.

Tuttle, conducting the government's investigation, and a Department of Commerce board, reviewing an examination of the Vestris by steamboat inspectors, had taken the testimony of scores of survivors, officers and shipping experts. Only the examination of a few more witnesses remains before the hearings are concluded.

Both Tuttle and Supervising Inspector-General Hoover of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service of the Department of Commerce, indicated they expect to conclude their investigation tomorrow. It is not known when opinions will be given.

NAVY DISARMING STIRS ENGLAND

Britten's Plan for Conference Finds Champions

Cecil Wants Nation to Meet America Half-Way

Baldwin Refuses to Give Out His Policy

LONDON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Naval disarmament came back to open discussion in Great Britain today. Three factors contributed to this. They were: The proposal by Fred A. Britten of the naval affairs committee of the United States House of Representatives that his committee and a delegation from the House of Commons meet in Canada next March; the declaration of Viscount Cecil that Great Britain ought to meet the United States half-way, and an attempt by Sir Frederick Hall to get an official statement on naval policies by means of an interpolation today in the House of Commons.

URGE ACCEPTANCE

A considerable section of the press and several publicists urged that Mr. Britten's proposal be accepted. They pointed out that in addressing Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin direct Britten had shattered diplomatic precedents and had gone into official quarters with an unofficial project, but they argued that the plan was too good to lose because of that technicality. Several pointed out that Mr. Britten had closely paralleled an idea expressed last week by Lord Lee of Fareham, who suggested that a civilian representative of each country could get farther and go faster than conferences of naval experts.

Viscount Cecil, who was closely associated with Woodrow Wilson in working out the idea of the League of Nations, aroused much comment by advocating mathematical equality in the British American navies "in tons and guns."

BALDWIN EVASIVE

Premier Baldwin would not be "smoked out" when he replied to Sir Frederick Hall's question in the House. The inquiry was whether, as a preliminary to further discussion of naval armament by the League of Nations, the government will consider asking France and the United States to participate in a conference with Great Britain, in so far as the problem concerned the three countries.

Mr. Baldwin replied that the government was carefully considering what steps can usefully be taken to promote an agreement with regard to further naval limitations. He added:

"I doubt whether the specific expedient proposed by my honorable and gallant friend would be likely to attain the object which he evidently has in view."

CANADIANS ASK FRUIT PROTECTION

Emergency Tariff Urged to Balk Dumping of United States Surpluses

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Nov. 29. (AP) L. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, was asked by a delegation of business men and fruit growers today to use his influence to have Parliament pass emergency tariff legislation that would prevent United States firms from dumping surpluses from their fruit markets in Canada. No change in the existing tariff was asked. Statistics were presented to the Minister to indicate that the Okanagan Valley fruit industry was in danger under present conditions.

E. M. Black, chairman of the Committee of Direction under the British Columbia Produce Marketing Act, who headed the delegation, said after the meeting that Mr. Robb had promised full consideration and had expressed a desire to do everything feasible for the development of the industry.

Launch Owner Killed in Fight

NIAGARA FALLS (N. Y.) Nov. 29. (AP)—One man was shot dead and another wounded on Lake Ontario, near Fort Niagara today in a clash between Coast Guardsmen and a launch which the Federal authorities had instructions to seize on sight. Carl Anderson of Lewiston, reputed owner of the launch, was killed and Edmund Sahr, Niagara Falls, was wounded.

UNDER-WATER LOT DEALINGS DENIED

CHARGES AGAINST FLORIDA REALTY MEN DISPUTED BY WITNESS

GAINESVILLE (Ga.) Nov. 29. (AP) L. B. Whitfield of Montgomery, Ala., one-time president and majority stockholder of Whitfield Estates, Inc., of Sarasota, Fla., testified here today that no underwater lots in the estates had been sold or offered for sale, either by his corporation or by the Adair Realty and Trust Company of Atlanta, after they acquired the property.

Whitfield testified at the trial of four officials of the Adair concern, Forrest Adair, Sr., and his two sons, Forrest, Jr., and Frank, and E. A. Erwin, who are charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with sale of bonds for hotel projects in Little Rock, Birmingham and Knoxville.

VANCOUVER DENIES HOLDING FUGITIVE

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Nov. 29. (AP) A. E. Skinner, superintendent of immigration here, tonight denied that immigration officials were holding for deportation Paul Rubio Pane, wanted in San Francisco for violation of the prohibition law there.

AUTHOR, BROKER IN ROW

Winifred Stoner, Grown-up Wonder Child, Accuses Financier of Kicking Her in Fight Over Bracelet

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—"Indian giver" was the charge hurled today by Winifred Sackville Stoner, grown-up wonder child of the world, at Robert Loeb, her erstwhile broker-sweetie, who gave her a serious pain in the neck at the fashionable Sherry Netherlands Hotel Thanksgiving Eve.

Loeb was released by Magistrate Brodsky in night court for a hearing next Thursday. Today accompanied by her lawyer, Miss Stoner went to the hospital to have her pain X-rayed. She fears a dislocated shoulder.

If the former child prodigy, who is the author of several books, would stoop to paraphrase, she might describe the episode of her $8000 bracelet, with the larceny of which she expects to charge Loeb as "the Loeb giveth and the Loeb taketh away."

"KNOCKED HER DOWN"

"He gave me the bracelet some time ago," she explained today. "I asked him to have it repaired. Then I saw it on the arm of his female companion at the Sherry Netherlands last night."

The woman proved to be Mrs. Russell Kirby of Bronxville.

"My protests were met with haughty stares and rebuffs," Miss Stoner went on; "'Have this woman eliminated,' Mrs. Kirby said. Robert kept saying 'wait till afterward. I'll see you later' but I insisted on having my bracelet. They tried to escape from the hotel unnoticed but when I saw them I again demanded my bracelet and then Robert hit me and pushed me and knocked me down and kicked me. So naturally I called a policeman and had him arrested."

LOEB REMAINS SILENT

Loeb, who is reported to be a member of the Loeb family of the well-known Kuhn-Loeb & Co. banking house, was silent in the Dorset Hotel today.

"I will make no statement of any kind," he said.

Miss Stoner's friendship with the broker began over psychoanalysis. He was much interested in her mind, according to her lawyer, who was hastily summoned from Atlantic City following the episode.

She was married twice before she was 25 years of age, her first marriage ending in widowhood on her honeymoon. Her second marriage ended in divorce. Last year she was reported engaged to Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, and more than twice her age. While Colby's divorce was still pending she met Loeb, who, she says, persuaded her that Colby was too old for her.

Loeb, who denied the charge of disorderly conduct, was released on his own recognizance.

Vare's Election Quiz Lengthens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—The Senate elections subcommittee considering the contest of William B. Wilson, Democrat, against Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, will resume its consideration of the case Saturday.

Chairman Waterman of the committee believes it will be necessary to make an entire check of registration lists with the voters' tabulation, and if this is decided upon little hope is held out for completion of the contest at the approaching short session.

BELGIAN COAST STILL MENACED

Situation Following Storms Considered Critical

Broken Dikes Repaired in Hope of Resisting Tides

Red Cross Taking Care of 20,000 Persons

BRUSSELS, Nov. 29. (AP)—The situation along the Belgian coast as a result of the recent storm is critical in many places tonight. Enormous damage seems inevitable if the gales start afresh.

In Ostend, West End, Middlekerk and Blankenberg three-fourths of the houses are either unroofed or standing in water. The Middlekerk Casino is in danger of collapse and the promenades along the seafront are either badly damaged or in ruins and covered with sand. All electric car as well as channel boat services are suspended.

Despite improved weather floods still are spreading throughout the Province of Antwerp. Working day and night, 5000 soldiers have repaired most of the fifty-six breaks in dikes and these are expected to resist tonight's high tide.

In the city of Antwerp the people today were able to obtain drinking water in reduced quantities. Storms have undermined and broken the city mains.

Public relief funds have been opened in behalf of the inundated districts which the Queen visited yesterday. The Red Cross is caring for 20,000 people, many of whom are homeless or have lost all their possessions. An unofficial estimate places the total damage in the neighborhood of $5,000,000.

MACCABEES CHIEF QUITS OVER CLASH

Supreme Commander Frye Resigns "to Avert Possible Dissension in Order"

DETROIT, Nov. 29. (AP)—A. W. Frye, recently removed as Supreme Commander of the Maccabees by the board of directors pending the hearing of charges brought against him, has resigned to "avert possible internal dissension in the order."

The board of directors summoned Frye yesterday and announced they were unable to agree what action should be taken on charges brought by John E. Owen, general counsel of the order.

After a conference with his counsel Frye voluntarily presented his resignation to take effect immediately. The board accepted the resignation and appointed Daniel F. Markey, acting Supreme Commander since the suspension of Frye in September, to succeed him.

Markey will hold office until July when a regular election will be held.

No intimation of the charges against Frye was given by the board, but Frye said in a statement that he was charged with "Misconduct in office, incompetence and neglect of duty."

PROMOTION NOW AIR CORPS NEED

Davison Makes Report to Secretary of War

Low Ratings Impair Morale of Officers

Fatalities Greatly Reduced by Better Planes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Promotion of officers is the most pressing problem in the Air Corps of the Army, Assistant Secretary F. Trubee Davison told the Secretary of War today in his annual report, saying junior officers are performing duties all out of proportion to their rank and frequently of very hazardous character. As a result the officer morale is seriously impaired, he said. Secretary Davison urged a solution by legislation during the coming session of Congress.

Mr. Davison said that there is a shortage of aircraft in the Army.

"It now seems that the complete program should call for 2400 planes, rather than 1800," he declared. "However, before submitting a definite recommendation for an increase, one year's additional experience is desired in carrying out the second increment. A shortage of planes under the program is even more serious than a shortage of personnel. One of the fundamental reasons underlying this proposition is made clear in that there is a reserve of pilot personnel in the Air Corps, whereas nowhere is there a reserve of planes.

"Motor development in the Air Corps has been seriously handicapped by the fact that thousands of Liberty motors were left over from the war," he continued. "There are still more than 3000 on hand. These motors were designed ten years ago. They are now ten years old, during that decade there has been an enormous advance in design and construction. The Liberty motor is unreliable, inefficient, and uneconomical compared with modern motors, and Congress should not be asked to appropriate any more funds for planes equipped with them. They should be eliminated as rapidly as possible."

Mr. Davison reported that the corps flew 182,903 hours, or more than 18,000,000 miles, in the fiscal year just ended, with but twenty-seven fatal accidents, or an average of 677,400 miles to each fatality. There were forty-three fatalities the previous year while only 140,000 hours were flown, or 327,600 miles per fatality.

He said a careful analysis for the reasons for the more than 100 per cent improvement indicates that probably the major cause was that practically all wartime equipment has either been destroyed or declared obsolete and is no longer used. A second reason is that pilots are reaching a higher standard of pilot proficiency, he reported.

ROBBINS CITES NEED OF DEFENSE PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—The nation's need for a specific defense plan is emphasized by Assistant Secretary Robbins in his annual report to the Secretary of War.

"Although ten years have passed since the war, little real progress has been made toward placing our war-reserve stocks on a sound and enduring basis," the report says.

"It is possible to state within a reasonable degree of accuracy what the manufacturers of the country can contribute in new production to a war demand, declares Col. Robbins, "but to formulate a balance sheet and obtain and supply information as to what is needed in the mobilization of matehrial — reserve stocks—is not and cannot be possible until a specific defense plan is sufficiently forecast and delimited that the requirements thereunder may be determined."

Describing the preparation of such a plan as "the greatest need now confronting the army," Col. Robbins says the plan is not in any sense a mobilization plan, but a specific forecast of the effort required adequately to defend the nation from invasion during the period of industrial transposition.

"The executive approval of such a plan and legislative sympathy in such a plan," he declares, "it will be possible for the first time to submit for the attention of Congress a definite program for peace-time accumulation and maintenance of essential stocks."

UNITED STATES SEEMS TO HAVE ONE FRIEND IN EUROPE, ANYWAY

CAMBRIDGE (Eng.) Nov. 29. (AP) The university here approves of the United States. By a majority of 3-to-1 the Cambridge Union last night voted down the proposal that "the continued existence of the United States threatens the best interests of the world," which was debated before a large audience.

The voting result was due partly to a brilliant speech against the motion by Thomas H. Eliot of Cambridge, Mass., a grandson of Charles Eliot, former president of Harvard. Eliot, who holds a Harvard scholarship at Emmanuel College, so captured the audience that at times he scarcely could proceed because of the applause.

The other principal speakers included Melvin Kenny of Toronto, fo rthe motion, and Bernard Alexander of McGill University against it.

Dr. Starks, a Stanford graduate, competed with her own countrymen and with alumni of universities in Japan, Hungary, Italy, Greece and Central America.

Two Itinerants Arrested on Description of Girl

Then Eight-Year-Old Victim Admits She Did It All

ONTARIO, Nov. 29.—The lively imagination of an 8-year-old girl caused several hours of frenzied excitement for her parents and the police department, also several moments of anxiety for two hoboes picked up as bandit, kidnaper and robber suspects.

The little girl, Evelyn Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Preston, 1160 East A street, told a fantastic tale of having been captured by two thugs, who entered the Preston home while the parents were away.

GIRL TIED TO POST

After ransacking the house the pair tied the girl to a post outside the house, she told her parents and police. When discovered the little girl was tethered to a post and the house showed unmistakable signs of having been thoroughly ransacked. Drawers were open and their contents scattered about the floor.

The alarm was sounded by Mrs. G. W. Weaver, a neighbor, who was attracted to the Preston home by the loud weeping and wailing of Evelyn, bound to the post.

Police aided in searching the house, but Mr. and Mrs. Preston could find nothing missing. Evelyn gave a comprehensive description of two men she said had upset the home and tied her to the post. Working on the clews given by the girl, police rounded up two men who closely tallied to the descriptions. Taken before the girl, Evelyn said they were not the men who had attacked her.

FLAWS SEEN IN TALE

Chief of Police Axley then began to check up on the girl's story and discovered several flaws. Close questioning solved the case. She herself had upset the house, pulled the drawers out and thrown articles about broadcast, she said.

The idea of excitement coincident with a story of bandits in the house led her to the post in the yard, where she secured a stout rope and ordered her 3-year-old sister, Florence, to help tie the knots that held her to the post. Late last night force were called from the hunt for the supposed bandits, and the neighbors breathed easier.

Federal Expert Studies Ventura Airport Tracts

VENTURA, Nov. 29.—John E. Sommers, airport specialist for the United States Department of Commerce, spent several hours yesterday studying Ventura county's problem of air-field location. Sommers flew from Los Angeles and landed at the Ventura Airport. He was met there by members of the County Chamber of Commerce airport committee, including Jay Fetters, Carter Camp, Roy Pinkerton and Herbert Lyttle, chairman.

After luncheon the party was driven to the sites at Saticoy and Montalvo, which have been under consideration several months by the committee. Sommers gathered considerable data on both and will report his findings to Washington. It is expected that his report will be reviewed and released from Washington within a month. Pending the issuance of his written report Sommers would not commit himself on the relative merits of the locations examined.

He did say that, while he felt it would be desirable for each of the principal cities of the county to have a near-by field of its own, the cost of the necessary lands seemed to make such a plan out of the question and one central county airport advisable.

CITY CLERK WORRIED OVER TAX PAYMENTS

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 29.—City Clerk R. B. Wallace is in a quandary. The question which is worrying him is whether the city is going to pay taxes on 100 acres of land, its share in the Tri-city Farm. The first installment of $693 is due Monday, and that happens to be the date on which the city's sale of the property to a Los Angeles syndicate becomes effective.

Wallace has requested the syndicate either to pay the first tax installment or to agree to refund the amount if the city pays it and the deal is completed.

In the meantime a petition is being circulated calling for a referendum on the farm sale. Its sponsors say that the petition will be filed Saturday.

So Wallace is convinced that his job is no bed of roses.

JOHN STEVEN M'GROARTY LENDS HELP

Benefit Barbecue Sunday for Desert City Church Site

Old Catholic Church and Enthusiasts Helping to Create New Edifice

At left—Francisco and Dolores Patencio—the captain of the Cahuilas and his wife—who helped build the little church (center) erected in 1911, which is now too small to accommodate the worshipers, and John Steven McGroarty (inset,) sturdy old churchman who never fails to do his part.

PALM SPRINGS, Nov. 29.—With John Steven McGroarty, author of the Mission Play, as the principal speaker, a barbecue festival will be held here next Sunday as a benefit for the Franciscan Fathers, who are purchasing a corner across from O'Donnell Park to erect a new Catholic church within the city.

The present small church structure is located on the property of Francisco Patencio, captain of the Cahuila Indians. The recent influx of white residents and visitors has almost crowded the Indians out of their place of worship and a movement recently was started to finance a new structure within the city limits.

The entire community is sponsoring the festival, the active leaders including Thomas A. O'Donnell, Dr. J. J. Kocher, Hobart Garlick, Mrs. Nellie Coffman, Marius De Brabant, Mrs. A. Colburn, Alva F. Hicks, Thomas E. Connell, Austin G. McManus, E. B. Edmonds and Kate Price.

Following the barbecue at noon, the afternoon will be featured by a donkey race between two well-known rivals, Norman Farra and Roman (Cowboy) Warren. Other events will be a half-mile race for women, musical chair, polo, Boy Scouts and firemen mounted on burros, half-mile race for boys under 16, fancy riding by clowns on bucking mules, novelty races, trick and fancy roping and riding and a half-mile free-for-all race. The festival grounds are located near the El Mirador Hotel. Prizes have been offered by local business men, including cups, trophies and cash.

The program for the day is:

9:30 a.m.—Solemn high mass on Indian reservation in open air.

11 a.m.—Parade of citizens and contestants to festival grounds.

11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.—Barbecue in charge of Jim Murphy, chef.

1:30 p.m.—McGroarty's address, music and races.

YOUTHS' MEETINGS STOPPED

San Diego Churches to Cancel Sunday-schools and Other Organizations Act to Curb Flu Epidemic

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—All assemblies of young people including Sunday-school classes will be suspended in all the local churches Sunday to aid in ending the flu epidemic here, Alex Lesem, city health officer, said today. The Sunday-school closing was authorized by the County Ministerial Association, he added. Church services for adults will be held as usual.

Belief that the influenza epidemic, which has caused closing of the public schools until December 10, has been temporarily checked, was expressed today by Lesem.

"As far as I know the flu situation remains substantially the same as yesterday," he declared. "I have hopes that the church officials will co-operate with us by suspending services during the epidemic, but I have received no response to that suggestion yet."

Lesem said that it is virtually impossible to estimate when the peak of the malady has been reached because of the laxity of San Diego physicians in turning in reports on flu cases. "Please impress on the doctors to telephone in their reports to the health office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily," Lesem requested.

Theater managers were complimented today by the health officer for their co-operation in refusing admittance to children of school or preschool age next week.

The accident occurred on Cherry Boulevard, near Wardlow Road. The tank, astride heavy trucks, was moving slowly on the boulevard while two men walked a short distance behind with lanterns to warn motorists of the danger ahead. McCusker failed to notice the warning light and drove past the men, the latter told police. The McCusker car was badly wrecked in the crash. The occupants' injuries, while severe, will not prove fatal, physicians said.

ARCADIA, Nov. 29.—Because his parents scolded him severely for bringing home a poor report card, Waldo Wohrman, 14-year-old school student, left home last Friday to forget about his studies, he told Police Chief Coberly after Officers Bertolins and Richards found him in a small restaurant on South Santa Anita avenue.

The boy said he had traveled to Santa Paula and other cities in an effort to locate work and finally returned here out of funds.

The Crandall concern, in addition to its main plant at Rhinelander, maintains one on the Atlantic Coast and the Newport Bay plant will be its Pacific Coast headquarters.

Crandall and his son, who have resided at Kenilworth, a suburb of Chicago, will make their homes in Southern California, they told Jordan today. At present they are living in Pasadena.

The deal involves three lots facing the county channel, on the county turning basin in the northwest corner of the bay and not far from the Arches crossing of the Coast highway and Newport Boulevard. The consideration was said to be $20,000.

About twenty hulls for outboard motorboats, built at the Wisconsin plant, will be transported here and stored. Some will be shown at the coming boat exposition at San Diego, also at Lake Elsinore and other boat-racing localities in the Southland.

City May Face Huge Lawsuit

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—City Attorney Conkling, having advised the City Council that the claim of Edwards, Wildey & Dixon, Sutherland dam contractors, for $663,835.65 is not a legal claim against the city, a suit against the municipality for the amount seemed imminent today. Wright, McKee & Monroe, counsel of the contractors, probably will start suit in Superior Court Saturday for their clients, it was said.

A claim for the sum was filed with the Council on the 13th inst. and referred to Conkling for recommendation. The contractors assert the city repudiated its contract for construction of the dam, causing a loss of $303,967 anticipated profit and $355,318 damages. In addition, $95,059.90, or the 15 per cent of all estimates retained by the city to guard against any failure by the contractors, was claimed.

Belated Report Made on Robbery

HUNTINGTON PARK, Nov. 29.—As Henry Heinle, Jr., and Miss Lottie Bevans, both of this city, were driving an automobile along Atlantic avenue, near Florence avenue, in South Gate, Sunday night, they were held up by two young men who represented themselves as officers, according to a belated report which has been filed at the local police station. The two men jumped on the running board, and commanded the occupants of the machine to get out, and walk down the road and into a field. They were both searched, but nothing taken from them. One of the bandits is said to have struck Heinle knocking him through a wire fence, after which they both became frightened and ran away. Two South Gate motorcycle officers came along, when the hold-up information was given them. They made a search for the hold-up men, but were unable to locate them.

ASSESSMENTS CAUSING ROW

Hundreds of Protests Made Against Proposed Plan

Climax Seemingly Reached in Improvement Fight

HERMOSA BEACH, Nov. 29.—The City Council will meet in special session tomorrow night to take up the matter of apportioning of assessments on the new lighting system, following filing of more than 300 protests against the present assessment district.

The protests were filed during a dramatic session of the Council with many heated verbal arguments following the reading of the documents by City Clerk Brown.

The attack upon the apportioning of the assessments comes as the climax of a street-improvement fight which has kept the city in an uproar for over a year with five court actions involved. The recall of former Mayor Hagenbush and the recall action now pending against Mayor Holston charge extravagant expenditure and an ill-advised agreement with the Pacific Electric Railway Company whereby the sum of $48,000 was allowed for the lowering of trackage and removal of center poles in return for several feet of land from the right of way to be dedicated as a public street.

An outlay of about $380,000 is represented in the improvement under fire and recently completed by the contractors.

Citizens Unite to Fight Sewer System Expense

HAWTHORNE, Nov. 29.—Protesting the action of the City Council in adopting resolutions of intentions of installing sewer mains throughout the north portion of the city on the ground that only twenty-three of the 1200 connections made in South Hawthorne are now in use, due to lack of accommodations at the county outfall plant at Harbor City, 200 citizens met in a mass meeting at the Ballona-street school and formed committees to actively fight the move. The committees, headed by Chairman B. F. Brown and Secretary H. H. Blasbro, are backed by a petition bearing the signatures of over 51 per cent of the property owners affected by the proposed system for which the estimated cost is $262,000.

The petition now in the hands of the City Engineer for checking will receive final action by the Council next Monday night. Protestants to the proceedings assert that at least two years may elapse before there is any possibility that the mains will be connected with the metropolitan sewer system and that the expenditure at this time is ill advised.

LION HUNT NETS TWO KILLS

"Cats" Located in Near-by Mountains

"Lonnie" Freeman and His Latest Trophies

PASADENA, Nov. 29.—"Lonnie" Freeman thinks people who travel to Africa to kill lions are a bit queer. Lonnie, a member of the United States Forest Service, finds that there are plenty of lions to kill within a radius of seventy miles of this city. He has killed four lions in the last two weeks in the vicinity of Sandberg's Resort on the Ridge Route.

An African lion hunter may get nothing but jungle fever for his courage, while Freeman's bounties on his four lions have netted him just $385.

On Saturday morning, the Southern California mountain lion hunter killed a 215-pound male lion which measured seven feet long from nose to tail. A few hours later, according to Deputy Fire Warden P. T. Johnson, of this city, who was "in at the death" of the mountain monarchs, Freeman killed a large lioness.

"Lonnie's success in killing lions," said Johnson, today, "is due to the team work of his two black-and-tan hounds, 'Deaf' and 'Dumb.' The dog which has lost its hearing has developed an acute sense of smell, while the other hound, although not so good in following a scent, has an uncanny ability to detect the sound of a moving lion at a great distance.

Unless the cubs are molested, according to Johnson, no mountain lion will attack a human being, but if the first bullet fails to take effect, "look out!"

Freeman has killed his lions with a twenty-five-twenty Winchester after the beasts have been treed by Deaf and Dumb. The big male lion was killed with a single shot through the heart.

THANKSGIVING DAY REAL TO PRISONERS

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—Thanksgiving Day really meant something in the lives of five men who were awakened from their bunks in the City Jail today and released. The quintet, all of whom were charged with vagrancy, were informed by Chief of Police Joseph V. Doran that they could go free, provided they would "move on or get a job." More than a score of other inmates in the City Jail also were musing to themselves that life wasn't so bad, after all, when they were told of the Thanksgiving Day menu. Roast pork, candied sweet potatoes, apple sauce, mince and pumpkin pie and other tasty foods graced the jail table today, Bob Stewart, commissary steward, said.

COLORADO EXTENSION SIMPLIFIED

New Excess Condemnation Act Will Remedy Situation Now Facing Officials

PASADENA, Nov. 29.—The proposed extension of East Colorado street from this city through Arcadia and Monrovia may be expedited through the application of the Excess Condemnation Act adopted at the recent election, it was announced today, following a conference last night between county and city officials.

In the course of the conference it was stated that Mrs. Anita M. Baldwin has extended the time in which she will grant a deed through the Baldwin ranch to April 6, 1929. The original three-year period recently lapsed.

Speakers at the conference declared that Mrs. Baldwin is not opposed to the extension of Colorado street, but that she holds only a life interest in the acreage and that is opposed to any plan under which she would be forced to pay the cost of street improvements on land she cannot sell.

Clayton R. Taylor, chairman of the local Board of City Directors, suggested the application of the Excess Condemnation Act in the street extension, and stated that, if the new Legislature provides working legislation for the new act, the Colorado-street problem will be simplified. In this event, the land would be paid for outright and Mrs. Baldwin would not have to pay the street assessments, which would be met by owners of abutting property.

Mrs. Baldwin submitted a letter, in which she declared that she would oppose any proceeding to extend Colorado street through the historic ranch under the Mattoon Act.

CONTEST JOKE TO MRS. OWEN

Congresswoman-Elect Has No Fear of Outcome

Defeated Opponent Raises Citizenship Issue

Will Carry Fight to Floor of Lower House

PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 29. (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen regarded as a joke an effort being made in Florida to question her right to election as a member of Congress when informed here today of a report from Tallahassee.

"It's such an absurdity that it is not worth taking seriously," she declared.

"The matter of my citizenship is not in question now, for the law that temporarily took it away has been repealed. When it was repealed it not only restored my citizenship, but a new law gave American women their citizenship for all time. It applied to the future and declared that the old ruling would not hold for past years.

"I am as much a full time citizen as any other American woman—and I am just as proud of that fact as one can be."

Mrs. Owen, the daughter of William Jennings Bryan, was elected to Congress in Florida by a majority of 30,842. Her husband was the late Reginald Owen of the British Royal Engineers.

DEFEATED OPPONENT WILL FILE CONTEST

ST. PETERSBURG (Fla.) Nov. 29. (AP)—The election of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen to Congress from the Fourth Florida District will be contested and taken to the floor of Congress if necessary by her Republican opponent in the recent general election, William C. Lawson of Orlando. Noah C. Balnum, the latter's attorney, explaining the proposed contest said that Mrs. Owen married an English army officer and automatically became a subject of Great Britain and established her residence in that country for about ten years.

On her return to this country in 1925, she applied for naturalization as a citizen of the United States, he said, and the United States District judge for the Southern District of Florida issued an order declaring her a citizen of the United States on April 27, 1925.

The attorney said Lawson would contend that Mrs. Owen has been a citizen of the United States for only three years and thus the seven-year residence clause in the Constitution would bar her from being eligible for Congress.

"The action is not filed against Mrs. Owen personally but the seating of a member of Congress without the required seven years residence in the United States would set a dangerous precedent," Balnum declared.

"GAMBLING WIDOW" FREE

Mrs. Grace Merle Dillon, seeking a divorce from George Burnett Dillon, described herself to Superior Judge Ambrose as a "gambling widow." The wife said that her husband spent virtually all of his time away from home engaged in gambling during the year and a half they were married and spent all of his earnings there. She was given a decree.

PREMIER EATS TURKEY

Stanley Baldwin and His Wife Among 500 Guests at American Society Dinner in London

LONDON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Premier and Mrs. Stanley Baldwin were guests of the American Society at a Thanksgiving dinner here tonight. A company numbering 500, which included Ambassador Houghton and Mrs. Houghton, ate a real American dinner with turkeys from President Coolidge's farm in Vermont, cranberries from Cape Cod, and corn from South Carolina.

Ambassador Houghton, proposing a toast to the "day we celebrate," said all present had reason to be thankful because fundamentally friendly relations of the British and American peoples continue unimpaired. He said he does not fear in this regard problems which have their basis in reality so much as problems which are the results of fear and suspicion, and deep-seated distrust. He said he is hopeful, however, that even these latter will prove less formidable the nearer they are approached, for, said he, "there is a new spirit in the world, a new consciousness, and neither long will be denied."

HOPES FOR KING'S RECOVERY

Ambassador Houghton added: "We have additional reason to be thankful in that the King seems now to be showing indications of recovery. We hope and pray for his complete recovery."

Premier Baldwin opened his speech with a statement that it was a delightful act of friendship to ask an Englishman to be present at the Americans' most domestic family gathering. Proceeding, he confessed that he originally had declined the invitation to attend, owing to the pressure of other engagements.

"But what really decided me to change my mind was the recent trouble in which my old friend (Mr. Houghton) has been getting.

"On my first attempt to enter the House of Commons I was defeated and I know what it feels like," he said. "And I thought it might help him if a fellow-victim held out his hand tonight."

BALDWIN FACETIOUS

The familiar fact that the Premier is a great smoker gave added point to his facetious remarks regarding Virginian tobacco.

"I have a personal and particular cause for thanksgiving," he said. "If there had been no America there would have been no tobacco. It was tobacco that planted the English nation in America. Virginia—heaven bless it—is the only country in the world that has had tobacco as its currency."

In a long appreciative reference to American literature the Premier recalled the story in the autobiography of Benjamin Franklin of how the Quaker refused the request of the brother Quaker during public worship to lend him money for the collection on the ground that the asker seemed not to be in the right mind.

"May I suggest to the Ambassador that any request to America for loans for armaments should receive that same answer?" Mr. Baldwin asked.

DEATH CELL MAY REVEAL PRISON PLOT

Usual Holiday Recreation Canceled at San Quentin as Break Inquiry Opens

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—Warden Holohan of San Quentin prison today adjusted the figurative machinery by which he hopes to elicit complete information on last night's projected prison break by cancelling all usual holiday recreation, including the annual Thanksgiving Day ball game.

Roast pork sufficed for the chief dish of the principal meal and the prison band was allowed to play, but the diners were described as uneasy and showing visible tension.

The warden has confidence that solitary confinement will result in a breakdown on the part of one of the six ringleaders in the plot and through that source he will get the complete details and a workable foundation covering the identities of the others he is convinced were involved.

The ring leaders are John Joseph Malone, Edgar La Pierre, Louis Lazarus, Perry Cozo, Ray Cook and Edward J. Abbey. The first four named are under sentence of death. Malone, Los Angeles wife slayer, has been moved to the death cell several days in advance of routine procedure in hanging cases, and it is believed Warden Holohan looks to Malone as his quickest source of information because of the latter's approaching death on the gallows.

Every cell in the prison was searched for additional tools in the shape of weapons, but none was found, it was reported.

CANNED MUSIC 'STING' DRAWN

Federal Radio Commission Modifies Order

New Continuity Allowed Under Ruling

Chicago Concern Programs to Be Rented

[Copyright, 1928, North American Newspaper Alliance.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—The sting has been taken out of the "canned music" order recently promulgated by the Federal Radio Commission. By amending the order, the commission dispels any thought that it is prejudiced against the broadcasting of music that is mechanically reproduced. Often this is fully as popular with the radio audience as chain or station talent.

As the order now reads, it paves the way for the advent of a new kind of "radio continuity" soon to be offered both from chain and independent stations. This consists of a full-length program prepared specially for broadcasting either from phonograph records or from film strips upon which sound has been imposed by the process developed for the talking films.

PROCESS REVEALED

These continuities are to be distributed to broadcasting stations the same way that motion pictures are released to large and small theaters. Because of the proved tone quality of mechanical music sent by radio, they may lead to real competition with the chain programs that are transmitted from central studios via highly expensive toll telephone lines to stations that are members of the chains.

A Chicago concern is behind the project. Its "mechanical programs" will be offered to large and small stations on a rental basis.

SIMILAR METHOD

The programs will be very much like those heard every night from chain stations, the voices of announcers coming directly from the record or film.

The new order provides that "where a recording or electrical transcript is made exclusively for broadcasting purposes and is neither offered nor intended to be offered for sale to the public, the words 'phonograph record' may be replaced by any phrase which accurately describes such transcription and which is of such a nature as not to deceive the public."

Klan Gathers at Fiery Cross Near Montecito

MONTECITO, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—An immense fiery cross, visible for miles because of the high ground on which it stood, tonight was the cause of much speculation in this locality. Reports received here indicated that several hundred Klansmen in their white regalia were conducting ritualistic ceremonies at the spot.

Hundreds of motorists were attracted to the scene, but were unable to approach it closely because of white-clad guards who prevented nonmembers from entering the field. Nor were they communicative as to the nature of the affair.

The gathering took place in the Riviera, about four miles north of Montecito, and was the first Klan meeting of the kind held in this vicinity for more than a year.

DRYS PLAN INTENSIVE DRIVE ON GULF COAST

GALVESTON, Nov. 29. (AP)—Federal prohibition officers are planning an intensive drive on the Gulf Coast to check the flow of prohibitday liquor, the Galveston Tribune said today. Four schooners, the newspaper said, are known by authorities to have been doing a thriving business in bringing intoxicants from the West Indies and transferring them to fast launches near Galveston.

RUMANIANS WILL COPY FROM WEST

Maniu Cuts Politics Out of Courts and Army and Will Aid Agriculture

BUCHAREST (Rumania) Nov. 29. (AP)—Westernization of the constitutional basis of Rumania was decreed today in a manifesto issued by the new Julin Maniu government. Public servants, courts and the army are to be made independent of political powers. The government is to be decentralized by establishing local elective autonomy.

Since agriculture forms the chief industry of Rumania, other branches of production are to be made dependent on it, and export taxes are to be abolished in time to make agriculture more profitable.

The Bratianu laws of 1924 will be revised to enable foreign capital to enter Rumania.

QUARREL RESULTS IN TWO BEING WOUNDED

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—A quarrel attributed by Andrew C. Williams, an adjuster for the Southern Pacific, to methods of educating his three children by a former marriage, was climaxed tonight in their Richmond district home by gunplay, in which Williams suffered a superficial face wound and his second wife probably was fatally injured. Police said they were told Mrs. Williams shot first at her husband while he sat at the radio with the oldest daughter, and then turned the weapon on herself.

SOCIETY BANDIT IN COURT TODAY

Bridge Party Robber May Be Sentenced

Attorneys Prepare to File New Trial Action

Presentation of Motion Will Delay Proceedings

Evan B. Seitz, so-called "society bandit" convicted of six felonies in connection with the hold-up of a bridge party last year at the home of Mrs. J. M. Cummings, is scheduled to appear this morning before Judge Aggeler for sentence.

Seitz was convicted Tuesday of three counts of first-degree robbery, two of attempted robbery and one of first-degree burglary. Under the verdicts he faces a possible sentence of from thirty-eight years to life.

Attorneys for Seitz are expected to file a motion for a new trial. Filing of such a motion will delay sentencing for ten days, during which time State and defense counsel will prepare arguments on the motion.

The jury of five men and seven women deliberated only an hour in convicting Seitz, whose trial lasted four weeks.

Seitz originally was accused of plotting the bridge party robbery with Mrs. Ollie Lowe, wealthy apartment-house owner and a guest at the affair given by Mrs. Cummings. Women who attended the party lost $21,000 in jewels in the hold-up.

Mrs. Lowe, who was tried separately, was convicted of attempting to defraud an insurance company, the jury being unable to agree on the other counts against her. She is scheduled to come before the court next week for retrial on the latter counts. Her appeal from the count on which she was convicted is pending.

Seitz was prosecuted by Dep. Dist.-Attys. Menzies and Crail, who will be prepared to resist his expected motion for a new trial. Paul Schenck and G. R. Remington are defense attorneys.

"THEY SHALL NOT LAND," SAY DRY FORCES PATROLLING SHORE

Southern California's shore line now is a battle front, with Federal and county dry agents holding the fort and rum-runners trying to pierce the bulwarks, it was learned yesterday. If the plans of Maj. McReynolds, Federal dry administrator, and Capt. James Benton, head of the Sheriff's dry detail, are effective, most of the holiday cheer will have to trickle out of ginger ale bottles, sans alcohol sans kick.

While both Federal and county dry agents have maintained a complete silence as to their plans, it was learned that along the coastline of the southern counties, a regular patrol is being kept up to prevent the landing of illicit liquor. At the various beach cities, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Hermosa Beach, Venice, and other patrols are on the lookout for mysterious craft.

The first brush came last Monday when E. C. Rhodes, a dry agent, exchanged shots with three men who landed twenty cases of liquor on an Ocean Park pier and sped away. The dry agent later arrested Sam Elzman, a Los Angeles police officer at Venice; John Martin, a Santa Monica officer, and Edward J. Carson, a special officer of Santa Monica.

What plans are being carried forward by the dry agents was not stated, but it is understood that a careful watch is being kept to prevent the landing of liquor.

Santo Domingo Flood Ravaged

SAN DOMINGO, Nov. 29. (AP)—News from the interior of this country indicates that heavy rains and flooded conditions there have created a condition giving rise to considerable alarm.

The rains are continuing and extensive property damage and possible loss of life are regarded as probable.

The government is doing its utmost to alleviate suffering among the inhabitants but outside aid is urgently needed.

ABSENTEE DIVORCED

Mrs. Eunice Kerchof did not complain so much when her husband, Bernard Richard Kerchof, remained out all night, but when he got to leaving over the weekend and not telling her where he was going, or where he had been when he returned, she thought it was time to call a halt. Superior Judge Engs granted a divorce.

JUST TOO MODERN

Wife Asserted to Chew Tobacco to Face Action for Divorce

When his wife Sarah acquired the habit of chewing tobacco, it greatly embarrassed and humiliated him before their friends, Harold E. Willis asserts in a petition for a divorce filed by the husband in the Superior Court.

Willis, who is a stage driver, further asserts in his petition that his wife was so jealous and suspicious of him that she ordered that no female passenger should sit with him on the front seat of his stage.

He declared that his daughter by a former marriage visited him and his wife would not let him display any affection for her; that she would not let them leave the house together. If they did, she insisted his daughter go one way and he another.

Hay Muchas Más Esperanzas de Salvar al Rey Jorge

LONDRES, Noviembre 29.—Toda una nación llena de ansiedad ha comenzado hoy a respirar libremente, después de haber leído esta mañana dos boletines favorables sobre el estado que guarda el rey Jorge, y otro, la tarde de hoy, en el que se anuncia que el proceso infeccioso ha sido atajado por el momento. Se da aviso asimismo de que el rey pasó el día tranquilo y pudo dormir. Estos boletines han venido tras el favorable anuncio que hizo anoche el señor Johnson-Hicks, ministro de lo Interior, quien manifestó que Su Majestad mejoraba.

Tiénese entendido que estaban muy satisfechos del progreso realizado por el rey el día de hoy sus dos médicos de cabecera, Lord Dawson y Sir Stanley Hewitt.

Entretanto, el príncipe de Gales pasó este día en Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika, vacilando entre esperar la llegada del crucero "Enterprise", o embarcarse en el yate "Azania", del gobernador. No se ha recibido hoy noticia de su hermano, el duque de Gloucester, y es dudoso que pueda llegar a la costa a tiempo de reunirse con el príncipe.

"The Lancet", que es el principal periódico médico inglés, pasará en revista mañana el progreso de la enfermedad del rey, y, de paso, desvanecerá la idea de que el mal fuera contraído de un modo repentino.

Italia Dispuesta a Acelerar el Viaje del Príncipe de Gales

ROMA, Noviembre 29.—El gobierno italiano ha hecho preparativos especiales para acelerar la marcha del príncipe de Gales hacia Inglaterra, si éste se decide a atravesar la península italiana después de haber pasado el canal de Suez y cruzado el Mediterráneo.

Si el príncipe desembarcare en Brindisi, encontrará allí trenes especiales para llevarlo rumbo al norte. Si decidiere viajar por aire, se le tendrán aeroplanos listos en Egipto para que cruce el Mediterráneo.

Quédale, por lo Menos, un Amigo a los Estados Unidos en Europa

CAMBRIDGE (Inglaterra) Noviembre 29.—La universidad de esta ciudad tributa aplauso a los Estados Unidos, pues por 3 a 1 de mayoría rechazó anoche la Unión de Cambridge la afirmación de que "la existencia de los Estados Unidos es una amenaza para los más caros intereses del mundo". Discutióse dicha tesis ante un gran auditorio.

Debióse en parte el resultado de la votación a un brillante discurso que contra dicha moción pronunció Thomas E. Elliot, de Cambridge (Massachusetts), nieto de Charles Elliot, rector que fue de Harvard. Elliot, que disfruta de una beca de Harvard en el Colegio de Emmanuel, se hizo de tal modo dueño de su auditorio, que a ratos le era casi imposible proseguir su alocución, porque los aplausos ahogaban sus palabras.

Los otros oradores principales fueron, Melvin Kenny, de Toronto, en pro de la tesis, y Bernard Alexander, de la Universidad de McGill, en contra de ella.

Notable Pintor que se Quita la Vida

CARMEL, Noviembre 29.—En su estudio de esta población, se suicidó hoy de un balazo Ira Remsen, de 51 años de edad, famoso retratista, autor dramático y "clubman". Sábese que andaba mal de salud desde hace un año; pero creen sus amigos que la causa inmediata de su acto desesperado haya sido la decepción que le produjo que no mereciera la aprobación de los empresarios de Nueva York una comedia que había escrito hace poco.

Remsen era hijo del difunto doctor Ira Remsen, notable químico, que fue rector de la Universidad de John Hopkins. El hijo se hizo famoso por sus paisajes de la península de Monterey.

Del pintor se divorció en 1926 la señora Helen Yoder Remsen, quien alegó crueldad por parte de su marido. Uno de los supuestos actos de crueldad era la costumbre del artista de presentarse en las reuniones vestido de "overalls".

Plaintiff Gets Continuance

Hearing of the case of Frank E. Neumann against James A. McEntry, John S. Fisher and Samuel Wickersham, also known as Samuel Weikersheimer, brought on a complaint for money, has been continued until December 18 by Superior Judge Gould to allow the plaintiff to file an amended complaint.

According to the plaintiff he loaned the defendants $30,000, the money secured by oil paintings purported to be valued at more than $50,000. He now contends that the money was never paid and that the paintings are not as valuable as represented to him.

Woman Socialist Leader Marries in San Jose and Former Husband in East

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29. (AP)—Frank P. O'Hare and his divorced wife, Mrs. Kate Richards O'Hare, Socialist leader, were both remarried yesterday, it became known today.

O'Hare was married here to Miss Irene M. Reynolds, while Mrs. O'Hare was married to Charles G. Cunningham, former San Francisco engineer, at San Jose, Cal. Mrs. O'Hare obtained a divorce from O'Hare in Arkansas last June.

The marriage here, which was by civil authorities, revealed that O'Hare, a Catholic, had instituted proceedings with archdiocesan authorities of the Roman Catholic Church to have his marriage to Mrs. O'Hare, a non-Catholic, annulled. Their marriage ceremony was performed by a Congregational minister. They are the parents of four children.

O'Hare said if this marriage were annulled the way would be open for his marriage in a Catholic church to his second wife, who is a Catholic.

CHEST TO MAKE FINAL EFFORT

Workers Will Comb City for Residue

Estimate Subscribed to Date About $2,300,000

Women Canvassers Lauded for Diligence

Having enjoyed a Thanksgiving Day surcease, Community Chest workers again will go forth today into the highways and byways of the city to collect the last $300,000 needed to help Los Angeles orphans, crippled children, destitute families, and sick and old people for another year.

While it is estimated that $2,300,800 of the $2,644,185 needed is already in the Chest, J. A. H. Kerr, campaign chairman, decided to withhold the announcement of the exact amount subscribed until it may be broadcast citywide from the Biltmore Hotel during the luncheon and rally next Monday noon.

"At that time," Mr. Kerr smiled significantly yesterday, "we expect truly to surprise the city."

MESSAGE ISSUED

Cecil B. De Mille, chairman of the motion-picture division; Mrs. Albert Crutcher, chairman of the residential section, and Harry Henderson, chairman of the business districts, were to pass on to other campaign leaders today the Thanksgiving Day message issued by Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Community Chest, to all Community Chest workers.

The message, in part, read:

"Let those of us who are soliciting funds for the Community Chest no longer think of ourselves as soldiers going over the top, but as human beings getting together with other human beings to solve a community problem.

"We are not, when all is said and done, in a battle. A battle is not a very pleasant thing. We are really enjoying a new and broadening experience of life. When we go from door to door and ring doorbells and meet people, we are letting our humanity flow out in far wider circles than it does during the rest of the year when we go through our routine of business and social life with habit-forming interests.

CHANCE FOR STUDY

"As we go from house to house and meet new people we have an added opportunity to study human life, and that after all is about the best thing any of us could do with our time. What if we do have a few doors slammed in our faces? That, too, is an experience which should widen our sympathies, making us realize what many poor fellows who solicit some cheap article from door to door have to put up with the year around.

"Not only our sympathy, but our sense of humor is strengthened as we go our rounds for the Community Chest. Some of the alibis given are enough to make anyone smile. One certainly learns a great deal about human nature, and so let us realize that although this is hard work, that it is lots of fun if we put the right spirit into it. So let's keep on working, knowing that our work is both humane—and interesting.

THOUSANDS GIVE

"Nearly 300,000 persons have contributed to the Community Chest so far. I feel that at least 100,000 more subscriptions will pour in as we workers keep on telling the people of Los Angeles about the truly remarkable record of the Chest during the past year, in which over a quarter of a million human beings were helped."

Kerr declared that the women of Los Angeles are doing splendid work for the Chest. He said this is attested by the fact that for the first time in five years of Community Chest history in this city the residential district organization has obtained a higher percentage of its quota than the business district organization, percentages being 79.77 against 76.06. The business district quota, of course, is considerably the higher of the two. In terms of money $350,340 has been taken from the business district as against $231,746 from the residential district. The above amounts represent subscriptions of from $1 to $99. The central division, which got subscriptions ranging from $100 to $25,000, has turned in $1,441,409, or 82.23 per cent of its quota of $1,750,000, to date. Balance of the Chest fund has come in from Hollywood, Beverly Hills, the harbor district and other points. The largest individual subscriptions and the greatest number from now on are expected from the motion-picture division, which launched its campaign, with a quota of $200,000 several days ago.

SEA COWBOY RIDES HIS SHARK

Fisherman Jumps on Back of Giant Creature, Runs Along It and Then Hops Back in Boat—at Least That's What Friends Say

The tale of how Guy Silva, San Diego fisherman, rode on a shark now is heard for the first time, although the exploit occurred a month ago off Cape San Lucas. The crew of Silva's boat, Emmit R. S., just in with fish, is willing to bet "doubting Thomases" plenty money the tale is true.

The crew was dragging in a few tuna when one of the great lazy leopard sharks, which reach sixty feet and nearly as many tons in those waters, pulled up alongside the boat. Suddenly the craving beset Silva to get astride the beast.

He leaped from his boat and landed running on the shark's back. With a yell to his crew to clear the deck that he was coming back, he ran the length of the creature and clambered back on ship before the shark realized what happened.

His crew was considerably shaken up, but Silva says the leopard shark is a lazy coward and would not harm a fly. It was Silva who was credited a few months ago with rigging up a method to electrocute 300-pound tuna, rather than tire them out at the end of a line.

DAMROSCH TO APPEAR ON KFI

Radio Theme Gives Motif of New Composition

Program Originates in New York Studios

"Red Mill" Also on Chain Broadcast

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

A radio musical treat rather out of the ordinary is in store for fans tomorrow when KFI receives a New York program at 5 o'clock.

This hour, the first in a series, will present the National Orchestra, a new symphony organization, directed by Walter Damrosch. It comprises former members of the New York Symphony and is probably the most pretentious group ever brought together for broadcast work exclusively.

The program will feature the world premiere of a new symphonic masterpiece, "S O S," which was inspired by the radio signals of a ship in distress.

AMERICAN COMPOSER

Robert Braine, young American composer, says of his new work: "On December 3, 1927, I happened to be in a radio studio when an SOS message came in. Going to the operator's room, I was greatly impressed by the fact that wireless messages were being received by the operators.

"Several would be on at once. Added to this, a vague, uneasy roar from the loud speakers produced an uncanny effect. Imagination was further stimulated by the knowledge that a Greek ship was off the Georgian coast in distress.

"It was a bitter cold night and a terrific storm was in progress. A ship standing by could offer no aid on account of the fury of the waves.

"One could picture the distress of the crew and passengers . . . the excitement . . . the shouting . . . running to and fro . . . the lashing of the waves . . . whistles blowing . . . and above all the desperate SOS signals which kept up incessantly."

"There is no reason why audiences of the air should not pass upon new musical works as effectively as concert audiences," said Mr. Damrosch, in discussing the new transcontinental series.

OPERETTA TO BE GIVEN

The 5 o'clock hour will be followed at 6 p.m. with the first of a new series of Saturday night operettas direct from the New York studios.

Tonight's program will be "The Red Mill." Next week "Naughty Marietta" will be given and the following week "The Vagabond King."

An hour of dance music, also from New York, will be given at 7 p.m., making three hours of eastern programs today.

FIESTA TICKETS GO ON SALE

Navy and Fire Department Lay Plans for Stunts at Coliseum on December 15

Tickets will be placed on sale today at sixty-five fire stations in the city for the fiesta scheduled for the Coliseum the afternoon of December 15 to include spectacular stunts by the Navy and the Los Angeles Fire Department and the championship gridiron battle between the All-Pacific Fleet eleven and the Fire Department team.

Active work on the Navy's part of the hour's program of thrills to precede the game will be begun today by officers and men of the ten battleships of the Pacific Fleet, the U.S.S. Lexington, airplane carrier, and the fleet auxiliary vessels. The fire department already is busy working out the details of live-saving stunts.

The opening program of stunts is designed to demonstrate the efficiency of the guardians of public safety on the land and the sea, as well as for amusement of the crowd. While the fleet's program is not yet definitely arranged, stunts under consideration include a pageant showing the development of the Navy, staging of the King Neptune's court initiation ceremony, and the contests of both a humorous and serious nature between the Navy and the Marine Corps.

With gigantic rooting sections to be formed of several thousand sailors and the entire personnel of the fire department off duty, plans are being made for a series of bleacher stunts by both divisions. Admiral W. V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the fleet, is co-operating with Fire Chief Scott in placing complete facilities at the disposal of the committee arranging the event. The fiesta is a benefit affair for the relief organizations of the fleet and the department.

TWO SCORE DEBATE ON TROJAN LIST

Teams to Meet Thirteen Coast University Squads in Trip to Canada

Announcement of twenty-five intercollegiate debates scheduled by the University of Southern California for the coming year was made yesterday by Leo Adams, student debate manager. The Trojans will meet thirteen Coast university squads during a trip to British Columbia next March and other journeys will be made to Utah, Arizona and New Mexico. The University of Pittsburgh will meet the Trojans in Los Angeles February 11, 1929.

The first debate of the season will be with Stanford University at Palo Alto January 11, 1929. Teams which will be met on the northern trip in March include the universities of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Gonzaga and Utah, and Fresno State, Oregon State, Willamette, Washington State, Puget Sound, Brigham Young and Utah Agricultural colleges. While at the University of Idaho the U.S.C. men will participate in the oratorical contest of the Pacific Coast Forensic Conference March 30.

Other teams which the Southern California squad will meet include La Verne College, Baylor University of Waco, Tex., Whitman College and the Universities of Arizona and New Mexico.

Three questions will be debated by the Trojan squads this year. The Stanford debate will be on, "Resolved, That Modern Advertising Is More Detrimental Than Beneficial to Society." The other two subjects are: "Resolved, That the Jury System As It Exists Today Should Be Abolished," and "Resolved, That the Plea of Temporary Insanity in Defense of Crime Should Be Prohibited by Law."

MINISTER AND WIFE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Rev. Charles R. Drake, pastor of the Magnolia Avenue Christian Church, it was learned yesterday, was injured Tuesday while on his way to Selma to officiate at a wedding, when a truck struck his automobile, wrecking it. His wife suffered numerous contusions and several teeth were knocked out. Their daughter Marilinn, who accompanied them, was unhurt. Both the pastor and his wife were taken to the Selma Hospital. He formerly was head of the Selma Christian Church congregation.

Two Children Returned to Mother's Care

A happy Thanksgiving Day for Mrs. Delilah Carette for she came into possession, after many months of separation, of her two little daughters, Margaret Carette, 9 years of age, and Esther Carette, 4.

Mrs. Carette was given their custody by Superior Judge Rosenkrans when her husband, Capt. Arnold E. Carette of the Los Angeles Fire Department, agreed they might go with her and offered to pay $75 a month for their support.

At the hearing wherein the mother requested the custody of her children she declared she had been induced by asserted threats and promises not to contest her husband's suit for divorce in which he was given the children when granted a divorce.

Under the questioning of his attorney, Thomas McKenna, Carette testified that he had married again and that he was willing Mrs. Carette should have the children because she had prejudiced them so against him he could do nothing with them.

Mrs. Carette had filed an action to have the divorce decree set aside on the ground that she would have contested it had it not been for her husband's threats at the time he filed his suit.

Phone Listing Changes Asked

Telephone subscribers who desire changes in directory listings are asked to advise the Southern California Telephone Company at once, since the next edition of the directory will go to press December 29. Two new prefixes will appear in the new directory, to be issued in March, 1929. These will be known as "MOrningside" and "EXposition" and will apply to telephones in the central western area of the city only. Subscribers whose numbers are to bear the new prefix are being notified by letter.

It is said Chef Charles Kieffer is devising elaborate special menus for those who will attend the nightly doings on the renamed boulevard during the pre-Christmas season.

A gala dancing contest for a beautiful silver trophy will be held Sunday evening in Sebastian's New Cotton Club Cafe on Washington Boulevard in Culver City, it was announced today.

Evelyn Mueller, petite hostess, will help Proprietor Sebastian in selecting the winning couples, while the patrons will make the final choice.

Saturday night the Cotton Club will welcome the Notre Dame players in a gala celebration. Special football sourvenirs and favors, with appropriate music and revue, will feature the festivities.

COLLEGIATE NIGHT SET

The green of Notre Dame and the scarlet and gold of U.S.C. will mingle at the Montmartre tonight night, when collegiate night will be celebrated in honor of the two universities whose teams are to meet on the gridiron tomorrow.

Special events have been planned for that evening with Roy Fox, the "whispering cornetist," acting as master of ceremonies, and his incomparable Montmartre Band providing the latest jazz music. Saturday night, following the game, also will be a gala night at the Hollywood Cafe, many stage and film celebrities joining in the festivities, which have been planned by Eddie Brandstatter, owner of the cafe.

PLAYERS TO MEET

Madame Helene's Paramount Tea Room will be the setting for a gathering of prominent film players, directors and writers this noon. They will meet informally for the first of a series of discussions on co-operation in talking pictures.

LASKY SIGNS WELL KNOWN ACTOR

Comedienne and Assistant Director Wed at Studio; Sally O'Neill Will Star in New Circus Story; Youthful Player Signs With M.-G.-M.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Another actor of the spoken drama is finding a place in the talking pictures.

CLARA BOW

Fredric March, who has been assigned the leading role opposite Clara Bow in "A Wild Party," has just been signed to a long-term contract by Paramount. Announcement was made yesterday from the Lasky studios.

March is appearing at present at the Belasco, along with Florence Oakley and other well-known players, in that delightful comedy, "The Royal Family." The assignment opposite Miss Bow will not be his first picture work, as he filled a role in Paramount's all-talking picture, "The Dummy," from the stage comedy of the same name.

The actor comes from New York, where he appeared in "Deburau," a David Belasco production. His success in this brought him several important roles with the New York Theater Guild, and later he was under contract to William A. Brady.

SALLY O'NEILL

Sally O'Neill in Circus

Just as soon as ever Tiffany-Stahl finds a good title for a circus picture, Sally O'Neill is to start work in it as star.

This was made known yesterday at the studio, where even now preparations are being made for the filming of the picture on a grand scale.

Tiffany-Stahl are contracting for the use of one of the big circuses now in winter quarters here, and the fair Sally, we hear, is scheduled to ride elephants and take nose dives from a high trapeze, so it looks as though she won't have a dull moment during the picture.

Duncan Rinaldo With M.-G.-M.

That extremely handsome youth, Duncan Rinaldo, who has appeared in a series of color classics for Tiffany-Stahl, in which he played leading parts, seems to be on the way to a big success.

Rinaldo has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play an important role in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

The actor was formerly on the stage in New York and later went out with Tom Terriss in a dramatic vaudeville playlet, "At the Telephone." He is now appearing with Edward Everett Horton in "Her Carboard Lover," at the Vine Street Theater.

Joe Brown to New York

That eminent cut-up of musical comedy, Joe Brown, who has been appearing in pictures in the west, is leaving for New York, where he will do talking sequences for a Tiffany-Stahl picture.

Brown will also star in another picture for the same concern before returning to Hollywood, according to M. H. Hoffman. The name of the new one is not yet disclosed, however.

John Davidson in Smash-Up

John Davidson is wearing his handsome features in a sling as the result of an automobile accident which occurred a few days ago while the actor was riding with a friend in Hollywood. Luckily, however, though his face was cut by flying glass, the wounds on Davidson's face will leave no scars, according to the statement of his physician.

YOUTHFUL PAIR ARE MARRIED ON SET

If Sam Katzman, youthful assistant director, and Hortense Petra, pretty comedy film star, ever get to the point of arguing just what they agreed to do, according to their nuptial contract, the loan of a sound projection machine and a screen will settle everything right quickly.

Katzman, who is associated with Fox Movietone productions, became engaged to Miss Petra, and the day this week they selected for their marriage ceremony to be performed happened to be a very busy day for filming scenes of "The Diplomats," a Clark and McCullough comedy, directed by Norman Taurog.

So the young couple decided a marriage on a moving-picture set would be as binding as at any other place. A clergyman was called, a score of actors played atmospheric roles and Tiny Ward, motion-picture actor measuring seven feet six inches tall, acted as best man, with Madeline Thompson, a friend of the bride, officiating as bridesmaid.

Taurog had the ceremony recorded by Fox Movietone and the print given to the happy young couple, to be shown to their descendants in time to come—unless it is needed as evidence in court!

The couple expect to take a short bridal trip between the completion of "The Diplomats" and the beginning of Taurog's next picture, "In Holland," which also will star Clark and McCullough.

TRIALS IN MARRIAGE CHALLENGED

Photoplay Heralded as "Answer" to New-Type Nuptial Pact

What is heralded as a "challenge" to companionate marriage will be made at the United Artists' Theater beginning Wednesday, "Marriage by Contract," a John M. Stahl production, in which Patsy Ruth Miller plays the starring role, is the new picture. Based on alleged actual experiences of a girl who tried a new-type marriage pact, it traces her life after the wedding.

New marriages come, unsuccessful for various reasons. As an aged woman she looks back upon her thrilling, but unsatisfactory career with sorrowful eyes. The picture presents the problem in such a way as to make it also an entertaining motion picture, according to an advance notice.

The cast includes Lawrence Gray, Robert Edeson, Claire McDowell, Raymond Keane, Ruby Lafayette and others.

A new stage revue is being assembled, the principals of which will be announced in a day or two.

Trend in Sets Ultramodern

Introducing to the Southern California stage the modernistic trend in house furnishings, "Her Cardboard Lover," now playing at the Vine Street Theater, has provided settings that are both attractive and unique. There is a freedom and sweep of imagination about the scenes that lends a distinctive and captivating atmosphere to the delightful comedy of free-for-all love.

The play, starring Edward Everett Horton, revolves about a situation, humorous in itself, that is fraught with a number of comical complications that make the performance one of those rare pieces that evoke spontaneous laughter.

Simone, petite Parisian divorcee played by Florence Eldridge, might well be the inspiration for the song entitled "I Can't Help Lovin' That Man." To make her love for her ex-husband a "suppressed desire," she hires a synthetic Romeo—Horton—to do the suppressing. She regrets this rash move, but the hired hand is firm and what happens from then on is everybody's business but Simone's.

Mitchell Harris portrays the husband.

Kruger Popular in Egan Pieces

The Egan Theater is Paul Kruger's theatrical "home." His first appearance at this house was made several years ago, when he first made a place for himself in the public's heart through his performance in "White Collars."

After a long run in that vehicle Kruger played in various attractions in and around Los Angeles, and then for a time devoted himself to motion-picture work.

He made another return to the Egan a few months ago, when he filled a leading role with Sarah Padden in "Window Panes."

His latest part at this theater is that of Willard Kean, the compassionate husband in "Trial Marriage."

GIBSON TO STAR RUTH ELDER IN NEW SERIES

"Hoot" Gibson, Universal western star, is far-seeing. It has just been learned that the prominent screen actor—who is rated as one of the most popular of box-office stars on Universal's roster of film satellites—is planning to produce a series of aviation pictures starring Ruth Elder, aviatrix.

Immediately after the latter completed her contract with Paramount, Gibson secured her services for his forthcoming picture. Meanwhile he received reports on Miss Elder's success as the feminine lead opposite Richard Dix in "Moran of the Marines."

"Just as I predicted," mused Gibson to himself, as he started negotiations with the internationally famous Ruth to affix her signature to a long-term contract. Gibson, it is understood, is to finance the productions and in all probability Universal will release them.

SONGS AND DIALOGUE RETAINED AT PALACE

"Going Up," the high-flying musical comedy now at the Broadway Palace, shows Los Angeles audiences everything new except the popular songs and mile-a-minute dialogue that once made the piece a New York success, according to the management.

Leo Le Blanc, producer, is lauded as having assembled a cast of songsters and funsters that would do credit to higher-priced stage vehicles. Nadine Wayne, Ken Browne, and Douglas Keaton comprise a trio that have won the hearts of Broadway Palace theatergoers.

The plane used in the musical comedy was procured from Kelly Airport, near Los Angeles.

The double bill at the Broadway Palace includes the screen feature, "Phyllis of the Follies," with Alice Day, Matt Moore, Lilyan Tashman and Edmund Burns.

PARAMOUNT SIGNS WRITER

Viola Brothers Shore, well-known writer, who has contributed short stories to some of the leading magazines in the country, has been placed under contract by Paramount as a member of the west coast studio writing staff. Her first assignment is the adaptation of the Owen Davis story, "Two Shall Meet," which will serve as a starring vehicle for Charles (Buddy) Rogers.

BRICE QUITS PARAMOUNT

Monte Brice, Paramount scenarist, has severed association with the organization, after a service of approximately four years. Brice, it is understood, is to take a brief vacation, after which announcement will be made of his new affiliations.

School Term Begins at "Met"

Mary Brian

And a host of Paramount students will enter upon a semester of dramatics, oratory and kindred subjects, commencing today, in "Varsity." Charles (Buddy) Rogers is the star of the film.

MISS GREENWOOD TO BATHE

An extra stage show, over and above the usual daily quota, has been arranged by the management at Loew's State for all this week to accommodate the crowds that are anticipated for Charlotte Greenwood, "So Long, Letty" star, appearing in person in "Her Morning Bath."

Miss Greenwood declares she will have no fear of the water at the end of the week, for she will have indulged in more than thirty-five baths on the stage. She is getting off to a good start today, the opening day of her engagement, by taking five of them in this comedy sketch before the footlights.

Fanchon and Marco have gone the limit, they say, to provide the greatest stellar talent on this new program. Babe Kane, said to be the originator of the varsity drag, and the entire original chorus of "Good News" are also to be seen on the stage.

The all-comedy note of the program is further emphasized by the feature, Charlie Murray in "Do Your Duty."

Gest Announces Seats Available to All Buyers

In an effort to correct the impression that attendance at the Figueroa Playhouse is restricted to season ticket subscribers, Simeon Gest, vice-president and general manager of the Los Angeles Repertory Theater, today issued the following statement:

"Considerable confusion has resulted from a somewhat general impression that seats for the Los Angeles Repertory Theater are available only to our season seat-holders. This is erroneous.

"While we are making every effort to increase our season holding list from 2000 to 5000 so as to assure our project as financially secure, there are good seats for every performance sold at our box offices and agencies to any person who desires them, as at any other theater.

"In making this a community enterprise we necessarily are catering to all classes with absolutely no lines of distinction drawn. Our sales are not centralized on any social or literary groups. Our plays are selected with a view to general popular appeal, offering at the same time the most worthwhile efforts of recognized writers for the theater."

Gest added that much misinformation has been evidenced by patrons at the box office of the Repertory Theater where Sidney Howard's comedy-drama, "The Silver Cord," is being played by a brilliant cast headed by Nance O'Neil.

CHARACTER STUDIED FIRST—REST EASY

Lucile Webster Gleason never learns the words of a part until she has her characterization firmly fixed in her mind. She asserts that lines are easy once you know and understand the character you are about to play.

"The hardest thing in the world to do," declares the actress, who plays her original role of Emma Shannon in "The Shannons of Broadway" with the Henry Duffy Players at El Capitan, "is to change a reading of a line once you have it set firmly in your mind. If you learn your lines first, before you have determined on your characterization, you are certain to have wrong readings. It is much more difficult to discard them than to get the correct reading the first time—after you know what it is all about."

On the other hand, Mrs. Gleason is credited with a phenomenal memory. At a recent public performance, given by the Twelfth Night Club, of which she is a prominent member, in New York, an actress assigned to an important role in a playlet was reported ill at 9 o'clock the night of the production. Lucile Gleason took the role and acted it two hours later without missing a single word. Fellow professionals hailed it as one of the greatest memory tests they had known.

HERSHOLT SILENT NOW

Jean Hersholt has completed the talking sequences in "Give and Take," a Universal picture in which he and George Sidney share honors. The Universal character star is to enjoy a vacation while "The Climax," his forthcoming starring vehicle, is being prepared for filming. Renaud Hoffman is slated to direct this opus with Kathryn Crawford in the leading feminine role.

GIBSON RECUPERATES

"Hoot" Gibson, Universal western star, is recuperating from an attack of "flu," which kept him confined in his Beverly Hills home under a doctor's constant care for three weeks. Pending the actor's recovery, all work on his picture has been temporarily abandoned.

Brown Survives Coast Tragedy

Melville Brown, who adapted and directed Universal's "Red Lips," at Pantages this week, with Marian Nixon and Charles Rogers featured, was one of the survivors of the wreck of the steamship Bear, off the coast of California several years ago.

Brown, who had been in vaudeville and on the stage in Portland, was on his way to Hollywood in search of a job in the movies. When he finally arrived here Charlie Chaplin gave him a chance writing "gags" for "Shoulder Arms." This led to a contract with Universal.

"Geraldine," Pathe's version of the Booth Tarkington story, is Brown's most recent directorial assignment.

Dempsey-Taylor Party Expected

Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor will entertain a group of friends at the midnight matinee to be given tomorrow night by the colored Lafayette Players at the Lincoln Theater.

"Common Clay," powerful melodrama which formerly served as a starring vehicle for Jane Cowl, opens at the Lincoln tonight, marking the play's first revival in Los Angeles in almost ten years. Evelyn Preer, leading lady with the colored Lafayette troupe, essays the Jane Cowl role and Edward Thompson appears opposite.

Included in the Dempsey-Taylor party tomorrow night will be numerous prominent film makers of Hollywood.

TIME-TABLE FAVORITE READING OF ACTRESS

Leah Winslow's favorite form of literature is the time table.

Miss Winslow collects time tables of trains and busses much as other people hunt for rare first editions of books.

Whenever she has a day of leisure Miss Winslow, who plays Ada Towsley, the sister in "The Lady Next Door," which the Henry Duffy Players are presenting at the Hollywood Playhouse, goes traveling. She knows train and bus routes in every direction and can calculate to a minute exactly how much time she has.

"The trouble with most actresses is that they never see anything but an apartment and the theater," says Miss Winslow. "I am never happier than when I can indulge myself by taking a trip, even if it is only one of two hours' duration. I had but one day between closing in 'My Son' in San Francisco and starting rehearsals here for 'The Lady Next Door' yet I managed, by using busses, to stop for several hours at Monterey and Carmel and to reach here an hour before the rehearsal was called."

This is Miss Winslow's second appearance here. She was in the cast of "The Wooden Kimono," the mystery play, at the Playhouse.

"POWDER PUFF FROLIC"

A burlesque show of the breezy type, with an abundance of fun and catchy music—that's "Powder Puff Frolic," the attraction holding the stage of the Follies Theater this week. Max Coleman and Chic Barkham are the fun-makers; both are hard workers and lend all their efforts toward provoking laughter. Hazel Miller, Billie O'Neill, Violet Wagner and Judy Butler are the leading women, providing pleasing specialties and winning favor with their dancing. The Follies never has housed a production more attractive pictorially or more freighted with humorous lines and situations, it is averred. One of the high spots of the show is the Follies quartet.

Tattoo Marks Not Attractive to John Irwin

"The Barker," Milton Sills's newest starring picture and First National's first talking effort, which is to have its world premiere at the Carthay Circle Theater on Thursday evening, is a story of the lives of carnival folk, freaks, hula dancers, high and low-pitch men and the like. Among these is one character, called Sailor West, played by John Irwin.

Irwin has been a sailor, was born at sea—in fact, played the same role in the stage play of "The Barker." He is supposed to run the tattooing concession and to be "himself"—an individual like the one in the old comic opera—

"He was a human picture gallery—Such a spectacular gent—"

Really he hasn't a tattoo mark on him. His father wouldn't let him be thus decorated, he asserts.

However, he may now, with his artificial studio-made mural decorations, emulate the same old-timer of whom it was sung—

"It's all very true—you can beat a tattoo—but you can't beat a tattooed man."

Comic Cut-ups to Greet Fans at Boulevard

Personal appearance of Karl Dane, George K. Arthur and Pat Norman will be a feature at the Boulevard Theater tonight with the opening of "Brotherly Love," the new Dane and Arthur comedy which heads the Boulevard's "Laugh Week" program. Harmon has a prominent comedy role in the new picture.

"Brotherly Love" tells a story of life in a collegiate prison, where football replaces the rockpile, and the prisoners fairly fight to keep from getting pardoned. Of course the pretty warden's daughter, played by Jean Arthur—who happens to be no relation to George K—has something to do with the lure of the prison walls. Dane and Arthur are said to have amusing roles as prison guard and inmate, respectively. And there never was a prison like this before!

The entire show was designed to break Boulevard laugh-records, and Lynn Cowan, master of ceremonies, presides over a stage set which features Hight and Daugherty, comedy dancers, "Cookie" Bowers, popular comedian, and the Boulevard girls.

A collegian comedy, "Calford in the Movies," with George Lewis, Dorothy Gulliver and Eddie Phillips, completes the program.

Short Talking Subjects Added to "Ark" Bill

In accordance with a definite policy of from time to time incorporating changes in the entertainment on his long-run programs, Sid Grauman has just introduced new Vitaphone subjects and added new specialties to his prologue to "Noah's Ark," Warner Brothers Vitaphone production, at Grauman's Chinese Theater.

Talking features added include Al Abbott in "Small Town Rambles," in which he impersonates four typical rural characters, and Born and Lawrence in "The Aristocrats." Both are Vitaphone comedies.

The gridiron classic between Stanford and California in the Berkeley stadium, with the enthusiasm of the 80,000 spectators that jammed the big bowl, brought to the eyes and ears of the audience, is featured in Fox Movietone News.

Two gorgeous tableaux, titled "Christ Before Pilate" and "The Last Supper," are added to the prologue.

Curtis Bestows Praise on Star

"Patsy Ruth Miller takes direction better than any young actress I know," asserts Edwin H. Curtis, who directed the production of "Nightstick," in which the Henry Duffy Players are appearing at the President.

"Although Joan Manning is a difficult role for anyone making her professional stage debut, Miss Miller not only knew all her lines at the second rehearsal, but she never forgot a direction. There are numerous trick pieces of 'business' in her scenes and yet once she was given them she never forgot them. She acted more like a veteran player than one who always has performed in front of a camera before this time.

"Moreover, she had exactly the right feeling for the part and she read the lines with such intelligence that it was not necessary to change one of them."

Curtis, who directed "Nightstick," is in active charge of all of the productions of the Henry Duffy Players at the President, El Capitan and Hollywood Playhouse. He has been associated with the Henry Duffy forces for the last three years.

DAVE HEADS REVUES

Dave Good, master of ceremonies, now heads the Saturday stage acts at the Ritz Theater, where he will be in charge of West Coast Variety productions for some weeks to come. With the stage show on tomorrow's program is the feature film, "Out of the Ruins," starring Richard Barthelmess and Marian Nixon. "Me, Gangster," film version of the Post story, closes today. Following "Out of the Ruins," Buster Keaton's hilarious new comedy, "The Cameraman," will open a two-day engagement on Sunday. The new policy of four complete program changes weekly, starts today.

HIGH, HIGH UP IN THE AIR

Hans S. Linne, whose light opera, "The Beautiful Rival," will soon be presented in Los Angeles, has just created an additional musical number dealing with an airplane flight that is said to be one of the most unique of its kind ever played in a musical show.

"WINGS" SOON AT FIGUEROA

Following "State Street Sadie," Warner talkie which opens a three-day engagement at the Figueroa Theater today, "Wings," Paramount's epic of the air, will open a four-day showing. "Wings" will be shown with the dramatic sound accompaniment.

MARKETS CLOSED FOR THANKSGIVING

Stock and commodity markets, banks and business houses throughout the United States were closed yesterday in observance of Thanksgiving. The usual quotation services from the principal markets will be resumed in tomorrow's issue of The Times.

Occidental Oil Issues Report on Production

Leonard Garbett, secretary-treasurer of the Occidental Petroleum Corporation, in a report issued yesterday showing revenues of the company, stated that officials are optimistic over future developments and that the company should have a record year.

Gross receipts from three deep zone wells located in the Santa Fe Springs field total $17,194, the report shows. From this, landowners' royalty of one-sixth is deducted, plus estimated daily operating expenses of $350, which leaves approximate net receipts per day of $14,062 which includes $100 derived from the sale of gas.

From this total, 45 per cent or $6328 is the share of the Occidental Petroleum Company. This amounts to approximately 1 per cent per day before depreciation and Federal taxes, on the 630,000 shares of capital stock outstanding. Under the corporation's drilling contract with the Universal Consolidated Oil Company, 80 per cent of the net receipts are retained by the latter company until it has been fully reimbursed for development costs, after which Occidental receives 45 per cent on the net receipts.

Capital stock of the company is listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Curb Exchange.

Decline Noted in Week's Trade

Buying in the wholesale and retail trade throughout Los Angeles and immediate territory declined during the past week due to a number of causes, Frederick S. Sibley, manager of the Bradstreet Company, declared yesterday in his weekly letter on local conditions.

Retail dry goods and allied lines feel the competition from the mail order retail stores and the great number of 5 and 10-cent and $1 stores that have entered this territory in the past year. Bank clearings and postal receipts show a marked increase over the same week a year ago. Crops are fairly good although the rainfall which is below that of a year ago, is needed greatly.

EMSCO TO EXPAND ABROAD

E. M. Smith Announces Establishment of Plant in England for Oil-Well Equipment

BY EARLE E. CROWE

E. M. Smith, Los Angeles industrialist, has decided to become a British manufacturer. Upon his return yesterday from Europe, he announced that the Emsco Derrick and Equipment Company, of which he is president, has purchased the controlling interest in an English manufacturing company, and will immediately reorganize the business to manufacture the same line of products made in the Emsco plants in the United States.

Under the name of Emsco Engineering, Ltd., the new British subsidiary will manufacture and distribute oil well equipment in all foreign markets which can be more readily reached from England than from the American plants. The English plant is located at St. Albans, about twenty miles from London, and has been manufacturing oil well equipment and other products for the last forty years.

LOCATION ADVANTAGEOUS

Mr. Smith decided upon the location in England after investigating possibilities for an Emsco plant in Belgium, France and Germany. He found that English labor will cost him about one-half the amount paid to American labor, and that the principal markets for oil well equipment in Russia, Poland, Rumania, the Dutch East Indies and South America are easily accessible from England. Some of the South American business, however, may be handled from the Los Angeles plant.

This year, Mr. Smith said, his American plants, which are located in Houston, Dallas, and Los Angeles, will ship about $1,000,000 worth of equipment to foreign buyers, principally from Los Angeles. The inviting prospects for an increase in this business impelled his decision to establish a foreign plant, especially so in view of the agitation among British buyers to buy only British-made products.

By organizing a British company and manufacturing his products in England, Mr. Smith observed that he is following the course already adopted by other American manufacturers. The automobile and the tire manufacturers, for example, have established British subsidiaries which are turning British-made goods for the British markets. The introduction of American manufacturing and American selling methods has placed these foreign ventures on a profitable basis.

Around the first of the year Emsco Engineering, Ltd., will be operating on the new basis. The plant will be tripled in size at a cost of approximately $500,000.

DISTRIBUTOR ENGAGED

The Emsco president also transacted another important piece of business while he was away. He contracted with the Continental Supply Company, subsidiary of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, to act as the distributor for Emsco oil well products in the Mid-Continent area. This company, Mr. Smith said, operates a comprehensive list of supply stores in the Middle Western and Eatsern States, and the arrangement should substantially increase Emsco sales.

This announcement disposes of the rumor current here earlier in the week that the Youngstown company is negotiating for the acquisition of Emsco Derrick and Equipment. Mr. Smith said the story has no foundation.

While he was in England, Mr. Smith was also interested in investigating Deisel engine performance in the airplane field. He engaged the services of a well-known English expert on Deisel engines, who will arrive in Los Angeles shortly to supervise experiments in the newly erected plant of the Emsco Aero Engine Company. Mr. Smith is keenly interested in aviation possibilities, and believes he can build an oil-burning engine of 1000 to 1500 horsepower to propel the large transport planes. The airplane engine company is his own personal venture, and takes the place of a hobby, as he expresses it.

Besides the Emsco Derrick and Equipment Company and Emsco Aero Engine Company, Mr. Smith is president of Western Drop Forge Company, Emsco Forging and Press Company, Emsco Refractories, Emsco Clay Company, E. M. Smith Company, and chairman of the Pacific National Bank.

Westinghouse in Financing Pact

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—The Commercial Investment Trust Corporation yesterday announces the conclusion of a contract with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company under which the former will take over the installment financing formerly provided by the Westinghouse Acceptance Corporation which will accept no further new business.

This move engaged the attention of Wall street inasmuch as the General Electric Company a few months ago had turned its installment financing over to the General Contract Purchase Corporation, a subsidiary of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation which formerly and still handles Studebaker installment financing.

DATES CHANGED FOR A.B.A. CONVENTION

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (Exclusive) A change in the dates of the 1929 American Bankers' Association convention at San Francisco to September 30, October 1, 3, in place of the original dates of October 14 to 17, was announced today by F. N. Shepherd, executive manager of the organization. The original dates were set to avoid conflicts with other previously scheduled local events at San Francisco, but a satisfactory arrangement has been worked out and the new convention dates will permit the delegates to the American Bankers' Association meeting to avail themselves of the more favorable summer tourist railroad rates.

EXPANSION IN BANKING FIELD SEEN

Rise of Trans-America to World's Largest Bank Predicted

Rise of Trans-America Corporation as the largest banking organization in the world through entrance into this company of the newly proposed Bank of America of California and the Bank of America operating in New York City is being predicted in financial circles here.

Merger of Merchants' National and United Security, as announced yesterday, will result in the formation of Bank of America of California having resources in excess of $400,000,000.

Giannini interests, which control Trans-America Corporation and Bank of America in New York, are large stockholders in the new bank and principally responsible for the building up of United Security. Such a huge consolidation would result in an organization having earning assets of about $2,250,000,000, it is estimated.

At present it is generally understood that Trans-America will include Bancitaly Corporation with assets of about $300,000,000, Bank of Italy, $800,000,000; California Joint Stock Land Bank, $17,000,000; National Bankitaly Company, $105,000,000; Pacific National Fire Insurance Company, $3,000,000; Bankitaly Mortgage Company, $25,000,000; Americommercial Corporation, $2,000,000; Banca d'America e d'Italia, $60,000,000; Ameritalia Corporation, $10,000,000, and affiliated banks in California with an additional $65,000,000.

Should United Security and Merchants National, and Bank of America in New York, with aggregate resources of $725,000,000, join this group an organization would be born that would have total assets aggregating more than $2,000,000,000.

CANADA WHEAT POOL RULES

Marketing Organization in Three Provinces Controls 39.56 Per Cent of Exportable Surplus

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1928, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—The Canadian wheat pool, now the largest business in Canada, in the report of its directors issued yesterday for the close of business August 31, 1928, continues to show progress. For 1927-1928, a total of 209,971,000 bushels was handled, almost 50 per cent of the total Canadian crop.

"The fact that the exportable surplus of Canada is 39.56 per cent of the world's exportable surplus of wheat explains in a large measure why the control of the sale of this wheat by our organization is able to influence world prices and eliminate speculation," says the report.

Last year Canada sent abroad exports of wheat, including flour, amounting to 324,000,000 bushels, or 39.6 per cent. Next in order was the Argentine, with 186,000,000 bushels, or 22.7 per cent, followed by the United States with 184,000,000 bushels, or 22.5 per cent. Then Australia, with 73,000,000 bushels, or 8.8 per cent, and all other nations, 53,000,000 bushels, or 6.5 per cent.

In the world production of 4,207,000,000 bushels, Europe, excluding Russia, raised 29.1 per cent; United States, 20.1 per cent; Russia, 17.3 per cent; Canada, 11.2 per cent; India, 7.7 per cent; the Argentine, 5.8 per cent; Australia, 3.5 per cent, and all other countries, 6.4 per cent.

The report closes the first five-year period of the pool, the new five-year period beginning with this fall's crop. Business is expanding rapidly, especially in the field of country and terminal elevators.

All the pool elevators are owned by the three provincial pools of Mahitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The Mahitoba wheat pool owns two terminal elevators with a capacity of 1,750,000 bushels; the Saskatchewan operates five terminals and a transfer elevator with a total capacity of 28,000,000 bushels, and the Alberta wheat pool has three terminals with total capacity of 5,500,000 bushels.

When it comes to country elevators, the Manitoba pool has 142, of which eighty-five were built this

Motion-Picture Rentals Grow for Paramount

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (Exclusive) Domestic film rentals of Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation for October and during the greater part of November are understood to have increased more than 11 per cent over the 1927 period, it was reported here today. This is significant as rentals ran at the highest rate in history in the last quarter of 1927.

This is due to general distribution of such outstanding productions as "The Patriot," "Wings," "The Wedding March," and numerous sound pictures that are in strong demand. "Wings" bids fair to be the largest revenue producer of any film Paramount has made, it was stated.

Estimated consolidated net profits for the first nine months amounted to $5,973,609 or $2.90 on 2,049,517 shares of common stock outstanding. This was 10 cents a share below annual dividend basis of $3 a share recently established and compares with $3,650,460 earned in the same nine months of 1927.

Home of the Motor Coach

CALIFORNIA, with its vast system of highways stretching throughout the State, is the natural home of the motor coach. It is small wonder then, that great motor transportation systems have been developed at an early period in this State.

Motor transportation is one of the newest and most important public utilities, particularly in the West, where distances between cities and towns are greater and railroads are fewer than in the East. In fact, there are more than 855 towns in California alone that rely solely on motor transportation for both freight and passengers. During the year ended June 30, 1928, California motor stage lines carried over 33,000,000 passengers.

Foremost among the companies operating motor stage lines in the West, is the Pickwick Corporation, which maintains head offices and manufacturing plants in Los Angeles. Its stages travel over 7,000 miles of highways, serving more than 1000 cities and towns in many States, and extending from Portland, Oregon, through San Diego and on to Phoenix, El Paso and St. Louis, where they connect with the affiliated lines running to Chicago and Philadelphia, in which lines Pickwick owns a half interest.

TONE OF METAL MARKET BRIGHT

Price Holds Firm Despite New Record Production

Lead Weaker; Zinc Situation Viewed as Improving

BY CHARLES F. WILLIS
Editor, the Mining Journal

The announcement that new records have been made in the copper industry has had no effect on the price or the buying. Copper still stands at 13.77 f.o.b. refinery. The decline in the lead price did not stimulate sales and it is thought that there may be another drop below the 6.35 f.o.b. New York price which now stands. Zinc is still at 6.25 f.o.b. St. Louis but a higher price is predicted for the near future.

The present status of copper purchasing is that January metal is about all bought, February metal about half-purchased and March metal about one-third ordered. While the consumers are desirous of placing large orders for future delivery there is but little inclination on the part of the producers to place orders for any great quantity on their books.

The October figures for copper again showed a breaking of records in production and shipments. The refineries have been operating at practically full capacity, smelter and mine output never before so large and the refined stocks lowest in many years. Refinery capacity in the United States is estimated to be 1,800,000 tons annually and the October production was at the rate of 1,756,145 tons annually.

OUTPUT SETS MARK

Although exports of 54,992 tons in October were exceeded, with the exception of September, every month this year total deliveries on home and foreign account of 155,363 tons were the greatest of record because of the enormous shipments to home consumers, amounting to 100,371. Total deliveries exceeded total refined output by 6164 tons, bringing refined stocks surplus down to 45,948 tons, the smallest refined stocks in recent years.

Another notable feature of the month was production at United States mines which amounted to 85,801 tons equivalent to a daily rate of 2768 tons, being the highest primary output ever realized. Output of blister copper in North and South America also established a new high record, production in North America being 110,618 tons and in South America 33,643 tons. Blister stocks were increased by 1877 tons, as compared with September, this year.

In the first ten months of this year refined production in North and South America amounted to 1,324,496 tons, against output in the corresponding period last year of 1,239,314 tons and in the first ten months of 1926, 1,187,708 tons. Exports and domestic shipments also established new high records for a ten months' period, exports this year being 575,397 tons, against last year's foreign outgo of 526,215 tons and in the 1926 period 526,532 tons. Domestic shipments this year to date have amounted to 798,749 tons, against ten months' shipments last year, 714,718 tons, and in 1926, 766,025 tons.

LEAD IMPROVES

The weakness in London lead which brought about the drop in the domestic price, has continued. Statistically, the lead situation in this country is better but the price must stay down just as long as it is possible to buy lead in Europe and ship it to the United States at equivalent prices. The London market is reported to be stronger but without price increase.

Lead production in the United States and Mexico took a jump in October, totaling 78,847 tons as against 75,169 tons in September and an average monthly production of 76,271 tons for the year to date. The average monthly production in 1927 was 76,451 tons and in 1926 was 77,441 tons.

Stocks of refined and antimonial lead in the United States and Mexico showed a further decrease of 5350 tons during October, despite the fact that there was an increase in output of 3678 tons. The deliveries of refined lead during September of 63,274 tons were the largest monthly total since March, 1927. Thus the trend of the lead statistics is shown to be in favor of a better market condition.

Following the lead of copper the Lead Industries Association is now under way, grouping American, Mexican and Canadian producers of lead to do the usual things, promoting the welfare of those engaged in the lead industry. Clinton H. Crane has been made president of the organization and Felix Wormser, secretary-treasurer. The organization plans parallel the work of the other nonferrous-metal organizations.

ZINC BUYING MORE ACTIVE

Zinc buying, which has been on a hand-to-mouth basis, has been more active in recent weeks and there are signs that consumers are starting to build up stocks at their plants. The present stocks of zinc constitute about one month's supply and the consumers have been able to see what has happened in the copper market when stocks were allowed to be depleted. The single month's supply of the metal is not large when it is considered that this is about all the zinc that is on hand and that there are practically no stocks in the hands of the consumers.

The zinc stocks dropped during October from 47,915 tons to 46,068 tons as reported by the American Zinc Institute. But 59,832 retorts were in operation at the end of October, while the total retort capacity is 116,126. Zinc is being bought at present prices for delivery at any time up to and including March, a condition that does not bespeak for an increased price, even though predicted by authorities.

Steps are being taken by European zinc producers to provide for more orderly marketing and co-operation, this being done in conjunction with American producers and it seems now to be a definite and universal policy not to produce more zinc than consumption requirements. European consumption, as well as domestic consumption, is on the increase and it is expected to see a continued decrease in surplus stocks.

CANADA WHEAT POOL RULING

last year. The Saskatchewan pool operates 964 elevators, of which 240 were built this year. With this equipment the pool is now in shape to handle the bulk of the pool grain.

The percentage of pool grain handled through the terminal elevators has been increasing each year. Memberships are increasing, and it is expected that from now on considerably more than one-half the grain raised in Canada will be marketed through the pool.

It is contended that the pool price is from 2 to 4 cents a bushel higher than outside prices.

"Farmers know how to organize," said Collen H. Burnell, president of the Manitoba wheat pool and a member of the board of the Canadian wheat pool, to me, in discussing the situation. "It is not knowledge how to organize that farmers lack, it is the will to organize and stay organized. The trouble always has been that the farmer is susceptible to outside influences, but the wheat pool has demonstrated its capacity to handle the world situation, for Canada's crop is virtually 40 per cent of the world's exportable surplus.

"In our five-year contract period, beginning with this year's crop, we will handle better than one-half the total Canadian wheat crop, as there is a substantial increase in the equipment controlled by the three provincial pools comprising the Canadian pool.

"We see nothing ahead but fair weather and later a reasonable share of the world's prosperity. By prosperity I mean a time when every farmer who has done his best to raise a crop knows that his labors will at least give him a living wage. When that time comes we will boast of our prosperity, but not until then."

DOGS NOW CAN BE MADE IMMUNE TO DISTEMPER, DOCTOR STATES

LONDON, Nov. 29. (AP)—A discovery which is said to make dogs completely and permanently immune from distemper was announced today by The Field, an influential weekly sporting paper. The announcement was in the form of an official report by Dr. Patrick Playfair Laidlaw, pathologist to the medical research council, and F. W. Dunkin, a noted veterinary. They made an investigation together in the laboratories of the research council the cost of which was partly met by a fund initiated by The Field and partly from national funds.

The report published today held out the hope that the knowledge gained from the investigation into distemper would be valuable generally in the control of virus diseases not only in animals but also in men.

The investigation has not been concluded but the report stated that a point had already been reached when it was proved possible to render dogs immune from infection by double innoculation. The first inoculation would be with vaccine consisting of the sterilized virus of distemper and the second containing living virus.

proceed with the development of other oil properties under the firm name of Doheny & Doheny.

As a production nucleus they already have the Petroleum Exploration Company, which is operating at Seacliff and Muscle Rock in Ventura county, and they control the Hogan & Lytle well at Huntington Beach.

While they allowed about 7000 acres of the Temescal ranch oil lands to go to Pacific Western, the Dohenys still hold over 5000 acres of Temescal ranch, and it is believed that considerable production will be found there. They are already engaged in drilling a prospect hole there.

In addition to this, they hold Sec. 21 in the Poso Creek field, Sec. 35 in the Lytle Fault area southeast of Poso Creek, and recently purchased the Marland Oil Company's 800 acres in fee, adjacent to the Lindsay Oil Company's discovery well between Round Mountain and Poso Creek.

So the Dohenys still have oil-field interests at Huntington Beach, Seacliff, Muscle Rock, Poso Creek, Lytle Fault and the Round Mountain extension.

Two Nearing Completion

The General Petroleum Corporation has six wells at Santa Fe Springs drilling below 5000 feet, and two are nearing the production stage. They are the No. 189-C, running eight and five-eighths-inch casing at 5696 feet to cement off and fishing drilling at about 5800 feet, and the No. 189-C, standing with the nine-inch casing cemented at 5700 feet. The No. 190-C is drilling at 5228 feet.

In Seven Fields

The Pacific Western Oil Company, which recently bought the Petroleum Securities Company's oil field properties, starts out at the beginning of the month with actively producing wells in six different fields of this State.

One of the most productive properties is the Cone lease in the Inglewood field, and added to this are the producing properties at Torrance, Alamitos Heights, Ventura-avenue, Huntington Beach, Temescal Ranch, Kern Front and Poso Creek. The Orton and Willett leases at Ventura are regarded as an excellent piece of property and probably rank second to the Inglewood holdings. The Cone well in the Inglewood field, which Petroleum Securities rigged up to start drilling to the deep zone some weeks ago, is standing suspended.

It is reported that the new organization plans to proceed with an orderly and conservative development campaign on its various properties. It is not expected to start much field work until after the turn of the year and probably then will confine itself to satisfying drilling requirements for a time.

Signal Hill Leading

More permits for new wells were issued for Signal Hill than for Santa Fe Springs during the past week by the State Mining Bureau. The comparison was nine to six. It is regarded as unusual by oil operators that a field as old and as steadily developed as Signal Hill should continue to enjoy so much drilling activity. They also regard it as flattering to the field that its production should be so dependable as to cause this situation to obtain.

At Signal Hill permits were granted as follows: Shell Company, Alamitos No. 39 and Pickle No. 11; Delaney Petroleum Corporation, Anderson Commission No. 1; General Petroleum Corporation, Morris No. 1; Graham-Loftus Oil Corporation, Bank No. 2 and Bank No. 3; Hancock Oil Company, Signal No. 17; Southern California Drilling Company, Miller No. 2, and South Basin Oil Company, No. 4.

At Santa Fe Springs the permits were for George F. Getty, Inc., S.F.S., No. 27; Italo Petroleum Corporation, Archer No. 1 and Archer No. 2; Standard Oil Company, Orr No. 5, and General Petroleum Corporation, Santa Fe, No. 311, and Santa Fe, No. 221.

Other permits granted during the week were: Featherstone & Preston, Huntington Beach, No. 1, at Huntington Beach; Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil Company, No. 1, in San Luis Obispo county; Rice Ranch Oil Company, Brookshire No. 11 at Santa Maria; J. E. O'Donnell, Campbell No. 1 at Elwood; Franco Western Oil Company, No. 10 at McKittrick; Standard Oil company, No. 61 in the Midway; Cypress Petroleum Company, No. 15 in the Midway; Union Oil Company, King No. 4 at Belridge; George F. Getty, Inc., Farnell No. 1 in Kern county; Angiola Oil Company, No. 1 in Tulare county; Bullion Mining Company, No. 2 at Coalinga.

Wildcat Notes

The Storke No. 1 of the Petroleum Securities Company in the Elwood Terrace district is down 3200 feet and drilling ahead.

The California Eastern Oil Company's wildcat well in Hasley Canyon is drilling in hard shale at 2200 feet.

The Bankline Oil Company's Doty No. 1 at Elwood, an outpost project on which depends much possible drilling, is down 3900 feet. It is east of the present production. Several companies are ready to start drilling if it hits the oil sand.

Dunlap & Knapp's Orphan No. 1 at Elwood is tied up with a fishing job. The drill pipe was lost but has been freed and the drillers are now washing over it.

Anderson Not Retiring

J. C. Anderson, who recently resigned as president of the Petroleum Securities Company, is now back in his office, assisting Jacques Vinmont and W. C. McDuffie in getting the properties switched over under the banner of the Pacific Western Oil Company, which recently purchased them.

He expects to remain with the new organization for a time, but is non-committal as to his permanency there. He is emphatic, however, in his denial of the many rumors that he is retiring from the oil business. He positively intends to stay in the oil game, he asserts.

Getty Delayed

Drillers estimate that it will be Monday of next week before the Getty No. 18 at Santa Fe Springs, which sanded up Monday night, will be put back on production. The well came in with a flow at the rate of 3600 barrels a day, but after eight hours of flowing it sanded up solidly.

The work of clearing the pipe is going ahead slowly because of the danger of the well, with its strong gas pressure, getting from under control. Its neighbor, Getty No. 17, burned for seven weeks.

KETTLEMAN HILLS QUARTER LEASED

HANFORD, Nov. 29.—Dr. R. E. Dixon of this city reports that he has leased to the Shell Oil Company a quarter section adjoining land on which the Milham oil well in the Kettleman Hills is located. The lease is said to have received a substantial bonus on the lease. Drilling, it is specified, must start within a year and be completed within eighteen months or the lease is to lapse.

PORTO RICANS NEED MORE STORM RELIEF

SAN JUAN (Porto Rico) Nov. 29. (AP)—Ten days' personal study, as well as a survey on reports of Porto Rico's losses in the September hurricane showing a total of $85,000,000 have led Representative Kiess of Pennsylvania to the belief that further outside aid is essential for Porto Rico. Mr. Kiess, who is chairman of the House Committee on Insular Affairs, said that this aid must come from philanthropic as well as government agencies.

ELECTRIC DRIVE ON SHIPS URGED

Experts Regard Adoption as Highly Important

Use Would Aid Rebuilding of Merchant Marine

Aver Success Demonstrated in Panama Liner

Electric propulsion will play a leading role in the rebuilding of America's merchant marine, according to W. C. Watson and J. L. Roberts, trial engineers of the General Electric Company, who have been here supervising the final acceptance trials of the navy aircraft carrier Lexington, which in her full-power tests just completed developed a maximum of 209,751 horsepower and a speed of 34.82 knots.

Mr. Watson revealed that practically all of the fast passenger liners building or projected for offshore operation under the provisions of the Merchant Marine Act of 1928 are scheduled to have turbo-electric drive.

"The success of the Panama-Pacific liner California, pioneer electric-driven ship of her class, has opened the eyes of the entire shipping world to the possibilities of electric drive," declared Mr. Watson.

"Now, with the even greater success in her trials of the Virginia, sister to the California, which is due at Los Angeles on December 22, next, on her maiden voyage, the trend of opinion is fast shifting from the turbine to the electric motor.

"The Panama-Pacific Line is already building a third electric liner, with three more projected. W. R. Grace & Co. has let contracts to the American Brown-Boveri Corporation for construction of two big electric ships, and now we hope that the Dollar Line will adopt that propulsion for its new 20,000-tonners.

"Lord Kylsant of White Star has announced that the super-Olympic, which the White Star Line will build, will be electrically driven, while officials of the French Line have just arrived in New York for conferences with General Electric engineers and to inspect the Virginia relative to probable design of electric-drive plants for their new ships."

Mr. Watson predicted wide development of the Diesel engine for cargo ship propulsion and of the geared turbine for smaller passenger carriers.

RECORD ASPHALT CARGO GOING TO AUSTRALIA

Largest single cargo of asphalt out of this port will go out on the Union Line steamer Sussex for Australia tomorrow. It comprises 21,000 barrels, weighing about 4600 tons, and is destined for Adelaide, where a big road-building program is under way. Ten thousand barrels will follow on the Wairuna, due here December 6. Williams, Diamond & Co., are local agents.

Three thousand tons of cargo will be Los Angeles' offering to the steamer Bengkalis, out direct for Hongkong, Singapore and Dutch East Indies for the Java Pacific Line. In the shipments will go 6000 bales of old newspapers, 8500 cases of sardines, 14,000 cases of kerosene, 4000 new auto tires, plaster board and 250 tons of oil well machinery. The motorship Bintang of the same line is due from the Dutch islands Sunday with 2500 tons of crude rubber, hemp, desiccated cocoanut, manioc meal, copra meal, manila rope and coffee. For a new service, just instituted eight months ago, the trade in and out of Los Angeles is regarded as remarkable. Four ships are operated on this run, touching eight ports on the other side.

Ships were held away from their berths in West Basin for an hour yesterday morning, when a blaze demolished a warehouse on the water front of the San Pedro Lumber Company. Damages were $4000 to the structure and $2000 to contents. Origin is unknown.

Admiral Line will send the liner Dorothy Alexander here from San Francisco with football fans for the New Year's game at Pasadena, and thence on to Ensenada with an excursion party from Los Angeles. The liner now is tied up at Seattle. She will arrive here December 30, two days before the game, and sail the same night for Ensenada direct, returning the evening of January 1.

BALS STRUCK 'GONDOLIERS'

Theater Audience Hot Upsets Boat

Opera Taken Seriously and Near-Riot Comes

Help to Bring Peace; Money Refunded

By ERWIN SCHALLERT

Gilbert and Sullivan, musical operettas that have merrily round the world, today the possessors of a new [illegible]. Their names have been down permanently in the [illegible] of Los Angeles. Or if they haven't been, they should be. [illegible] is that a squad of po[illegible] was last night called [illegible] on the esthetic mer[illegible] Venetian creation, "The [illegible]" as presented by an it[illegible] company of player folk at [illegible] Theater.

"Gondoliers," in this local[illegible], is a seldom-heard work [illegible]. But it became [illegible] with its auditors. [illegible] in the advance advertis[illegible] a comic opera. It was de[illegible].

A general argument over [illegible] merits of the produc[illegible], with the officers at[illegible] to bring order out of [illegible] eventually finding the [illegible] and obtaining the [illegible] refund for the dissatisfied [illegible].

GAME SHIP TASK LEFT FOR FITTS

Long Beach Would Have District Attorney Curb Gambling Craft "Taxis"

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Nov. 29.—If gambling operations, or at least the transportation of prospective gamblers from Long Beach to the Monfalcone, one-time cannery ship but now a floating gambling palace anchored off Orange county, is to be stopped by law, that law will be invoked through the District Attorney's office of Los Angeles county and not through the Long Beach police department.

This was made clear here today by Chief of Police Yancy, following an opinion given by City Attorney Reid that, even though passengers first are transported to a fishing barge instead of to the gambling ship direct, operators of the water taxis may be prosecuted, providing it can be proven that the fishing barge is being used by owners of the gambling ship as a subterfuge designed to evade the law.

Under existing conditions, passengers destined for the gambling ship, thirteen miles out at sea, are first taken in water taxis to a fishing barge, anchored some distance this side of the gambling ship. Here they are placed aboard and those desiring to fish remain on the barge. Passengers who desire to go aboard the Monfalcone, however, are taken aboard another water taxi and transferred to the gambling ship.

In his opinion City Attorney Reid says, however, that the fact that passengers first are taken to a fishing barge and then relayed to the gambling ship does not alter the legal situation, being merely "a manifest subterfuge to evade the law."

No action will be taken by the police department, as was taken in the case of the now defunct Johanna Smith, but the matter will be laid by Chief Yancey before the District Attorney. Any action Los Angeles county may take will be confined to the transportation of passengers, since the gambling ship is not beyond the Federal three-mile limit, but is anchored off Orange county, it was said today.

HOLIDAY AUTO TOLL THREE

Others Also Injured, Several Seriously, as Crowds Take to Motoring Thanksgiving Day

Twenty persons were killed and thirteen were injured in Thanksgiving traffic accidents, a man who was hurt in an automobile collision Friday evening succumbed at the General Hospital, and Roy Hinkle, noted aeronaut and aviation pioneer, and his wife, returned to Los Angeles to recover from injuries sustained in an automobile wreck near San Fernando Wednesday evening, first reported here yesterday.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Motes, 1216 West Fifty-seventh street, and George Henry, 57 years of age, 624 West Second street, San Pedro.

The Motes car failed to negotiate a turn on the Ridge Route and crashed through the railing of the Santa Clara River bridge two miles north of Saugus yesterday morning. Mrs. Motes was instantly killed. Motes died before the car could be removed from his body and their 8-year-old daughter, Margaret, is believed to be dying at the San Fernando Health Center from a fractured skull and internal injuries, according to Deputy Sheriffs Ernst and Schottmiller.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Henry died at the General Hospital yesterday from injuries received Wednesday night in San Pedro when the car in which he was riding was struck by a machine driven by David Carlson, 28, 209-A North Center street, San Pedro.

Carlson was under the influence of liquor and failed to stop and render aid, the police assert. He

TUMULT GREETS MRS. M'PHERSON

Evangelist Arrives Denying Payment to "Anybody"

Throng at Station Unites in Noisy Demonstration

She Says Temple Books Open in Grand Jury Inquiry

In the midst of a boisterous home-coming program yesterday Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus Temple evangelist, denied flatly that she ever paid any sum to anybody, official or unofficial, for the dismissal of felony charges against her, which question the county grand jury will consider further today when it convenes at 10 a.m.

While a crowd of members of her temple and idly curious surged about her home at the tabernacle Mrs. McPherson, flushed with the colorful and noisy welcome she received on her return from an evangelical campaign in Europe, defiantly faced this question:

"Did you ever pay any sum to anybody or to any official for the dismissal of felony charges against you two years ago?"

"I'll swear that I did not," she replied.

"Are you willing to go before the grand jury and testify in the current investigation, or would you stand on your constitutional rights and refuse to testify?"

"I have not been subpoenaed. No one has asked me to go before the grand jury and I do not choose to answer the question," she said.

"You are aware, are you not, that Rev. John W. Arthur, an assistant to you, has surrendered to the grand jury certain checks and documents relating to the investigation?"

"I am," she said, "and that was on my orders. Our books are very carefully kept and the grand jury may see any of them at any time."

NOISY WELCOME

With that the interview concerning the investigation of the dismissal of her case, which grew out of her asserted kidnaping and which charged that she obstructed justice, ended. She had nothing to say of her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, from whom she is reported estranged and who gave two newspaper investigators certain evidence that was placed before the grand jury, which started the investigation.

Mrs. McPherson is just home from France, England, Scotland and Ireland, where she conducted religious revivals.

As the Santa Fe passenger train rolled into the station at 3:30 p.m. yesterday, two bands, a choir and upward of 3000 persons, many of them members of her temple, the girls and women attired in the Four Square Gospel cape of blue and dress of white, gave her a tumultuous welcome.

The crowd waited for almost an hour to greet the temple leader. When the train ground to a stop, there was a medley of band music, loud cheers and waving of blue and gold pom poms.

SHORT TALK MADE

The rush to the observation platform was brought to a halt when Mrs. McPherson, dressed in the latest fashions of the Rue De La Paix, came onto the platform with a huge bouquet of American Beauty roses in her arms and addressed the crowd, a goodly portion of which clung to the banisters of the First-street bridge above the station tracks.

"Hello, everybody!" the evangelist said, speaking into a microphone for the talking newsreel, and cameras snapped from a dozen points. "How wonderful it is to be home again. After this tour nothing looks so good as the United States and Los Angeles."

Mrs. McPherson compared the enthusiasm of the Europeans with that of Americans. She said she always thought the former to be cold and conservative but found them different at her revival meetings.

From the observation platform of the train she was taken through a crushing crowd by Boy Scouts, a police guard and members of the temple guard to a flatcar nearby, where she delivered a similar speech, with the accompanying microphone, cameras and cheers.

MORE HUBBUB

There was another hubbub and bustle as she was taken to waiting automobiles for the procession to the temple. Hundreds waited in the decorated streets at the tabernacle. She got another round of cheers as she alighted from the car and rushed into her home, where she spoke to the gathering from a balcony.

Everybody was a-flutter at the temple over the evangelista's home-coming. The interview, in which she denied paying anything for the dismissal of her case, took place, while bags and boxes were bustled in, attendants were hurrying about and she was exclaiming at the joy of being home.

Her traveling costume, direct from Paris, was a black velvet ensemble, with bits of grey, a metal-cloth turban, black silk stockings and black satin pumps.

She was accompanied on the tour by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Eade and her son, Rolfe. Mae Waldron, her private secretary, met her at New York and traveled with the party to the Coast, while the daughter, Roberta, met the train at San Bernardino.

"I have preached for twenty years," Mrs. McPherson said, "and have had great successes, but I have concluded that this tour has been the most successful campaign of my life. I shall go again someday, but I can never leave California definitely."

TELLS OF CITIES ABROAD

Mrs. McPherson occupied the pulpit at Angelus Temple last night during special home-coming services in her honor, but referred only

Street Lights in Downtown Sector Better

Virtually the entire downtown district is provided with a high-intensity lighting system at present, and the work is progressing satisfactorily, according to a report of Street-Lighting Engineer Lauer.

"The work of replacing the globe panels on the Broadway lighting posts has just been completed," he reported. "This change, at a small cost to property owners, will practically double the amount of light and, considering the new reduced rates for service, a great saving will be effected.

"This change to lighter panels was made after experiments by the Street Lighting Department. As a result Broadway is now the most intensely illuminated street in the city.

"The new ornamental system of high intensity on Spring street between First and Ninth streets is now being installed to replace the obsolete system and will be completed shortly after the first of the year."

NEPHEW ASK TO BE APPOINTED GUARDIAN

A petition for a revocation of letters of guardianship has been filed in the Probate Court by L. W. Barrett, through his attorney, Griffith Jones, asserting that Attorney Paul J. Otto failed to notify relatives of Mrs. Martha Gard, when he had himself appointed guardian of herself and her $10,000 estate. Barrett is a nephew of Mrs. Gard. He declares that his aunt is incompetent. He asks that he be appointed guardian of her person and that Otto care for her property. The hearing on the petition was set for December 21.

TONS OF COFFEE BURNED

Afternoon Blaze in Newmark Building Destroys Stock and Machinery With Loss of $100,000

Fire that burst with the force of an explosion through the top floor of the six-story building occupied by Newmark Brothers, coffee importers, at 312 East First street, shortly before 2 p.m. yesterday, developed into a spectacular blaze that caused damage estimated in excess of $100,000.

Raging through roasted coffee chaff and about machinery the fire gained considerable headway before the fire department, working under the handicap of a five-story climb, was able to bring it under control.

CAUSE OF BLAZE UNKNOWN

Approximately 700 150-pound bags of coffee were destroyed by the fire and a large amount damaged by water it is estimated by S. M. Newmark, member of Newmark Brothers, and A. P. Lazarus, secretary-treasurer of the company. Newmark placed the stock and fixture damage at $75,000. The building, the top floor of which was gutted, is owned by the Newmark Investment Company. No property damage estimate was made. Insurance of $145,000 was carried on the stock and fixtures.

Hugh clouds of billowing smoke and flame belched from the top story of the building, according to witnesses, when the fire began, apparently in the roasting room. The officials of the company are at a loss to account for the blaze, declaring that no one except a fire dispatch watchman was supposed to have been in the building. Coffee chaff, they believe, accounts for the fierceness of the fire. A blower, which separates the chaff from the coffee, was located on the top floor, and a theory that a spark might have smouldered in the machinery for hours before developing into a blaze is considered tenable. Fire department officials declare that several other small fires of somewhat similar origin have been extinguished at Newmark Brothers' place before.

CROWD SEES EXHIBITION

In addition to the damage done to the coffee importing concern, a Japanese cigar and fruit stand owned by S. Takayama and located on the ground floor of the same building also sustained some loss from fire and water. Roofs of one-story buildings immediately adjacent and across First street were scorched.

A large crowd that gathered to watch the fire was rewarded by an interesting exhibition of fire-fighting by four engine companies, four truck companies and three salvage companies under Battalion Chief Wetherell. The firemen were forced to run ladders from the ground to the top of the building to get their hoses in position to play on the flames. They had the fire under control in less than half an hour.

NONE HUNGRY ON HOLIDAY

If anything was lacking to make yesterday a perfect Thanksgiving Day for Los Angeles it would have required a post-graduate student of the school of pessimism to have discovered it. If anybody went hungry it was not the fault of the Midnight Mission, the Industrial Home and the Salvation Army and similar institutions which few thousands of temporarily unemployed men and their families.

Nor the fault of thousands of old-fashioned mother who found their chief cause for thanksgiving in being allowed to remain at home and prepare feasts for members of their families who attended the sporting events at Pasadena, the Coliseum and Ascot Park. However, most of these mothers found time to attend morning praise services which were conducted at hundreds of churches of various denominations, the most largely attended meetings being the union services at central churches of the many districts arranged by the Church Federation.

CROWD ON STEPS

As usual on Thanksgiving Day, Christian Science churches were crowded and thousands of worshipers sat outside on the steps, with bowed heads and lifted hearts, listening to scriptural readings and songs of praise which floated through the open doors.

Nearly 4000 persons attended the union service conducted at First Methodist Church, at which congregational singing was led by Hugo Kirchhofer, with Dr. Ray Hastings presiding at the organ.

Following a program by the choir and quartet, scriptural readings by Dr. L. E. McM. McNair, and invocation by Dr. John Snape and the recitation of the President's proclamation by Dr. Warren Grafton, Dr. E. E. Helms told of the work the Church Federation is doing for Los Angeles, mentioning the many departments which operate for the unification of all denominations in Christian work and for the general progress of the citizenry

Christmas to Reunite Son With Mother

Christmas for Pierre Hoppe, 23-year-old artist of 819½ Westmount Drive, will be celebrated by a reunion with his mother, Mrs. Frank Hoppe, whom he has not seen since he was 4 years of age.

The mother has been located in San Francisco and has telephoned him that she will come to Los Angeles Christmas, the youth stated yesterday.

Hoppe had thought his mother dead all these years, but she has been residing in San Francisco since an erroneous report of her death was made many years ago.

Suit Values Scars Highly

Miss Deva Keys is of the opinion that scars on her chin and forehead, caused by being hit by an automobile, are worth $25,000. Her suit to recover this amount is now on trial before a jury in Superior Judge Schauer's court.

Miss Keys brought suit against T. J. McCord and his employers, the Premier Service Company. She avers McCord was the driver of his employers' automobile which struck her when she was crossing the street at Whittier Boulevard and Fetterly street on January 28, last. She says the scars caused by the accident are permanent.

DISROBING SPEEDED

Life Guards Get New Uniforms That Come Off Quickly

Los Angeles municipal beach life guards are striving to acquire the reputation of being the city's fastest undressers, now that the Playground and Recreation Department has outfitted them in natty new uniforms that make them look like a cross between a sailor and a revenue officer.

Consisting of navy-blue trousers, jerseys and black and white peaked caps, the uniforms are designed for speedy removal, leaving their wearers ready to enter the water. The lucky members of the municipal life guard corps must be able to remove their outfits in less than ten seconds in an emergency, according to C. P. L. Nicholls, supervisor of beaches in the Playground Department.

The beach patrol is being kept in good trim these days physically as well as sartorially through regular life-saving drills held on the municipal beaches.

IMPROVEMENT ASKED

A petition requesting the improvement of Yolo Drive between Park Row and Spruce street has been received by the Council and referred to the City Engineer and Public Works Committee.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THERE is something creepy and unpleasant in these experiments with the vital fires of life.

Chemists in Moscow recently performed an astonishing experiment with the completely severed head of a dog. When the effects of the ether wore off, consciousness returned to the pitiful fragment of what had been a dog. It blinked when its eyes were threatened; it swallowed a bit of cheese placed on its tongue and tried to bark.

OUT-SMARTING NATURE

If these scientists do not stop trying to out-smart nature they will have the earth thrown off its axis some day and we will go hurling and tumbling around through space.

It stands to reason that there must be a delicate balance to the whole scheme of nature . . . just as in a balloon the altitude is affected by throwing a few handfuls of sand.

I wish they would stop monkeying with my share of the universe.

DON'T TELL HER!

Mrs. James M. Downey of Detroit is quitting politics for the kitchen because she says women voters are influenced by each other's clothes, husbands or friends—not political issues. By what does she think most men voters are influenced? I'd hate to tell her.

IDENTIFICATION

The police are not only taking fingerprints but footprints of criminals. If there are any other kinds of prints, they ought also to take them.

The question of personal identity is sometimes absurdly weak of performance. In Omaha, a colored man is apparently in high danger of lynching because some of the victims of the "hatchet fiend" squeal and say: "That's the man," when they see him.

Of late years it has been demonstrated that such identification is worse than useless.

WHO KNOWS?

In various banks, a large reward awaits the identification of a girl who claims to be the Grand Duchess Anastasia of Russia. People who knew the real duchess cannot agree in any particular as to the validity of the girl's claims. Yet they include doctors, ladies of the court, former intimate friends.

THE LAST PUNCHER

The last cowboy has gone from the Everglades of Florida.

To those of us who are soft tenderfeet, one cowboy is like another; but there were three distinct breeds—different in nearly every point of technique—the Texas-and-points-south puncher; the cowboy of Montana and the Florida variety.

They wore their guns differently; had different methods of girthing a saddle; and even handled the stock each in his own way.

The Florida rider used a long cattle whip instead of a reata, the thick trees making the loop impossible.

PROJECT CONTEMPLATED

Marking the end of many months of work and an expenditure of more than $23,000, the task of laying 19,500,000 feet of underground telephone cable from the DeLaware central office at 474 South Santa Fe avenue to Compton avenue and from Manchester avenue to Ninety-seventh and Compton has just been completed, according to an announcement by the Southern California Telephone Company.

COUNCIL TO ACT ON WIDENINGS

Hoover Street and Maple Avenue Involved

Additional Allocation of Funds Proposed

Protests Will Be Taken Up on Projects

The Council today will take up the report of its Opening and Widening Committee on the Hoover-street and Maple-avenue links of the Major Traffic Plan.

The committee recommended an additional allocation of $300,000 for Hoover street, to be expended in opening a connection, 100 feet wide, between the intersection of Figueroa street and Exposition Boulevard and the intersection of Thirty-second and Hoover streets.

On Maple avenue the committee report proposes that $1,250,000 of the city's $1,650,000 allocation be expended in cutting through a street 100 feet wide, from Third and Los Angeles streets to Fifth street and Maple avenue and from Vernon and Woodlawn avenues to Forty-sixth and Main streets.

In the regular order of business the Council will hear protests against the improvement of Lookout Mountain Road and Wonderland-avenue improvement district, the sewering of Roseview avenue between Tacoma avenue and Isabel street and a setback on Twenty-fifth street between Normandie and Congress avenues. Protests also will be heard against the improvement of City View avenue between St. Louis and Brittania streets, and the improvement of the Atlantic-street and Ezra-street district.

LUNCHEON WILL FETE CELEBRITY

Club Women Will Honor Founder of Birth Control Cult

Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, the chairman of the Hollywood Bowl Association, will preside at a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Margaret Sanger, leader of the birth-control movement, to be held at the Windsor Tea Room Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Among those who will attend are Mrs. Sarah Bixby Smith, president of the Friday Morning Club, Mrs. Orra Monnette, Mr. Paul Jordan Smith, and representatives of the Women's Medical Association, the Physicians' and Surgeons' Society, various local hospitals and clinics. There will be short addresses by Mrs. Irish, Mrs. Smith, and an informal talk by Mrs. Sanger. Mrs. Sanger's only public appearance will be made at Trinity Auditorium December 5, under the auspices of the Pacific Celebrities Forum.

INSANE ANGELENO WOMAN KILLS SELF

Emily Fisher, 68 years of age, recently committed by a Superior Court here to the Norwalk State Hospital, hanged herself in that institution late Wednesday night, according to a report to the Coroner's office. According to Dr. Worley of the hospital, the woman had previously made six unsuccessful attempts to kill herself.

In her successful effort, the woman tied her nightgown to the top of a window screen and jumped from the top of a radiator. Death was due to strangulation.

was captured after a half-mile chase by J. C. Kimball, arrested on a failure to render aid charge and released on $1000 bail, according to the police.

After Henry's death yesterday, Detective Lieutenant Jackson was unable to locate Carlson again, but said that if he is apprehended he will be held on suspicion of manslaughter.

CRASHED INTO WALL

According to Knabenshue, he, his wife, Miss Elsie Briggs of New York City and George Harrison were injured when their car crashed into a cement wall on San Fernando Road Wednesday night after he swerved the machine sharply to avoid hitting another car without lights which suddenly darted out of a side road in front of them.

The driver of the other machine drove on without stopping and investigators were unable to get any clews as to his identity. Mrs. Knabenshue, who was thrown through the windshield, was severely cut and bruised and physicians declare that she is in a serious condition. Knabenshue, Miss Briggs and Harrison received slight lacerations and were badly shaken up. All received first-aid treatment at the Burbank Emergency Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Knabenshue are at the Stilwell Hotel, where they were joined yesterday by the balloonist's 18-year-old son, Glenn, who came here as soon as he received word of the accident. The Knabenshues were returning to their home in San Diego after an extensive motor trip. They were married about a year ago.

FIVE MORE HURT

Five persons were injured, two perhaps fatally, in an automobile collision at Penrose street and San Fernando Road, Van Nuys, yesterday. The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Boardman, their daughter, Anna, 8 years of age, of 275 Mulberry street, Pasadena; Daniel A. Briscoe, 5733 1-4 Carleton Way and Mrs. Grace Staple, 5735 1/2 Carleton Way.

Mrs. Boardman was at the wheel of the family automobile, the police said, when the car occupied by Briscoe and Mrs. Staple crashed into it with terrific force. Briscoe and Mrs. Staples were taken to the San Fernando Health Center in a critical condition. The Boardman family were taken to the Van Nuys Emergency Hospital. Both automobiles were badly wrecked. Mrs. Boardman suffered severe shock, her husband was shaken up and little Anna Boardman was cut about the face and arms.

BOY RUN DOWN

King McPherson, 11 years of age, of 121 North Rampart street, received a possible fracture of the skull and a concussion of the brain when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver in front of 512 South Union Drive last night. He was treated at the Georgia-Street Receiving Hospital.

In a collision at Harvard Boulevard and Eighth street last night between automobiles driven by Sam Rothman of 1500 South Bronson avenue and Charles Ely of 2549 Camino Real, Arcadia, four occupants of the Rothman car received cuts and bruises which necessitated treatment at the Georgia-Street Receiving Hospital. They are Betty Rothman, 30, of 1500 South Bronson avenue, Robert Rothman, 8, of the same address, Annie Rothman, 62, of 2055 West Twelfth street, and Rubin Herman of 5523 South Vermont avenue.

TWO CHINESE HURT WHEN BRAKES OF CAR LOCK

Two Chinese were injured yesterday when an automobile driven by one of them overturned at Cahuenga Pass and Oak Crest avenue. The driver of the car, Chin Que, 32 years of age, of 317 Marchessault street, suffered possible internal injuries, and Chin Sung Sun, 59, of the same address, sustained a possible fracture of the skull. They were taken to the Dickey & Case Hospital. According to the police report, a Chinese woman who also was in the car was taken away from the scene of the accident in a private automobile. The cause of the car's upsetting was given as the locking of the brakes as Chin Que was attempting to make a U turn.

slightly to her original kidnaping case or the present inquiry.

She gave an outline of her European trip and she scored conditions in Paris, declaring she wants to return some day to "clean it up."

"Paris certainly needs the old-fashioned Gospel," the temple leader declared from the pulpit. "I am sure that eight out of ten people there do not believe in God.

"Paris is a gay and giddy world of night life. During the two days I was there I wanted to get out in the streets and throw up my hands and preach—but I can't speak French."

In referring to her London experiences Mrs. McPherson said the English, as she said she imagined, are not cold or formal, but are gracious and more emotional religiously than Americans—including those in her temple congregations.

"I didn't see a monocle at any of my meetings, and I had expected to see no one without one," she said.

keep the show going, in spite of the disturbances and interruptions. Members of the audience commenced leaving the theater at 9:30 o'clock and there was almost a constant stream of departers until the close of the act. The house was a very fair one to begin with, and it was evident that there are a number of people here who would anticipate a really excellent performance of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Among the members of the cast only one could be fitly deserving of mention for a consistent performance under duress and stress and that was George Kunkel, who knows his Gilbert and Sullivan.

The impression generally created was that of a misfit attempt to bring a worth-while work to a city that has become essentially critical in its demands for finished productions. And, though there were laughable moments during the hectic evening, the undercurrent of results was in a sense pitiful.

Young Widow Drinks Poison

A few minutes after she had partaken of a Thanksgiving dinner with a friend, G. M. Daniel, 144 East Forty-second street, yesterday, Mrs. Bobby Voris, 22 years of age, 2685 West Thirty-fifth street, excused herself, went into the bathroom and drank poison, Daniel told police.

The young woman was taken to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where Police Surgeon Severlen said she probably will die. Her act is attributed to despondency over the recent death of her husband.

Kinsman Sought After Shooting

Police are seeking Manuel Vasquez as the assailant of his brother-in-law, Angel Durant, 1147 East Vernon avenue, following a bitter quarrel last night at Durant's home, according to Detective Captain Jack Trainor. Durant was shot through the hip.

The asserted gunman fled and the victim was treated at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. Detectives were informed that the shooting was the result of a feud, which has existed between the two men for several years. Vasquez's wife is said to have witnessed the shooting.

Bandits Stab Film Worker

Mack Chagen, a Warner Brothers' studio employee, last night was held up and stabbed by two thugs near his home. His assailants escaped with $8 in cash, a watch and a salary check of $46, according to police.

The hold-up occurred when Chagen descended from a street car at Fountain avenue and Hoover street. One of the robbers drew a revolver, the other flashed a knife. After the hold-up the man with the knife stabbed Chagen in the left side. Chagen succeeded in reaching his home. He was taken to the Georgia Hospital.

STEWART TO BE REGULAR FITTS AIDE

Selection to Permanent Deputy's Job in Office of District Attorney Made

Appointment of Robert Stewart, formerly special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, as a deputy District-Attorney, to assist the grand jury in further investigation of asserted official corruption in the county was announced yesterday by District-Attorney-elect Fitts, who becomes chief prosecutor on Monday.

Stewart already is acting as special assistant prosecutor, with Attorney William J. Clark, in preparing the case against Dist.-Atty. Keyes and seven others indicted on bribery conspiracy charges in connection with asserted "fixing" of the Julian cases.

Tentative plans of Fitts announced yesterday are that he will go into the office Monday with six new deputies and six new investigators, the latter group to include as chief investigator, Lucien C. Wheeler, formerly chief agent of the Department of Justice in Los Angeles.

Fitts yesterday was busy completing the list of names for the staff of deputies, investigators and clerks and stenographers who will assist him in conducting the office.

Assistant Prosecutor Clark is devoting almost his entire time to preparing the case against Keyes and the other defendants who are docketed to go on trial December 17.

Flaming Well Casing May be Tapped Today

The flaming Bell View oil well at Santa Fe Springs continued to blaze unabated yesterday as the underground crew in the chamber surrounding the casing of the well forty feet below the surface prepared to tap off the escaping gas and oil through sidelines.

Engineers expect to bore in the casing today and reduce the flame by sucking out through sidelines some of the pressure to facilitate work of the ground crew trying to cap the well from the top.

Left-over Menu Will Be Taught

How the housewife may prepare the Thanksgiving dinner left-overs in new and palatable guise the following day will be demonstrated by Mrs. Mabelle (Chef) Wyman at The Times cooking school this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

Chilled cranberries will lend new flavor to the sauce of yesterday; turkey and chicken chartreuse temptingly utilize remaining bits of the leading entrees; celery-root basket presents discarded ends of the day before in appetizing salad, while upside-down ginger bread substitutes for the pumpkin pie, rarely edible the day after.

Security Apartments Sold in Hollywood

Building to Be Extensively Remodeled

"Five-Finger" Project Will Start Growth

Frank R. Strong, Walter R. Wheat, Elwood Riggs and associates yesterday purchased the Security Apartments, twin limit-height building on Ivar street just north of Hollywood Boulevard and in the rear of the Guaranty Building, according to an announcement by Thomas D. Barnett, who conducted negotiations leading to the transfer of the property. No sale price was given, but the transaction involves an investment in buildings, ground, remodeling and furnishings, of $2,850,000.

Plans call for the immediate remodeling of the building at a cost of $200,000. The outlay for furnishings will be $250,000. It will be operated by its owners as the Knickerbocker Apartment Hotel and will be ready for occupancy by March 1. It is the announced intention of the owners to make the Knickerbocker "one of the finest apartment hotels in the West."

CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

In connection with the purchase of the Security apartment building, a 1929 construction program running into millions of dollars was forecast by Mr. Strong, who has associated with him in many of his Hollywood projects Mr. Wheat, Mr. Riggs and Thomas D. Barnett. This combination built the Dyas Building and Vine-street Theater. Mr. Strong heads the Bartlett syndicate which owns seven acres adjacent to Vine street and Hollywood Boulevard with Hollywood Boulevard frontage, and with his associates owns 110 feet of frontage directly opposite Warner Brothers' Theater.

Construction of the Security Apartment Building was started by the Security Apartment Company, owner of the property, in 1925. Before it was completely finished it was thrown into court and held in litigation for three years, making it impossible to open the building for operation. Adjustment was effected recently and the sale by Barnett followed.

The building contains 444 rooms and is said to be the largest apartment hotel structure in Los Angeles. It is 170 by 180 feet, limit-height and is built of reinforced concrete and brick. The equipment consists of six elevators and the entire heating apparatus is of the electric type.

DEVELOPMENT TO FOLLOW

It was predicted by Mr. Barnett yesterday that the completion of the "five-finger" plan widening improvement will be followed by a $15,000,000 construction program. Anticipating the widening development, work already has started on the Bank of Hollywood Building and the Mountain States Life structure, both skyscrapers, in addition to a score or more of store buildings which will join the Hollywood-Vine nest of limit-height edifices.

Amsterdam, Holland, now has a bank exclusively for women, the first of its kind in that country.

Today's Bible Text

Though thou shouldest bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him. Prov. xxvii:22.

MEXICAN BUSINESS

During the first nine months of the present year Uncle Sam sent $86,000,000 worth of merchandise into Mexico. We took out about $93,000,000 in the same time. The trade balance is against us, but as we get oils and metals on the heavy end it is fine business all round. Our trade with the cactus republic is becoming a big item.

TEMPLE OF FASHION

The new Apparel Mart in Chicago will be the greatest and most expensive commercial building in the world. It will be not only a temple of fashion, but a rallying place for socks and suspenders. The idea is to make it a world center for the garment trade. The building will be seventy-five stories in height and will cost $45,000,000 to create. It will look the part. Every now and then the nation's biggest structure rises. This is it, for the time being.

ORIENTAL BOYCOTTS

The Chinese in the Philippines are boycotting the Japanese in accord with their present national policy. There are a great many Chinese merchants in the islands and they have been buying most of their wares from Japan. They have cut off this trade to the extent of $300,000 or $400,000 a month and the Japanese are getting worried about it. The Americans are opposed to the boycott, but are not able to do anything officially about it. The Chinese traders can buy pretty much where they please. The Japanese in the islands may retort by doing more merchandising on their own account. Tl.. friction may not long endure.

DAMN PROPER

A prominent English clergyman intimates that if a man thinks and means damn, it is fair and proper for him to say it. By itself damn is merely a healthy expletive. Its use rather makes for efficiency. It is now accepted as the casual thing in literature and the drama and mother may even use it on baby without being vastly reproached by the preacher. If the church is going to assent to all this it will be all right in the street and shop. The stipulation made is that the situation should be acute enough to warrant the emphasis. That puts a string on it. For instance, a thing may not be damn good but can be too damn bad. But the distinction is too fine for a careless man.

THE GREATER GOOD

The creation of a Community Foundation in Los Angeles suggests a sort of clearinghouse for philanthropies. It provides the service at practically no expense of a perpetual board of prominent and responsible citizens who will administer any trust in the public interest. If a man wish to leave a million dollars to hospitals he can bequeath his money to this foundation and leave a letter giving general instructions as to the use of the fund. This idea of the Community Foundation has been tested in several large cities. It gives stability and permanence to charity and provides a guarantee to all who are benevolently inclined. The inspiration for the organization is merely that of the greatest good to the greatest number.

A GOOD SEA RECORD

The coastwise liners Yale and Harvard, just completing seven years of operation following their World War service, have in that period safely carried 700,000 passengers and traversed 1,400,000 miles of California coast line. The record of these famous flyers, the first turbine-driven vessels built in this country, is an example to the American merchant marine.

Their achievement, however, is but one instance of the high order of American steamship operation on the Pacific, fast becoming the main theater of the world's sea-borne commerce. The history of shipping on the Pacific shows a remarkable freedom from marine disasters.

Further, a survey of the shipwreck record of the Pacific Coast in recent years reveals not a single case in which lives were lost in American ships through faulty material or doubtful courage of personnel.

THE BREAKWATER REJECTION

The recommendation of the Army engineers that, because conditions set out by Congress have not been complied with, no Federal aid be given toward the construction of a new breakwater and the consequent enlargement of Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor does not necessarily mean the death of the project. It is a sharp warning, however, that a mere gesture toward the unification of the port under one control is not sufficient and that nothing less than 100 per cent meeting of the government's requirements will do.

The warning should produce immediate effects. Difficulties have developed in the consolidation plans, but even the most extreme difficulties can be compromised if the will to compromise exists. There has, in fact, been much progress. The rail lines, so far as the Los Angeles portion of the harbor is concerned, have been unified, making it a simple matter to tie in the lines which serve Long Beach.

As to actual port consolidation, this has been approved by a majority vote of the people of both cities, despite political opposition in both. If politicians had their way, of course, there would be two separate harbors, more likely half a dozen, each providing jobs which could be used as patronage, and each with pickings for favorite contractors.

"We have spent more than a year and a half trying to get the two communities to agree to a plan and have failed," is the comment of Maj. Gross, in charge of the government engineering office here, on the situation. If Maj. Gross's lips were not sealed by his position, he might have gone further with distinct benefit to both the communities involved, and made public precisely what the points of difference are and why a plan is not agreed upon, so that blame for the failure might be properly assessed.

The development of Los Angeles-Long Beach Harbor as a single unit is much more than a mere crotchet of Congress, much more than the $7,000,000 breakwater appropriation that is to be gained now by consolidation. In fact, this appropriation is one of the least of the reasons for unity. The principal reason for unity is that it is decreed by nature—either a study of the map or a trip along the water front, preferably by airplane, is sufficient to prove this to anyone. There is one harbor, physically, and to attempt to separate it into two is to make both parts incomplete and inefficient.

The collapse for the time being of consolidation efforts, whatever its cause, will, as was said above, delay but not prevent the harbor improvements that are needed. In the first place, the requirements of the United States Navy and the merchant marine both call urgently for the completion of the work. The Navy needs a better anchorage, the merchant marine an expansion of facilities which will hardly be possible until a new breakwater is built, and both are powerful arguments for action by the national government. While these considerations are important from a national point of view, the improvements are indispensable from a local point of view, for if they are not made this potentially great shipping point will come to be of minor and secondary grade and the business will be forced to go elsewhere.

If a solution is not soon arrived at, the people of Long Beach and Los Angeles, whose mandate for port unity is not being carried out, will have to take it from the hands of the men who threaten to bungle the job and give it to somebody who can see farther.

THE BALFOUR FOREST

It was the Balfour declaration of November 2, 1917, that established Palestine as a national home for the Jewish people and to express their gratitude for that act the Zionists have dedicated to the British statesman a memorial of a unique and appropriate nature, a memorial that will not be stiff and rigid like a statue of stone or bronze, but will grow with the progress and development and beauty of the Holy Land restored.

On the slopes above the Haifa Road a large tract of land has been set aside to be known as the Balfour Forest. It is intended to plant here 300,000 trees at a cost of $350,000 which will be subscribed by Jews all over the world. The first trees have already been set out. As one tree dies another will be planted in its place so that the Balfour Forest will stand forever in the soil of Palestine. Such a memorial is not only a tribute to Lord Balfour's exertions for the success of Zionism, but also to the imaginative and artistic nature of the race that conceived it.

The idea is worth consideration in our own country. In March one of the greatest of our Presidents retires to private life. Millions of Americans have reaped the benefit of his seven years of administering the affairs of the republic. What more appropriate form could our recognition of his services take than dedicating to his memory an American forest to be planted and endowed in perpetuity by popular subscription?

Planting forests to bear the names of our American statesmen and leaders should have a strong appeal to a nation that rejoices in the appropriate symbol. Surely growing trees better tell the story of a great man's life work for the nation than stationary monuments and stark statues. Such memorials would not only beautify the landscape and provide recreation grounds for our citizens, but would also remind posterity that the commemorated lives were useful as well as inspiring. Imagine a forest of redwoods planted in honor of Herbert Hoover that would be a living memorial to him after 2000 years have passed away. Nothing in bronze or granite could stand this test of time.

LOOKING US OVER

Kofi Amoah, who holds the ancient right to rule over some 3,000,000 of dusky dwellers on the African Gold Coast, is in this country getting a glimpse of the new world. He will probably buy him a motor car and a coonskin coat to prove to the home folks that he has been civilized. He rules over about 100,000 square miles of territory and it is too much to go over with a wheelbarrow.

The LEE SIDE O' LA
BY Lee Shippey

FROM our Water Hole correspondent:

I met an old-timer at the Water Hole yesterday. "Mac," he said, in shaky tones, "after seventeen years of hard work an' studyin' pitchers, they've got me into the cull herd like an old pelter headed for the glue factory. I've pulled every daredevil stunt crazy scenario writers and directors could think of up on them Hollywood hills, an' been loose-herded to the hospital a dozen times. Now they don't want me any more. But the heck of it is that after bein' a champeen film cowboy for seventeen years I've forgot how to play the game in real life and can't hope to hold a job on a real ranch."—Alex McLaren.

Rain or Shine, Dooty Is Dooty

A Hollywood man claims to have the most faithful and true-to-type Jap gardener in town. Three days a week the gardener waters the lawn; and while rain was pouring on one of those days he went right out, in mackintosh and under an umbrella, to turn on the sprinkler system.

Helping the State U

A commission at Berkeley has decided that a married man with two children needs $6500 a year.

This would indicate that the members of the commission receive an average of $5000 a year, as men in that class all need about $1500 a year more than they are getting.

The fact is that it all depends on what you're getting now. If you're making $1500 a year you need only $2000; if you're making $2500 you need $3500; if you're making from $3500 to $5000 you need $1500 a year more, while from $5000 to $7500 you need $2500 a year more. Those making from $10,000 to $20,000 need $5000 more, those making $20,000 to $50,000 need $10,000 a year more, and all persons making more than $50,000 need twice as much.

Thus, we see that there is a great difference between the poor and the needy. The poor have very nearly all they need, but the needs of the rich are impossible of fulfillment.

Filipino Independence

First street from Main to Los Angeles and Weller street, angling off of it, form the center of our Filipino colony of 6000 or more, and often one can see the curbs of those streets lined with some of the finest motor cars in town. The explanation is that many of the Filipinos are houseboys or chauffeurs for wealthy families and seize every opportunity to parade the handsome vehicles of their employers before their envious fellows there.

Thur, the wife of a prominent Glendale man, bent on curio shopping in Little Nippon, the other day was surprised—and shocked—to see her own car (which she sometimes lets her husband use) parked in front of a dingy little pool hall. There was no chance of mistake, for the family crest—the masterpiece of a Pasadena artist—was on the car doors.

It was a very innocent place. But it reeked with fishy smells and Filipino cigarettes, and from somewhere in its depths came feminine voices. To her, it looked as if it might be a bootleg joint—or anything.

When her husband got home that evening she was at the garden gate to kiss him—and smell his breath. And it was a mighty lucky thing for him that there was no corroborative evidence.

The couple investigated. And now they say they don't see how any of the Filipinos can possibly want more independence than they already have around here.

A HUNDRED YEARS HENCE

Dean Herman Schneider of the University of Cincinnati commits some prophecies to parchment and puts them into a corner-stone to be opened in the year 2028.

He expects disease due to bacteria to be entirely banished by that time through electric magnetic waves of definite length. It is presumed that each germ has its wave length and smallpox or measles can be tuned out of existence like a jazz band or political haranguer.

Diagnosis will cease to blunder. Through spectroscopic analysis of the blood and other body fluids, you will be able to tell whether a man has appendicitis or plain stomachache. A man will not be operated on for tumor only to find it is toothache.

Indeed, surgical operations will be unknown save to dump the liver back into its housing in case of two cars trying to negotiate an intersection at the same time, or sew up a man's conscience after having it torn out by a jagged windshield. It will be as much against the law for a surgeon to have a knife without police permit as for a bandit to possess a gun today. Slaying bacteria will disarm the doctor.

Instead of smothering people to death by anaesthetics, the operator will deftly weave a film of sleep over the eyes of the patient and render him feelingless through hypnosis, to both the pain and the price.

However, man's disposition is offered little hope. He will possess the same passions; or rather be possessed by them. Women will be manipulated by the same vanities and ambitions will require the Literary Digest to make preelection polls.

The hope of it will be that every basic scientific fact will more and more continue to reveal an Over-all Intelligence. And continued scientific research will increasingly disclose something in us that goes marching on—a soul, if you will.

Science, philosophy and religion will walk together with greater surety toward the destiny whither mankind has been groping.

HAND-ME-DOWNS

Possibly no city in the world takes as much pride in being first in as many things as Los Angeles. We flatter ourselves in setting the styles in clothes and architecture. Even an original idea has a better chance for its life here than otherwheres.

And yet too many who would disdain to receive hand-me-downs in clothes, or hand-outs in food, beg for hand-me-downs in ideas. We insist on doing our own cooking and marketing; but we gorge on the thoughts of others and cry for more.

We sit with mouth and ears agape and upturned for half-baked morsels of thought and swallow them whole. Our intellects get dyspepsia and we grow peevish and think the world is awry.

A man who hesitates at ready-made clothing and smuggles it in at night by the back door will introduce a stale idea into his home by way of the front entrance and glory in its costly possession. A woman who hesitates to wear the same gown at two consecutive functions will pick up a stray idea and parade it until it becomes a pest and she a bore. Many who rail at bandits will plagiarize thoughts with abandon.

Just why theft in thought is considered more genteel than in jewelry or money, it is difficult to fathom. Possibly a big war or a great cataclysm gives rise to new alignments in politics and religion because men are blown loose from old concepts and are compelled to think for themselves.

We accept war as a necessary system for no other reason than that it was handed down by the past. It never occurs to us to change it. Millions of youths and treasure have to be shot to pieces to drive us from our smugness.

Mental laziness is the worst form of mendicancy. Anyone who is willing to throw the wheels of his head into reverse gathers followers. The Japanese are not the only copy-cats.

A boy has ceased to wear his daddy's old clothes; but not his ideas. Religion and politics yet stifle new life by old terminology. Many allow the ancients to do their thinking for them, as if Deity were dead!

THE DREAM PEDDLER
By James J. Montague

When even bats have gone to bed,
And not a sound is heard
Among the tree-tops overhead
Of katydid or bird,
When little stars, with prickly beams
Are slyly peering down,
A pyxie hurries round with dreams
For every child in town.

His step is softer than the rain,
His form is light as air.
He passes through a window pane
As if it were not there.
He stops an instant by a cot
Then takes his silent flight
Far swifter than a rifle shot
Out yonder in the night.

The very nicest dreams, I'm told,
He carefully will save
For children who are good as gold
And never misbehave.
But I don't think that's how it's done,
Like love he must be blind,
And, therefore, always leaves the one
That's easiest to find.

But if till late you lie awake,
As foolish children do,
You may be sure he'll never make
A single call on you,
But hurry with a noiseless tread
His nightly trust to keep
With children who, when once in bed,
Go right straight off to sleep.

LETTERS TO The Times

The Clown of the Woods

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] That cartoon of Gale's in today's Times. There's a lot to be said about it. The species of bear identified with California in history was the old grizzly. There is not a wild grizzly left in the State today, nor has there been for quite a few years. "Teddy" Roosevelt killed very nearly the last one in the Feather River country. The remaining bear of the land are the brown and black, and irrespective of what many people venture to tell, these animals are absolutely harmless to human beings or live stock.

The bear has been much maligned. The cougar or mountain lion attacks a flock of sheep at night. He is a ruthless killer and slaughters for the fun of it, only lapping up some of the blood of his many victims, and not eating flesh of but more than one of his kills. Then along comes old Mr. Bruin who generally subsists on herbage and offal. He finds the carcasses of the sheep, eats his fill, and departs leaving the last tracks on the scene—and gets all of the blame. The bear is nothing more than a great big harmless overgrown clown—he is the clown of the woods.

There is only one chance of man being attacked by a bear—other than the consequence of having wounded one—and that is if when walking along a mountain trail a person should happen to get between a mother and her cubs. Give a bear half a show and he will never even let man see him. I would rather sit on a mountainside with a pair of high-power glasses and watch an old she bear and her cubs at play than see the best show man ever put on a stage.

ALEX McLAREN.

America's Noblest Game

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me, as one who has spent twenty-one years in game conservation work, to congratulate you and thank you for the wonderful cartoon that was given front-page space in Sunday's Times, "Must California's Bear Go, Too?"

The bear is one of the most noble of America's game animals, especially the black bear, which has been found throughout the United States. In the State of Pennsylvania, where more bear are killed than in any other State, their most excellent system of game refuges has been primarily responsible for not only preserving the species, but increasing their numbers.

Far be it from me to criticise anyone for the little protection given bear in California. It is apparent, however, from game and fish department reports, that bear are decreasing; if the number killed each year can be taken as a criterion. In four districts of the State no protection is given, and in the balance of the State, the season is too long, and as far as I am aware there is no limit to the number that may be killed.

Although there are many sportsmen and conservation associations, and sporting magazines, that are interested in wild life conservation, they are somewhat handicapped because the great majority of the people are not reached, and it requires this majority to make rational game conservation legislation effective. The larger newspapers do reach this majority, and it is too bad, that more space is not given to this very important subject.

FRANK D. BLAIR.

The Indian Bureau

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] May a newcomer congratulate you upon today's cartoon, "The Vigil," and your editorial, "A National Disgrace"? Both of these seem to the undersigned most arresting work and of a high order.

Having but recently left Washington, D. C., after a residence there of forty years, I am wondering if abolition of the Indian Bureau will ever become an accomplished fact. For how many years have critics of its management been thundering at its heels, and to no purpose. Should Mr. Hoover, with the best intentions in the world, attempt to put the Indian Bureau out of existence, politicians would regard his efforts with deep disfavor. He might not be looking to 1932, but they would, you may be sure.

It would seem that Dr. Clement's solution is the correct one. Grant the Indians full citizenship and treat them precisely like other elements of the population.

A Sporting Jury

Down in Arkansas a man was tried for assault and battery with intent to kill. The State produced as evidence the weapon used, a rail, a gun, saw and rifle. The defendant's counsel exhibited as the other man's weapons a scythe blade, pitchfork, pistol, dog, razor and hoe. After being out several hours the jury gave this verdict: "We, the jury, would have given a dollar to see the fight."—[Charleston News and Courier.

SEEING MEXICO

BY WILLIAM L. VAIL

On December 1 the Provisional President of Mexico is presumed to take his seat. His term of office is for fourteen months.

Mr. Gil was the unanimous choice of Congress for his position and public opinion appears quite generally to have concurred in the selection. The man is well equipped mentally and physically for the job, if I may refer to it as such. He is a great patron of outdoor sports, takes an active interest in football, tennis, polo and can personally out-jump, out-hop and, as has been demonstrated, outrun anyone in his political retinue. His program for fourteen months will largely be confined to making effective the Obregon ideas or ideals, whichever you choose to call them. In fact, he considers himself as sort of universal legatee of Mexico's one-time man of destiny.

Already candidates to succeed President Gil for the six-year term are bursting into blossom. The elections take place next November, that is, Nov. 17, 1929. There will probably be no real nominating conventions, but clubs of patriots are being formed all over this broad land for the purpose of suitably and vociferously launching their respective candidates. On the near horizon are two distinct groups, one supposed to be the government party, whose candidate will probably be Gen. Aaron Saenz, and the anti-re-election party, which will probably nominate Jose Vasconcelos. Gen. Antonio Villareal is also reported to have recently set foot upon his native heath, against orders, with the purpose of casting his sombrero into the ring, and there may be some other scattering candidates who will run, but probably not fast or far.

Gen. Saenz is really a civilian. He has made an excellent record as an administrator and as Secretary of Foreign Relations under Gen. Obregon and Gen. Calles. At present he is Governor of the State of Nuevo Leon, of which the progressive city of Monterrey is the capital. He is ranked among revolutionists as a moderate, with a clear vision and ability to keep both feet upon the ground at the same time.

Mr. Vasconcelos is more of an educationalist and literary gent. He is chock full of modern ideas and would teach humanity to lift itself by the bootstraps if necessary. He has a strong following among the younger element. As Secretary of Public Education under President Obregon he set several pegs forward and the budget for that year shows a large expenditure on educational matters. Mr. Vasconcelos is right at this moment conducting a whirlwind campaign through Sonora, evidently making eyes at the extreme Obregon left.

Both men represent the best there is in the modern politics of Mexico. I doubt if either resorts inordinately to flubdubbery or hokum, but will attempt to haul their partisans according to their specific political brands.

STEADY READING

Mental curiosity and the newspapers may lead any man or woman into an educational world of wide horizons and untold possibilities, according to John Erskine, novelist, professor of English, and musician. In telling "What Education Means to Me" in the American Magazine of October, he advises those who find that self-education is necessary to enjoy new aspects of life and to appreciate the ever-new opportunities offered by a changing world, to read the newspapers; to follow up the natural curiosity awakened about the countries mentioned, the political situations discussed and the books, theories of philosophy or psychology brought into the day's news.

From the newspaper he tells us to seek the encyclopedia and in turn to follow other leads mentioned in the brief encyclopedic article, or to apply at the public library for some of the books suggested at the end of the article. "It is remarkable how much anyone can accomplish by the habit of steady reading," Prof. Erskine tells us. "The man who assumes that some day he will have plenty of time to improve his mind will probably go unimproved to his grave."

After advising the selection of one book of worth on history or biography from the public library, this writer suggests that a curiosity should be aroused about the great names of literature. "The bold thing, and in the end, the natural thing, is to take down Plato, or Shakespeare or Dante from the library shelves, just as though their names were Smith, Brown or Thompson, new authors whom our friends have mentioned."

Reading, thinking, comparing new ways with old, tracing the beginnings of things, gleaning truths here and there, and assimilating thoughts of leaders in all fields of knowledge—this is the education which is available to everyone who reads of any age. F. H. H.

WRONGS OF THE LAW

An innocent man was convicted of murder in England and sentenced to prison for life. He had been behind the bars for eighteen years when it was discovered, a few weeks ago, that a great wrong had been done.

In this country the unfortunate victim of the law's error would have been set free without as much as an apology. The English government has a better sense of justice. In freeing the prisoner he was awarded $30,000 by way of recompense.

Is this not a conception of justice the courts and lawyers of this country need to acquire? Ought there not to be, in the United States, some legal provision for recompense of victims of the law's bungling?—[Birmingham Press.

Fails to Outplay Oxy Team in Final Quarters

BY BOB RAY

Oxy College's two-year reign in the California Conference came to an end yesterday when the Sagehens was forced to bow to a more powerful Oxy eleven and went down fighting by a 7-to-6 score. The game, which was played before 10,000 fans at the Rose Bowl, gave the championship to Coach Ed Klemhole's triumphant Tigers and ended the Sagehens' first conference of the season.

Outplayed in the first half, which Oxy scored its touchdown, the Sagehens came back strong in the last two periods to provide a big thrill to the crowd by rushing the Tigers off their feet and once drove to within inches of the Oxy goal. Then the Tigers threw Poka for a 5-yard loss on the play and found themselves safely out of danger when the ensuing pass over the goal was batted down by Ward Schweiner.

A fumbled punt by Jack Mansell gave the Sagehens their scoring opportunity in the second period, but Mansell

Conquerors of Carnegie Outplayed by Coast Team; Strong Only Easterner Able to Gain

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—A nightmare, stark and terrible and fashioned of great, crashing figures in the pure white of Oregon State, shattered sweet dreams today. The dream of New York University for a football team that could challenge the recognition of the nation.

It was a dream that began when the first leaves of the fall turned brown, grew through overwhelming conquest of Colgate and Missouri, and reached its height in smashing victory over Carnegie Tech, master of Notre Dame. It came to as harsh and bitter and unexpected an end as any football dream could, shattered on the final day of the season by an eleven conceded scarcely a chance to win.

Third String Eleven Wins Over Auburn Without Aid of Star Halfback

ATLANTA (Ga.) Nov. 29. (AP)—The Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech wrecked the Auburn Plainsmen today, in a most lop-sided football victory, 51 to 0.

It was the biggest score rolled up by the Tornado in the eight years Coach William A. Alexander has been head of the Tech athletics and most of the offensive was carried on by third and fourth string players.

GEORGIA TECH ACCEPTS

ATLANTA (Ga.) Nov. 29. (AP)—A resolution recommending that Georgia Tech accept the invitation to send its football team to the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., for a New Year's Day football game was voted by the Georgia Tech athletic board today.

A special meeting of the faculty committee will be held tomorrow to pass upon the invitation received by President W. L. Brittain from President Campbell of the University of California, the western representative for the game.

The athletic board's action was regarded as definite although it must be approved by the faculty before it becomes official. Upon approval by the faculty committee, a telegraphic poll of the Southern Conference will be taken. Sanction by the conference is also necessary befor the invitation can be accepted in full.

The invitation to play in the Rose Bowl was received last night by Dr. Brittain.

Webfooters Cop Victory from U.C.L.A. Squad in Coliseum Game.. Score 26 to 6

BY FRANK ROCHE

Oregon University's highly touted football team, rated as one of the best that ever represented the northwestern institution, went on parade yesterday at the Coliseum before 35,000 fans in a game against the U.C.L.A. Bruins and after all was said and done the Webfooters had defeated the local boys by a 26 to 6 score but the invaders did more damage to their reputations than they did to the Bruins in completing the job.

The Oregon players entered the game an easy 3-to-1 favorite to win and after floundering around for the first half of the game managed to run up a 6-to-0 lead. In the last half Oregon ran up another 20 to the Bruins' 6, but the local boys outplayed the Webfooters almost every inch of the way.

STANFORD SEES OREGON STATE WIN; POP PLANS STRATEGY TO USE AGAINST ARMY TOMORROW

BY ED R. HUGHES

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—Thanksgiving Day in the big town and Pop Warner gave the Stanford players a treat by letting them see a football game between Oregon State and New York University. If they got any turkey afterward it was the cold-storage kind. Not so good.

The city is all cluttered up with football coaches who have finished their seasons and who have bullied their universities into the belief that they should see the game between Stanford and the Army above all others in order to get some dope. The same coaches will be at Pasadena on New Year's Day, getting a lot of inside stuff. The life of a football coach is a beautiful one provided he wins. If he loses, throw him to the lions.

Pop Warner is just full of strategy and one confidential operative has just come in with a brilliant plan to beat the Army at the Yankee Stadium Saturday. Everyone knows how the Army is run—lockstep and all that, and no one allowed to think for himself. The officers do all the brain work and sometimes they forget.

HOPE FOR BREAKS

That being the case, the dope right from the feed box is that old Pop will wait until the Army gets on Stanford's 5-yard line and is all hopped up to score. Then he will

QUAKERS SMOTHER CORNELL

Pennsylvania Football Team Wallops Red Squad by Lopsided Score at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29. (AP)—Cornell, utterly defenseless against an overhead attack, was shot to pieces today by a quartet of Pennsylvania aerial artists led by Capt. Scull in the annual Thanksgiving gridiron classic on Franklin Field. The final score was 49 to 0.

A holiday crowd of 60,000 saw Scull wind up his Quaker football career in a blaze of glory and play the star role in the most spectacular effective passing game ever witnessed on Franklin Field. Scull personally carried the pigskin across Cornell's goal line four times and exhibited his remarkable drop-kicking skill by adding seven extra points after touchdowns to show a total of thirty-one points for his last afternoon's work for the Red and Blue.

It was the worst defeat Cornell's Big Red Team has suffered at the hands of Pennsylvania since this holiday series was begun in 1892, when the Quakers won by a margin of 50 to 6.

The remarkable effectiveness of Penn's aerial attack is shown by the cold figures, thirteen out of twenty-three completed for total gains of 313 yards, an average of slightly less than 25 yards for every completed toss.

Five of the seven Quaker touchdowns, sprinkled through every quarter of the game, were the direct result of passes, ranging from 32 to 52 yards. The air game left only 2 yards to be gained for an eighth touchdown, but the ninth and most spectacular of the lot came on a 85-yard run by Walter Opekun, fullback, after recovery of a Cornell fumble on the threshold of the Quaker goal line.

The sensational dash by Opekun, midway in the third period, definitely turned the game into a dismal rout for the Ithacans, as they saw their one golden scoring opportunity vanish in heartbreaking fashion.

Cornell was trailing at the time, 28 to 6, but there was still

HUSKIES WIND UP SEASON WITH 6-0 WIN OVER FOES

STADIUM, SEATTLE, Nov. 29. (AP)—The University of Washington Huskies swept to a brilliant conclusion of another wise rather dismal football season by upsetting the dope and conquering the Washington State College Cougars in a hard-fought game here today, 6 to 0. The lone touchdown and the victory it spelled took much of the sting out of earlier defeats and gave the 25,000 fans who crowded into the stadium good appetites for their Thanksgiving dinner. Chuck Carroll, the "human battering ram" and "one-man team" of the Huskies, did not get the honor of carrying the ball over the enemy line for the last touchdown of the season, and his last collegiate game, but it was his pass of 20 yards over the W.S.C. goal mark to Buzz Meader that gave the University of Washington its score.

"CHUCK" CARROLL

The touchdown came in the middle of the third period after the battle had waged evenly, with neither team having a decided edge.

HORAN KICKS

A few minutes before the touchdown, a determined Husky drive had brought the ball to W.S.C.'s 3-yard line, but Horan punted 35 yards and momentarily saved the Cougars' hide.

Johnny Flanagan grabbed the leather and was not stopped until he had it on W.S.C.'s 27-yard line. From that time on, the Huskies drove relentlessly toward the goal and did not stop until Carroll's pass had hung up the 6 on the score board. Johnny Dalquest, Washington fullback, was wide with

Notre Dame Will Arrive Here Today for Battle with Thundering Herd Tomorrow

RAMBLERS TAKE LAST WORKOUT

Rockne Lauds Team as Best "Fighting Eleven"

Niemiec Improved as Squad Starts Last Lap

Chevigny Again Sparkles in Defensive Play

BY BRAVEN DYER
"Times" Staff Correspondent

TUCSON (Ariz.) Nov. 29.—"I have had a lot of fighting football teams during my years at Notre Dame, but I never coached an eleven that has fought harder against insurmountable odds and disheartening obstacles than this 1928 machine."

KNUTE ROCKNE

That's what Knute Rockne, the sage of South Bend, says of his present team and bald Knute says it in all languages, including the Scandinavian. That's the team that Rockne is bringing to Los Angeles tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, primed to give the University of Southern California the battle of its life at the Coliseum Saturday afternoon. That's the team that took its final workout here this morning sprinting through two hours of practice that consisted mainly in defense against Trojan formations.

GREAT BATTLE

There's your challenge, Trojans. The fightingest team Rockne ever coached, pitted against a Trojan team which has shown battling qualities no other S. C. eleven ever exhibited. Looks like it ought to be something of a football game after all, despite Rockne's mock pessimism.

After watching this morning's workout we came to the conclusion that the Trojans are likely to win if their luck holds out and Don Williams remains sound in mind and body. This morning's local papers carry the word that Williams is down with the flu again.

In that case, the Irish ought to win. Or if the fine streak of luck that has been riding with the sons of Troy, deserts them, then the Irish ought to win.

But if U.S.C. is all there and too many breaks don't go against the Trojans it seems to us that the reserve power of Howard Jones will be better than that of Notre Dame, and, boy, both teams are going to need reserves in that football game for there will be plenty of heavy soaking.

Rockne's reserves do not measure up to his regulars in any capacity other than weight. The subs are heavier, but correspondingly slower, both mentally and physically. He hasn't the reserves of previous years and this has been brought out time and again when he has been unable to start his shock troops as in the days of yore.

The regulars are a smart team, quick as cats on the defense and already well hep to Trojan plays. This boy Leppig at left guard looks as if he would cause the Trojans plenty of trouble. He has brains, calls the plays as they come and smacks in there with a lot of dynamite. He leads a lot of plays for Notre Dame. Law, at the other guard, is more quiet, but very effective.

COVERS GROUND

Jack Chevigny, with the letter "O" silent, covers more ground than a Sears-Roebuck catalogue on defense. He plays the close-in right halfback position, but often cuts away over to Fred Collins's side to smear plays. Jack Brady, quarterback, backs up Chevigny, while Johnny Niemiec plays behind Collins.

Niemiec, by the way, looked a lot better today. Dr. Clough, the official physician, says he thinks "Butch" will be O. K. for the game. He declared he thought Niemiec had suffered a misplaced vertebrae in his neck two weeks ago, but that the bone had been snapped back in place. Niemiec, however, did not show as much dash and pepper as the others in practice, but this may be due to a desire to save himself for the game.

The triple-threat halfback is a beautiful passer. He takes the ball easily, never looks where he's going to throw, but has such an uncanny sense of direction that the receivers always take the ball on the dead run and it is never too far in front of them. Rockne's favorite long pass seems to be one which sends either Colrick or Chevigny deep down the middle of the field and then off to the left. Niemiec gets the ball right in their hands with unerring accuracy.

John O'Brien, the Los Angeles boy, is the pass catcher par excellence of the lot. He is over six feet two inches tall and takes the ball over his shoulder with the ease and grace of an outfielder snagging a long fly at top speed. It will be absolutely fatal if the Trojan backs allow O'Brien to get in behind them. It may be fatal, anyway, for Johnny can reach over the heads of Thomas, Saunders, Williams or Edelson, all of whom are mere midgets alongside of the former L. A. High boy. John is really only a third-string end, but his pass-catching ability makes him so valuable that Rockne regards him as an ace in the hole.

NOT SO GOOD

The second stringers had much less luck stopping Trojan plays than the regulars. Rockne was particularly aroused by the work, or lack of it, displayed by one lineman. "You know, Jack," he said, "you have less brains than the other men on the team, so you have to work just twice as hard to make up for it."

"Rock" is never at a loss for something to say to his players. One backfield man, in covering a pass, batted it into the air instead of down to the ground, and the receiver snagged the pigskin. "Come on, Bill," roared Knute, "we're not playing volleyball this morning."

At last night's banquet Rockne was the main speaker. That goes without saying, for the famous mentor is a spellbinder of the first water. Prior to Rockne's address a former U.S.C. man got up and had some words to say. During the course of his talk he remarked about the great metamorphosis which U.S.C. had undergone since he left there more than ten years ago. Metamorphosis, according to Noah Webster, is a four-bit word meaning change. The speaker used this word several times, and when Rockne got up to speak he sagely remarked that U.S.C. was about to undergo another great metamorphosis, which naturally brought down the house, inasmuch as the Tucsonians are loyal Notre Dame rooters.

A CUP OF THANKS

THANKS are due Oregon State this morning for the swell licking the boys from Corvallis, Or., gave the highly touted New York University eleven—the highest scoring major machine in the United States—at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Beating the East on western fields is nothing new for Pacific Coast teams, but walloping the East in its own backyard is a distinct departure.

The East has said it never could be done. The East always has moaned about the long trip and the change in the weather affecting the teams it sent to play on the Coast, and the East said no team could come from sunny shores into the slush and the slime of the Atlantic seaboard and beat its representatives.

But Oregon State did—and made a real job of it. And Oregon State is only a secondary team on the Coast this year. It is a good tough team, but it won only two conference games, and was beaten by Washington State, Southern California and the University of Oregon.

Some of the boys will say that New York University, after its sensational victory over Carnegie Tech, conquerors of Notre Dame, was in no shape to play five days later.

Granted that Capt. Lassman, its giant tackle, was in the hospital I say that no team potentially as powerful as New York University—with only one defeat this year—could be beaten by a second-rate Pacific Coast team unless the latter aggregation had the class to do it.

ABOUT SUPERIORITY

THIS has been the wildest and woolliest of all weird football seasons with one upset after another, but you can't help—if you are a Pacific Coast product—from seeing some superiority for the West Coast over the East Coast in Oregon State's victory yesterday.

And if Stanford can lick the Army and Southern California can turn back Notre Dame Saturday the West's cup of joy will be filled to overflowing.

That will be enough to crow about for one year after what our Pacific Coast boys did in the Olympic Games.

When Alonzo Stagg, the veteran Chicago coach, was here last spring he said the western-bred athlete is not superior to the eastern-reared athlete, but if Army and Notre Dame are upset tomorrow it's going to be pretty hard to make the boys out here believe Alonzo is right.

ANOTHER GAME

WHEN the Oregon State victory was announced in the press box at the Coliseum yesterday little Sammy Wilderman, the Oregon exploitation expert, was dumfounded.

"Well, can you beat that?" he exploded.

"Say, Oregon State failed to make a first down against Oregon until the fourth quarter. We beat them 13 to 0, and there wasn't any doubt about it.

"Wish we'd been playing that New York bunch, but anyway it's great to have some Oregon team in on the Turkey Day pickings."

FUMBLE WRECKERS

OREGON failed to overwhelm U.C.L.A. as badly as it expected at the Coliseum yesterday, but the Webfooters were up against a hard-fighting defense and in addition displayed the typical northwestern weakness of the year—failure to hang on to the ball.

In the first half, for example, the boys from Oregon fumbled and lost the ball three times, which compares somewhat with the efforts of Washington State against the Trojans. The Cougars fumbled and lost the ball five times in their game with U.S.C.

WEAK SISTERS MAD

U.C.L.A.'s stiff fight against Oregon was typical of that displayed by all the downtrodden conference members of the Coast yesterday.

Montana, which has done nothing all year, rose up and smote Gonzaga, whose class was demonstrated by a 21-7 victory over St. Mary's.

And Washington, which had been beaten by Oregon, Oregon State, California and Stanford, finally got into the winning column with a victory over Washington State.

TIGERS ON TOP

DESPITE the enforced absence of two of its regulars the unbeaten Pomona team put up its traditionally fierce fight against Occidental in their annual fracas, finally succumbing, 7 to 6, to the battling Tigers. The victory gives the Tigers undisputed possession of the southern crown on a percentage basis. Pomona and Occidental have lost one game apiece, but the Tigers have won one more game than their rivals.

Jaysee Title to San Mateo

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 29. (AP)—Displaying a brilliant and versatile backfield attack centered around Leggetts and Schaidach, halfbacks, the San Mateo Junior College defeated the Sacramento Junior College in the stadium here this afternoon, 20 to 6, thereby winning the championship of the California Conference, held last season by today's vanquished Sacramento team. It was a thrill-packed game with forward passes used by both sides with telling effect, one San Mateo score coming as a direct result of a 30-yard throw, and another pass paving the way for the second touchdown. A march down the field, using straight line-plunging football tactics, netted the other score of the Bulldogs.

BEAVERS CRUSH EASTERN RIVAL

Maple Leads Oregon State to Victory in East

New York University Sunk by Coast Eleven

Strong Only Man Able to Gain in 25-13 Upset

completely unsung Beavers from the Pacific Coast drubbed them so completely in every department of play that the actual score of the upheaval, 25 to 13, gave but little indication of Oregon State's complete domination.

Through a forward wall that had smashed every previous thrust, three great western backs — Capt. Howard Maple, "Honolulu" Henry Hughes, and Cy Sherwood—ripped and tore repeatedly, carving out long gains, tremendous marches, and three times piling over the Violet goal for touchdowns. Over the heads of the bewildered forwards, beyond and through the N. Y. U. backs, Maple threw forward passes that dazed the defense and accounted for the fourth score.

BATTERING BACKS

Looking as futile and worn against Oregon as they did keen and powerful in whipping Carnegie Tech, the Violets played their game only in the opening and closing minutes of the brilliant battle. Led by Ken Strong, highest-scoring back in the East, the Violets stormed out to score a touchdown in the first few minutes of play, then languished under a battering that lasted until the final moments of the contest, before reviving and fashioning the second score.

At the opening gun, Strong raced back 20 yards with the kick-off, tossed a 12-yard pass, and then charged through tackle, back to the center and straight down the field for 40 yards. Oregon held bitterly, but Follet swept around an end for 13 yards and the touchdown.

The 40,000 in the stands sat back, contentedly watching another typical Violet slaughter. Before they knew what had happened, the surge of the white-clad westerners was under way, the ball was in New York territory, and it stayed there for all but the last few minutes of the game, punctured by touchdowns, until the field was almost hidden in the dusk.

Coming back after that first score, the Oregon line opened gaping holes for Sherwood, Maple and Hughes to march, ten yards at a lick, to the New York University 7-yard line. There was a ripple of uncertainty in the New York stands, but the Violets held for downs. The Beavers had to kick, and things looked natural. Maple shot a looping pass 30 yards to Whitlock on the Violet 18-yard stripe, but that offensive was broken up as the period ended.

MISS LASSMAN

But that was just a start in the astounding things ahead of the confident Violets, facing an eleven that had been beaten this season by Southern California, Washington State and Oregon University. Before the second period was over Oregon State scored 19 points, smothered Strong's efforts by keeping the ball constantly in their own hands, and hammered to pieces the Violet line, woefully weak in the absence of the injured giant tackle and captain, Al Lassman.

With Maple directing an attack that consisted of double and triple passes, hidden ball plays, off-tackle and end sweeps behind massed interference, and long, looping forwards, Oregon marched 47 yards for the first touchdown, 70 yards for the second and 50 more before Maple tossed a deep pass of 13 yards to McKalip over the Violet goal.

Hughes raced 15 yards around end for another score, but the ball was called back for offside play. Sherwood made the first score on a 3-yard drive through center and Gilmore the second off-tackle from the 4-yard line.

There was no question of the uprising after that. The Violets were helpless in the third quarter when Strong kicked outside on the Oregon 1-yard line only to see the Westerners smash to midfield on 22 and 24-yard runs by Maple and Sherwood. Hughes kicked and recovered the ball when Follet fumbled on his 23-yard line.

In a half-dozen plays Hughes dived over the Violet goal from the 3-yard stripe and the game was turned into a rout. The shadows lengthened, N.Y.U. made its final bid and tallied when Mike Riordan ran 62 yards on a tackle sweep to Oregon's 23-yard mark. Strong, ending his football career in comparative glory, shot a 22-yard pass to Nemecek and raced the last 6 yards himself for the touchdown.

Oregon outclassed the Violets on the offense, scoring twenty-one first downs to eight for New York University. Maple completed three-quarters of the twenty passes he threw while Strong made only five count. The fifteen times Ken had the ball he gained 120 yards, almost half of the Violet's total gains.

Missouri Team Outclassed by Oklahoma, 13-0

NORMAN (Okla.) Nov. 29. (AP)—Oklahoma dominated the play on Owen Field here this afternoon. The Husky Red and White gridsters of "Ad" Lindsey outclassed Missouri University from the first whistle, buffeted them into disorganized submission and ended the season with a triumphant 13-to-0 conquest.

The victory placed Oklahoma and Missouri in a tie for second place in the Big Six, each with three victories and two defeats. Learning from the Kansas game that early scoring would bring victory, the Oklahomans got the jump on the Tigers, kept the Bengals on the defensive in their own territory and before the end of the first period had rammed through the center of the line for a touchdown.

Longhorns in Grid Victory

AUSTIN (Tex.) Nov. 29. (AP)—The Texas Longhorns defeated Texas A. & M. today by the most humiliating score they have been able to run up against their long-time football rivals since 1905. Today's score was 19 to 0. The 1906 count was 24 to 0.

Colorado Team Beats Denver

DENVER, Nov. 29. (AP)—A blocked kick today gave the University of Colorado a victory over its traditional rival, Denver University, 7-0, and lifted the Silver and Gold into possession of the State championship while Utah was disposing of its old enemy, Utah Aggies, at Salt Lake City, 20-0, and gaining undisputed occupancy of the Rocky Mountain Conference title.

FARMER JOE COOPER FIGHTS JOHNNY ADAMS AT HOLLYWOOD

Those who like their Thanksgiving fighting will get a pretty fair dish tonight at the Hollywood American Legion stadium when Johnny Adams meets Farmer Joe Cooper in the main event. These welters are not rated in Teg Rickard's blue book of fight attractions but they are a couple of club fighters that Hollywood fight fans have always relished. Adams being a great performer at the Legion stadium figures to win from Cooper.

JOHNNY ADAMS

Plenty of gloves should fly tonight as Adams wants to win from Joe and remain as a main eventer at the stadium. He is signed for three fights, but he must be a winner to get another shot. Cooper is also tied up at the stadium and there is a chance of him being matched with Jackie Fields in the near future. Cooper has a knockout wallop. He showed that by stopping Jackie Carr in two rounds.

The entire card is made up of club fighters. They are the kind that provide action and have been a minus quantity at boxing shows for many months. Jackie Mandell and Clayton Gould are bantamweights. This pair may set a fast pace for the main event to follow. Mandell is rated the best bantamweight prospect brought along this year. He seems to have about everything for a youngster and shows exceptional judgment under fire. Mandell has been put to a severe test all year and has won fights that looked as though he wouldn't get as good as a draw. He can come from behind to win which is a rare quality in preliminary boys. Clayton Gould is a type that can upset the dope. He is rugged and a hard puncher. The kind that is dangerous every minute of the bout.

The boys in the special are good preliminary welterweights. Billy Blake is a well-known performer and while Jimmy Ryan, his opponent, has never been seen at the stadium he comes highly recommended. Blake is the favorite.

Jimmy Peterson will meet Harry Goodland in one of the four-round shots and Tommy Cleary meets Fred Hawkins in the other.

ROCKNE, JONES, PRICE SPEAK AT GRID DINNER

Coaches Knute Rockne, "Nibs" Price and Howard Jones will speak at the annual University of Southern California man's homecoming football dinner in the social hall of the Student Union at 6:30 p.m. today. Other Coast Conference mentors, including Enoch Bagshaw, Charlie Erb and J. J. McEwan, and eastern coaches who will be in Los Angeles to see the Notre Dame game tomorrow, are expected to be called on for short talks also.

Reservations are being made for 600 alumni at the dinner. The fathers of the Trojan varsity men will be guests. Joseph Scott, Los Angeles attorney and chairman of the Notre Dame board of directors, will speak. Harold Stanier, former U.S.C. vice-president and now educational director of the American Institute of Banking, is coming from New York to act as toastmaster. Buron Fitts, District Attorney-elect, and Dr. James McCoy, president of the General Alumni Association, also are scheduled to make brief talks. The program will be broadcast over KHJ between 7 and 7:30 p.m.

CALTECH WRECKS AZTECS

"Fox" Stanton's Eleven Runs Wild on San Diego State Team and Wins by 33-to-12 Score

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 29.—Led by Capt. Elmer Mott, Stanton's field runner who scored four touchdowns, Coach "Fox" Stanton's Engineers conquered the San Diego State College Aztecs, 33 to 12, in a thrilling game here today that closed the Southern California conference season for both teams.

Coach C. E. Peterson's Red Devils scored first when Paul Avery took Lawrence Carr's long pass and ran 30 yards to a touchdown, in the opening quarter. The Engineers elected to receive after Captain Kenney Johnson missed the try for extra point and Muff ran the length of the field. He was aided by perfect interference, Clyde Shields, former San Diegan, converted. Both teams tallied in the second period and each missed the seventh digit. Archie Anderson plunged across the goal for the Aztecs after a pass from Carr to Terry Geddis, placed the ball within five yards of the goal. A long toss from Boyle to Haley put the Engineers in the scoring zone and Muff zipped around end just before the half gun.

TWO MORE

Muff added two more touchdowns in the third period. He took a pass from Shields about 20 yards from the goal for the first and raced from midfield a few minutes later. Shields's try for one point was successful and the Staters were offside on the other.

Shields brought the scoring to a close in the final quarter when he drove through center after Muff recovered a fumble on the San Diegans' 15-yard line.

Each team made 12 first downs. The Staters completed 9 of 19 passes and the visitors were successful with five of 15 throws. Peterson's team chalked up 237 yards from scrimmage and the invaders made 203.

FLU HURTS

The San Diegans were minus the services of several first stringers who were ill with flu and told. Art Wilson, Jimmy Hildreth and Wesner Peterson left their beds to play.

FLORIDA ALLIGATORS IN 60-6 GRID FEAST

FAIRFIELD STADIUM, JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) Nov. 29. (AP)—The University of Florida Alligators feasted on the Washington and Lee eleven in their annual gridiron clash here today, giving the Generals the worst drubbing they have received in years. The score was 60 to 6.

Lincoln Upsets Manual Arts, 14-0, to Give Polytechnic City Championship

TAKING HIM FOR A RIDE

That's what Charley Williams, Oregon halfback, seems to be doing to Earl Fields, U.C.L.A. backfield star, in this picture snapped at the Coliseum yesterday where the Northwest players defeated the locals by a 26 to 6 score. The Oregon player is not riding Mr. Fields forward, however; he is, in fact, shoving him back with the ball as Joe Fleming, Bruin captain, to the left, reaches the scene. Another Bruin player has been bowled over by Williams just before he tackled Fields. He is shown prone on the Coliseum turf.

PANTHERS SMOTHER LIONS

Pittsburgh Crushes Penn State, 26-0; Toby Uansa Stars With 98-Yard Return of Kickoff

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Nov. 29. (Exclusive)—The Pitt eleven closed its season today before 45,000 fans with a 26-to-0 victory over Hugo Bezdek's Penn State team.

The Panthers scored a touchdown in each of the four periods, their offensive attack being marked by the brilliant play of Toby Uansa, left halfback, who scored two touchdowns and played a brilliant defensive game, intercepting forward passes in midfield and also a pass on his 10-yard line when the Nittany Lions had made their only advance of the game in the third period.

Before the crowd had settled down Hamas kicked off to Pitt, punted the ball to the left of the field, where it was caught by Uansa on the 2-yard mark. He was away like a flash and, with perfect interference, ran the remaining 98 yards for a touchdown without being touched by a single opposition tackler. Edwards kicked the extra point.

Uansa was away for another touchdown in the third period when he scored after a brilliant 45-yard end run. Pitt's second touchdown was made in the second quarter, Parkinson pushing over the line after a 40-yard march. The fourth Pitt score was made in the closing moments of the game after State had fumbled a punt on the 32-yard line. Again Pitt employed a powerful running attack, which ended with Hood carrying the ball across the goal line.

KANSAS AGGIES DEFEATED BY NEBRASKA CORNHUSKERS, 8-0

LINCOLN (Neb.) Nov. 29. (AP)—Playing on a snow-banked field and in a driving snowstorm, the Nebraska Cornhuskers took advantage of the breaks and defeated the Kansas Aggie Wildcats, 8 to 0, in a drab game here today.

The victory gave the Cornhuskers an all-victorious record in conference competition and a clear title to the initial crown of the new Big Six Conference, but sent the Aggies to the bottom of the championship scramble, without a conference win this season.

Floundering in the snow, which practically nullified their attacks, both elevens played defensive games. The terrific driving, smashing Nebraska powerhouse was rendered impotent by the slippery field and ball, while the Aggies' aerial thrusts were equally as futile.

After muffing one opportunity to score in the opening period when Swartz, Aggies' fullback, lost the ball on a fumble on his own 25-yard line, Nebraska seized the next one which came a few moments later. Rowley's punt rolled dead on the Aggies' 4-yard line and Lyons's kick from behind his own goal only went 31 yards. Two line plays gained only 3 yards, but Rowley shot a pass to Ashburn for the counter. On a similar pass previously Ashburn muffed the ball in the end zone.

Nebraska gained the safety in the final period when Lyon was spilled when he attempted to punt from behind his own goal line.

GEORGIA TECH DOWNS AUBURN

Warner Mitsell, great Toranod halfback, was never in the game.

The third string eleven started and remained in the game all the first half, counting fourteen points, a touchdown in each of the first two quarters.

The first string went in at the opening of the second half and Parham scored a touchdown soon after play began when he took a backward pass and ran 20 yards across the goal line. Thomason came right back with a 40-yard run on a returned punt and in two tries Lumpkin went 17 yards to a touchdown.

CREIGHTON LOSES TO DRAKE IN SNOWSTORM

OMAHA, Nov. 29. (AP)—In the closing moments of a terrific battle, played in a blinding snowstorm, Dick Nesbitt, Drake halfback, ran fifteen yards for a touchdown, giving his team a 6-to-0 victory over Creighton University and the championship of the reorganized Missouri Valley Conference here this afternoon. Nesbitt's last jaunt came after he had carried the ball from Creighton's 43-yard line on eight consecutive plays.

Mustangs Lose to Christian Gridders, 15-6

DALLAS (Tex.) (AP)—A Texas Christian University eleven which rose to new offensive heights triumphed over Southern Methodist University, 15 to 6 in the team's annual Thanksgiving clash today by ripping the Mustang line to shreds early in the contest and successfully repulsing the Ponies' famed passing attack as the grid battle neared its close.

Led by the elusive, swift-charging Grubbs and Griffith, the Horned Frogs pushed across a pair of touchdowns and added a safety to their scoring seemingly before their rivals could get their bearings.

In the second quarter Redman Hume, the Southwest's greatest scorer, who has seen two recent games from the sidelines because of injuries, was rushed into the S.M.U. line-up. With the phantom ball carrier in their midst, the Mustang backs displayed a dash that had been missing earlier and Love dashed across the line for a touchdown shortly before the half ended.

TUSTIN GRIDS UPSET BREA OUTFIT, 7 TO 0

The Tustin Farmers sprung an upset in Orange County League ranks yesterday when they defeated the Brea eleven, 7 to 0, in a game that wound up the season for both teams. Smith, Tustin fullback, made the lone touchdown of the game in the first quarter when he climaxed a march down the field with a plunge over the Brea goal line. HUSKIES DOWN COUGARS, 6-0 his try for point, however, and the score remained unchanged throughout the contest.

McDonald's punting and his sure-footed dash through and around the Husky line, constantly menaced the university victory, until the final gun sounded.

The first period started with a bang. Horan returned Washington's kick-off 45 yards. Both teams resorted to punting almost from the start, and the ball was booted out of danger frequently when line bucks were smeared. The ball got no closer to either goal post than the 25-yard line.

The second period was much the same as the first. Both teams fought desperately. Long punts sent the ball back and forth over the 50-yard line from time to time. What might have developed into a touchdown for Washington fizzled when Carroll was high on a pass to Meader and the ball landed in the end zone to be brought back to the 20-yard mark.

CHARGE STOPPED

The Cougars had driven the ball deep in Husky territory just as the third period ended. They lunged ferociously into the Husky hordes and succeeded in reaching the Washington 4-yard line as the fourth period opened. The Cougars' big moment arrived and passed. McDonald dropped a pass just as he leaped over the Husky goal line, and the ball went back to the 20-yard line, never to be quite as menacing again. The Huskies played safe in the remainder of the contest, although at times the Cougars drove them back in terrific onsets.

W.S.C. had the edge of yardage gained in scrimmage, punts and passes, but Carroll's yardage of 43 was twice that of Rohwer, the Cougars' best ground gainer.

FRESNO, Nov. 29. (AP)—The California Aggies from Davis, opening a drive in the last quarter, defeated the Fresno State College Bulldogs, 13 to 0, in a final Far Western Conference football contest here today. The game, played at times erratically and at others brilliantly, featured a 40-yard return of a punt by Weir, Aggie fullback, resulting in one of the touchdowns.

ARIZONA STATE IS WINNER OVER REDLANDS TEAM, 20 TO 13

REDLANDS, Nov. 29.—The football team of Arizona State College at Flagstaff ate turkey here with great gusto tonight for they defeated the University of Redlands in a holiday game, 20 to 13. It was a wildly exciting game with Redlands staging a thrilling try to tie the score in the last two minutes of play. The Bulldogs carried the ball from their 20-yard line to the Arizona State 15-yard line and were all set to try for the touchdown that would tie the game when the gun cracked.

Redlands drew first blood when soon after the game started Pete Beiden started a series of passes to Hank Beiden, Loper and Greenfield that netted 12 to 15 yards at a crack. They worked the ball to the 5-yard line and there Beiden faked a pass and scooted around end for the first touchdown. Hank Beiden failed on the drop kick.

Soon after that Arizona unloosed an impressive series of line bucks, criss crosses and fake bucks that made four downs in a row. Then Armstrong was shot into the game and was given the ball on the first play. He slashed through the line, refused to be stopped by the secondary defense and carried two men over the line with him. Wilson kicked the goal making the score at the end of the first quarter, 7 to 6.

It was all Redlands in the second quarter with the Arizona team fighting desperately to stave off touchdowns. Twice Redlands carried the ball to the 5-yard line and once was held there and once turned back when Loper took a lateral pass and went out of bound just an inch this side of the goal line. Then Bell went into the game for Redlands, took three passes from the center of the field and on the last one crossed the line for a touchdown. The extra point was a pass, Beiden to Bell.

Redlands was ruined in the first five minutes of the second half. Armstrong did the work when he broke through the line for one 30-yard run and then came right back with another down the side lines dodging his was past half a dozen tacklers with outstretched hands. He failed to kick the goal and the game was tied.

The State team has lost but one game this year, an early-season game to Loyola of Los Angeles.

OREGON DEFEATS BRUINS

Webfooters Cop Victory from U.C.L.A. Squad at Coliseum by 26-to-6 Score

an overwhelming victory with a game on the U.S.C. football schedule next year as a reward for their work. Instead of that the Oregon team found the Bruins as tough as a beaney steak, while they themselves showed none of the football that has made them the terrors of the Northwest this season.

LOOKED ORDINARY

Capt. McEwan's team with the great "Flying Dutchman," John Kitzmiller, who was billed as being only sound to Chuck Carroll as a ball carrier, George Stadelman, a center who was being favorably mentioned as an All-Coast selection, and a line that weighed 200 pounds from tackle to tackle looked like an ordinary football team against the little Bruin outfit yesterday.

After the game one of the Oregon rooters declared that the Webfooters need wet weather and a heavy field to show at advantage. From the looks of the team yesterday against the Bruins it would have to rain here for months before the Oregonians would be ready for the Trojans.

The statistics of the game show that the Bruins made 276 yards from scrimmage, while Oregon made 313 yards. The local players coached by Bill Spaulding also accounted for 15 first downs to Oregon's 12. Out of that, however, the Oregonians got 26 points and the Bruins 6, which is what they pay off on. But nobody expected the Bruins to do anything against Oregon but get there on time. There were many at the Coliseum yesterday who declared that the Bruins won a moral victory in their first local appearance as a Coast Conference outfit by convincing the home-town fans that they really can play football.

COTTER GOULD SCORES

The only Oregon touchdown that was really punched over with real power was the second one of the game made by Cotter Gould. The Oregonians worked the ball down the field on lateral passes from Kitzmiller to Robinson, the latter incidentally was the outstanding player for Oregon, until they had the ball on the 15-yard line. Then Gould went pell-mell through the Bruin team scattering players left and right for a touchdown. The other tallies made by the Webfooters were made on lateral passes and intercepted passes.

The first touchdown of the game came in the second period after both teams had played sloppy football. U.C.L.A. had several good chances to do something on fumbles recovered by Jacobson but they lacked the old punch. Oregon fumbled four times in the first half of the game, but they also recovered several U.C.L.A. miscues. One of these, a fumble by Earl Fields, gave Oregon the ball on the Bruin 47-yard line. Then the Webfooters completed two beautiful lateral passes from Kitzmiller to Burnell to Robinson, putting the ball on the 13-yard line. Burnell came through with a third lateral pass to "Hobby" Robinson, who went over for a touchdown.

Just after the fourth period started Robinson, the dusky Oregonian halfback star, intercepted Forster's pass and ran 55 yards for a touchdown. It was a pretty piece of work. The negro player changed his pace when he met up with a Bruin tackler, shoving the gas back and forward as he raced to the Bruin goal line. It was his second score of the day. Kitzmiller kicked the goal. On the second touchdown the Webfooters got the extra point by passing over the goal line, Kitzmiller to Burnell.

LA BRUCHERIE SCORES

The Bruins took the play away from the Webfooters after the next kick-off and they hammered the ball from the 20-yard line to the 5-yard line. Little Buddy Forster, who was injected into the game in Simpson's place, did a good deal of damage. He heaved passes to Bishop, Barta and Fleming. Reuben Thoe did some good line plunging. With the ball on the 5-yard line Forster tossed a beautiful pass to little Bert La Brucherie who was standing on the Oregon goal line. He went over with the ball. Fleming failed to kick the goal.

The last touchdown of the game came after La Bucherie intercepted Kitzmiller's pass and ran with it to the Oregon 10-yard line. The "Flying Dutchman," however, came right back on the next play and intercepted a pass from Forster on the Oregon 5-yard line. He raced 95 yards for a touchdown. Robinson missed the goal. The Bruins went right back ripping off yardage but the game ended with the ball about on the 30-yard line in Oregon's territory.

Kitzmiller, outside of the one touchdown in the last few minutes, was pretty well bottled up by the Bruins. Joe Fleming, local star, was also in the same predicament. The outstanding stars of the game were Robinson and Earl La Brucherie.

PROVIDENCE ELEVEN NOSES OUT MAROONS

POTTSVILLE (Pa.) Nov. 29. (AP) The Providence Steam Rollers clinched the National Professional Football League title here this afternoon by defeating the Pottsville Maroons, 7 to 0, in a hard-fought game. The victory gives the Providence eleven a lead of a game and a half over the Frankford Yellow Jackets.

The Steam Rollers scored early in the second period when J. Cronin, halfback, rounded the Pottsville left end for a 12-yard run for a touchdown in back of splendid interference. Sonnenberg kicked the extra point.

Pottsville threatened to score twice, but on both occasions was held for downs within the Providence 10-yard line.

GAELS TRIUMPH IN ANNUAL TILT

Mack Stennett Plays Star Role at Bay City

Teams Battle on Even Terms for Two Quarters

Losers Score in Last Period on Forward Passes

KEZAR STADIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28. (AP)—With a blue-jersey youth named Mack Stennett in the saddle, a fighting St. Mary's eleven today rode the Santa Clara Bronco—rode him into a crushing 20-7 defeat before a holiday crowd of 20,000.

Behind the driving off-tackle thrusts of this brilliant sophomore halfback, St. Mary's marched early in the opening quarter to the Santa Clara 1-yard line, from which point Merrick punched through for a touchdown. The two teams then battled on even terms until the third period, when a poor punt gave the Gaels possession of the ball on the Santa Clara 27-yard line. Stennett again went into action, tossing sharply to Driscoll, who scampered fifteen yards across the goal line, and a few minutes later the former topped off his afternoon's work by weaving 33 yards through the entire Bronco defense for another touchdown.

Santa Clara, in a desperate effort to score, unleashed a flock of last-minute passes, and one of these, from Mettler to Koller, connected for a touchdown. The line-ups:

Brown Eleven Beats Colgate

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) Nov. 29. (AP) Brown today ended its row of Thanksgiving Day ties with Colgate here by defeating the Maroon eleven, 18 to 12. The game was brightened by the line play of Ed Kervorkian, the Bruins' veteran tackle, who was ending his college football career.

On the past three Thanksgiving Days Colgate was able to hold Brown even, but soon after the whistle started today's conflict Kervorkian drop-kicked his team into the lead after recovering a fumble, which placed Brown near enough to the Colgate posts.

Poets' Fumbles Contribute to Their 28-7 Defeat by Wildcats; Payne Makes Lone Score

TUCSON (Ariz.) Nov. 29.—Taking advantage of costly fumbles by the Poets, the University of Arizona eleven defeated Whittier College, 28 to 7, here this afternoon. The Quakers fumbled three times in the first half and Arizona recovered all three, converting two of the bobbles into touchdowns after short marches.

Fullback Stoffi scored first in the opening stanza and Hargis, subbing for Capt. Diebold, went over in the second. Acuff converted both times. The third play of the second half saw Diebold pass forty yards to Sorenson, who rambled eight more for a touchdown. Acuff again kicked goal.

The Poets tallied late in this period after a sustained march of seventy-five yards, Payne carrying it over. Capt. Weaver, who was one of the outstanding men on the field, converted.

Hargis came into the game again in the fourth period and raced 35 yards around right end for the fourth tally, Acuff adding the extra point. In the matter of first downs, the teams were even, each making fifteen. Last year Whittier defeated the Wildcats here, 13 to 12. The line-ups:

Scott Lost to Mercury Soccerites

The loss of Marvin Scott, star center forward of the Los Angeles A. C. soccer team, who was injured in the All-Star benefit game which was staged at Loyola yesterday, practically cripples the Mercury team's chances Sunday in the California Cup play. The Mercury team also lost Sam Wallace last week by the injury route. The Whites defeated the Blues in the All-Star game by 2-to-1 margin. Parkinson starred. Sunday the L.A.A.C. team faces Scots and the Vikings play the Magyars.

Two Mohlers Too Many for Tiger Eleven

The Mohler brothers of Alhambra High walloped the South Pasadena Tigers, 48-13, yesterday in the annual meeting of the two schools played on the Moors' field before a crowd estimated at 8000. Orv Mohler, the larger of the two brothers, scored all seven of the Moors' touchdowns while the smaller edition of the family, Norman, featured the game with several long runs besides playing a strong defensive game.

After Ord had scored three touchdowns in the first half, making the score 19-6, Coach George Hobbs took him out and sent in Norm, who, although not scoring, came so close to doing so that the South Pasadena coach sprouted several gray hairs.

Orv started again at quarter in the second half with Norm at fullback, and between the two of them the ball was put in scoring distance twice, Orv taking it over on both occasions. The third touchdown in the third period came when Orv intercepted a South Pasadena pass and as the gun marked the end of the quarter scooted 54 yards down the left-side line for the score.

Orv made one more touchdown in the fourth quarter, galloping 40 yards for the score, bringing the total damage up to 45, and his league season touchdown mark up to 22. This gives Mohler in the neighborhood of 140 points for the season as he has converted quite a lot of his touchdowns.

BAYLOR BEARS BEAT RICE ELEVEN, 25-14

HOUSTON (Tex.) Nov. 29. (AP)—Two touchdowns before the game was two minutes old gave the Baylor Bears a 13-point lead that a fighting Rice eleven was unable to overcome and the Owls lost the final game of the 1929 season, 25 to 14.

LOOKS LIKE A TOUCHDOWN! IT IS A TOUCHDOWN!!

And furthermore, it was the only touchdown of the annual Oxy-Pomona game yesterday at the Rose Bowl and gave Coach Ed Kienholz's Tigers a 7-to-0 victory over their Sagehen rivals. Ward Schweizer, Oxy's blond demon, is the gent packing the ball and he went over from the 9-yard line. The Tigers opened a huge hole at left tackle and made it easy for Schweizer to gallop through, cut back and gallop to the score. (Photo by Bill Snyder, Times staff photographer)

a terrific line punch left on a series of power plays. It was fourth down and only two yards to go for a touchdown, when Robert Dietrich, Cornell quarterback, fumbled as he hit the line. The loose ball bounded around for a few seconds in the mad scramble until Opekun scooped it up, and was off like a scared rabbit, sidestancing all tacklers.

Penn registered seventeen first downs to ten for Cornell.

Scull scored the first touchdown on a 52-yard passing play with Shober as the climax of a 73-yard advance. The Penn captain also tallied the last, on a 34-yard pass from Murphy, before he was carried off the field in triumph. In between he took the ball over twice more on passing plays of 33 and 44 yards, besides doing some superlative kicking and fine tackling as he bucked up his line.

TENNESSEE'S RECORD MARRED BY 0-0 TIE WITH KENTUCKY

KNOXVILLE (Tenn.) Nov. 29. (AP)—A husky Kentucky line that hemmed in Tennessee's sophomore backs checked the Volunteers' triumphant march in the Southern Conference with a scoreless tie, in the twenty-fourth annual game between the rivals. In 1916 on the same day after the Vols had swept through a season undefeated or untied to Thanksgiving, Kentucky halted the drive with a scoreless tie.

PASADENA JAYSEES WIN SOUTHLAND GRID TITLE

Pasadena Junior College scored an impressive victory over the San Bernardino Junior College to win the Southern California championship by the score of 18 to 0. The game lacked the usual Pasadena spirit, due to the recent "flu" epidemic, which caused the loss of many valuable players on both teams.

San Bernardino started off with its usual stubborn defense, but soon wilted under the disastrous line smashes of Rhine and Spellman, star Pasadena backs. Cooley's punt was blocked by Capt. Beyea of Pasadena, who recovered on the Indians' 40-yard line. A pass, Spellman to Thompson, netted 26 yards. This was followed by several hectic line plunges by Spellman and Thompson. Spellman plunged through guard for the initial score and Thompson failed to convert.

An exchange of punts, passes and fumbles saw the Pasadena team in a favorable position to score in the fourth period. With the ball on the Tribe's 3-yard line Spellman hit left guard on a trick play for the last score of the game. Again Pasadena failed to convert.

COVINA NOSES OUT POMONA

Chamberlain Converts One Touchdown to Give Colts 19-to-18 Victory Over Cardinals

CLAREMONT, Nov. 29.—Pomona and Covina made three touchdowns apiece in their wild game played at Alumni Field today, but Chamberlain managed to convert one out of three attempts while Keough didn't, so Chief Newman's Colts walked off the gridiron with a 19-to-18 triumph over Archie Nisbet's Cardinals.

One point, small but big, was all the difference between the two strong prep elevens, who provided thrills galore for a capacity crowd that surrounded the Pomona College gridiron.

Gene Fischer, elusive Covina halfback, gained all three of the Colts touchdowns on off-tackle smashes and captured individual honors in a day filled with spectacular football.

But for Fischer the Cardinals, Citrus Belt champs and until today undefeated, no doubt would have won. But Fischer was in there and he scored three touchdowns, so that's that.

Pomona depended on a brilliant passing attack that featured Keough and Afflerbaugh to pave the way to its touchdowns. Hippo Wilson and Parker did most of the gaining for the Cards through Covina's line.

Fischer scored first for Covina in the opening quarter, but Pomona came back with an evening counter in the second period when Wilson

Covina received the kick-off and Fischer marched right down the field for his third touchdown and the Colts had won, 19-18.

STANFORD SEES NEW YORK LOSE

pull his surprise play by having the band play the "Star Spangled Banner." Every West Point cadet will have to stop whatever he is doing and snap to attention. Pop hopes Red Cagle has the ball in his hands when this surprise play is pulled and he will be so astonished that he will drop it.

Then Pop elaborates the play by having the bow-legged Heinie Hinnecke pick up the ball that Cagle drops and run 99 yards for a touchdown. It will be a great play if it works.

Stanford men are hoping that if the play is tried, Bowlegged Heinie does not trip over formation A or B and gum up the works.

Another play that might be worked against the Army is to have the team call sounded just when the Army is in a huddle. The Cadets are all healthy young men, and if you put a plate of beans on one side and formation A on the other, the beans will get the most attention.

SAN JOSE JAYSEES LOSE TO MODESTO

SAN JOSE, Nov. 29. (AP)—The Modesto Junior College defeated the San Jose State Teachers' College here today, 13 to 6. Modesto outplayed the San Jose boys and their victory was not a fluke. COLUMBIA LOSES TO SYRACUSE TEAM, 14-6

BAKER FIELD, NEW YORK, Nov. 29. (AP)—Syracuse defeated Columbia by 14 to 6 before a crowd of 20,000 at Baker Field this afternoon. WEST WINS AT TIA JUANA

Judge Schilling, Home-bred Horse, Runs in Thanksgiving Day Handicap

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK, Nov. 29.—The West triumph in the Thanksgiving Day handicap, twelfth winter race meeting of the Tia Juana, Judge Schilling, a home-bred, scored a head win over the field as ever stepped to the barrier in an exciting finish.

Bred on the Rancho Valle de las Viejas of Baron Long, San Diego sportsman, Judge Schilling now carries the colors of Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco.

Judge Schilling won by a half length from Eddie Ahearn of the Catawba stable, an eastern establishment. Wirt G. Bowman, another home-bred racing for Baron Long, got the show. The winner raced the six furlongs in 1m. 11 4-5s., just one second over the track record held by Lucky Play and Mino.

Judge Schilling, breaking from near the outside of the field, went to the front soon after the rise of the barrier and was never headed. He had a two-lengths lead at the half and, rounding the stretch turn, pulled away to three lengths in front of Proctor Hug, who had followed closely to this point. Down the stretch Judge Schilling held his lead under hard urging while Eddie Ahearn, always well up, came charging along making his run. The big

SOCIETY

Early winter blossoms in gorgeous shadings, chrysanthemums predominating against a background of potted plants and palms formed the setting last evening in the ballroom of the Garden Court Apartments, Hollywood, when Miss Evelyn May Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Ford of Second avenue, became the bride of Joseph Clifford Barrett, with Rev. John M. Schaefle of Pico Heights Church officiating.

Large baskets of flowers and ferns with long gold tapers were used in the lounge and everywhere were flowers and ferns transforming the lower floor into a veritable flower garden.

The bride, who is the great-grand-daughter of the late Capt. J. D. Hunter, a pioneer of 1849, was charming in a gown of chantilly lace over ivory chiffon and flesh satin with tight-fitting bodice and long tight sleeves, the skirt full and circular. She carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. F. Thomas McDonough (Edyth Hergan) was in peach taffeta and carried roses to correspond, while Mrs. Ford received her guests in a Chanel model of blue chiffon, a corsage of gardenias completing the costume.

Following the ceremony a reception was held and Mrs. Ford was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Lelland Atherton Irish, Mrs. William Behm, Mrs. Walter E. Barrett and Mrs. Claude Butterworth.

A string orchestra played the wedding music and also gave a program during the reception and supper which followed in the dining-room. Mrs. Barrett, who was graduated from Los Angeles High School and later from Miss Fulmer's school, is a cousin of Mrs. Irish.

After a brief honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Barrett will be at home to their many friends here at 320 South Holt avenue, Hollywood.

Many lovely affairs were given in honor of this popular bride before the wedding among the hostesses being Mrs. F. Thomas McDonough who presided over a beautifully appointed luncheon bridge and shower, while others who entertained were Misses Eleanor and Lucille Inman, bridge supper and shower; Mrs. Victor Missell, bridge tea at her home in Hermosa Beach; Mrs. F. Brewster-Smith who gave a luncheon and bridge at the Mona Lisa and Mr. Barrett shared the honors with his financee at a supper dance with which Misses Charlotte and Elizabeth Prisler entertained at the Desuville Beach Club in Santa Monica.

LONDON VISITORS ENTERTAINED

Southland Friends Welcome Guests

[C. Elmore Grove studios]

Mrs. Albert George Ralphs and Mrs. Percy Brookbank

MANY friends of the Southland are welcoming back to Los Angeles Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brookbank, the latter formerly Miss Annabelle Ralphs, who since her marriage has been making her home in London, Eng. They are house guests while here of Mrs. George Albert Ralphs, mother of Mrs. Brookbank at her home in South Mariposa avenue and Tuesday afternoon the latter was guest of honor at a tea with which Mrs. Albert George Ralphs entertained for her sister in law at her home in South Rossmore avenue. One hundred guests were bidden to meet the visitor and Mr. Brookbank shared the honors of the afternoon.

Numerous delightfully appointed affairs are being arranged in honor of Mrs. Brookbank whose coming to Los Angeles is always a signal for much entertaining.

Tuesday evening following the rehearsal Mr. and Mrs. Irish entertained the wedding party with a supper in their apartments, those included being Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. William Behm, Mr. and Mrs. F. Thomas McDonough, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Barrett, Arthur Aerick Behm, Miss Ford and Mr. Barrett.

An interesting feature of the ceremony is that Rev. Schaefle has been the officiating clergyman at all of the ceremonies in the family for more than forty years.

Semiformal Dance

As a climax to Homecoming Week on the campus of the University of Southern California preceding the Southern California-Notre Dame football game tomorrow, the students and alumni of both institutions will celebrate with a semi-formal dance in the Student Union in the evening.

Glowing under the dim red and green flood lights, holly branches, poinsettias and holiday decorations will be delightfully suggestive of the approaching Christmas season. Hilton McCabe is in charge of the decorating committee, with Miss Betty Farmer, vice-president and social chairman of the student body, in charge of the entire affair.

Futuristic programs designed by Miss Muriel Phelps and invitations in an equally striking note will add to the spirit of homecoming. Refreshments are to be served in the palm-banked patio, lighted by colored flood lights, and music will be furnished by Ray Hatfield's Southlanders.

Screen May Get State Official of New Mexico

New Mexico's cowboy Attorney-General, Robert C. Dow, is planning to enter motion pictures as a Thespian after his term of office expires, January 7, according to information received last night.

Mr. Dow has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Dow, 6900 Estrella avenue, for the past few days, and while here took several screen tests and is considering offers from a studio, it is believed, although the report is unconfirmed. He returned to his home at Santa Fe, N. M., yesterday morning.

The Attorney-General's mother said last night that Mr. Dow will be very busy winding up his official duties for the next month but that after that time she expects him to make his home here and "maybe he will or maybe he won't go into motion pictures." Should he accept a studio contract it is believed he will act in western pictures, as his experience as a cowboy particularly fits him for such roles.

SUBWAYS TO BE LOWERED

Definite plans, which will represent the necessity for an expenditure of more than $40,000, for the lowering of cable subways on West Seventh street between Figueroa and Lucas street, have been formed by the Southern California Telephone Company. Work will be commenced as soon as the city conferences regarding the regrading of Seventh street are finished.

GUIDING YOUR CHILD

TOO HEAVY BURDENS

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

The minds of life should be tempered for the young lamb as well as for the shorn one.

We who are grown up must face bills, sickness and emotional unhappiness. As parents, we have had years in which to face reality and many of us find it no joke at that.

But children during their early years must be granted complete immunity from the stringencies of adult existence. They should sense nothing of money worries, sorrow and the shadows which hang over the grown-ups of the home. Distracted parents must not yield to the temptation of making children the confidants of their troubles. For the childish spirit is not yet equipped to endure these things.

Andrea was taken into the confidence of an unhappy mother. A child of 6, she was heard to wonder aloud whether mother would be able to get a scholarship again for her this year, and whether they could find a decent place to live in that would not be too expensive. She wished that daddy would come home to live with her and mother again, but "Daddy is so selfish."

These are not wholesome considerations for the mind of a child. The struggle to give her an education is no part of her concern. The family budget and the rent problem are things she ought not to worry about for some years to come. Her father's defection from the family circle she cannot help but feel, yet it can only hurt her still more to hear and echo her mother's harsh criticism of her father.

It is enough if the little child faces his own problems; if when he has spent his pennies all at once he can wait without grumbling until next allowance day; if having suffered defeat he keeps a stiff upper lip; and if wanting all his mother's love he learns to share it happily.

A child who too early feels the trials of adult existence has his shoulders bent by burdens too heavy for his years. When life seems too hard he becomes unduly saddened and serious, and less able to undertake his own adventure with a happy spirit.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mucus From the Throat

Question: A. G. asks: "What makes a person clear his throat so often? I do not breathe through my mouth but I have to clear my throat about every five minutes."

Answer: Your trouble is either caused from catarrh or it may have developed into a habit.

NERVOUS INDIGESTION

Question: Mrs. M. V. asks: "What is nervous indigestion?"

Answer: There is doubtless such a condition which can be called "nervous indigestion" and this is caused by enervation from too much mental or emotional excitement. In most cases, that which is called "nervous indigestion" is really caused by dietetic and hygienic mistakes which make the person nervous. Nervousness thus induced has an additional bad effect in disturbing digestion. Send large, stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for my article "A Curative Diet." It will be sent without charge.

SLEEPING OUT OF DOORS

Question: A. M. writes: "Please advise what you think about sleeping out of doors, that is, in an ordinary tent at the beach, during the winter months. I know of children who have slept out during the summer months and their health was greatly improved, but was a little doubtful about the winter months, as they are subject to pulmonary tuberculosis."

Answer: There is a decided advantage in sleeping in a place where one can receive plenty of fresh air, but this does not necessarily have to be cold air. The body should be kept warm and often when one sleeps out of doors in a cold climate it is necessary to use so much covering that the body becomes tired from the weight of it. It is just as well to sleep indoors and use lighter bed covering, keeping the windows open, allowing a steady flow of fresh air through the room.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply. This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 2 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, enema outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniated urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of surprise, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refreshing children, prune juice, time to wean, rupture, cities and milk and crude oil. Before asking a personal question about one these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

COMPLEMENTARY FEEDINGS FOR INFANTS

The well-read mother is perfectly aware that she is doing the best she can for her baby when she persists in nursing him through the first perilous months of his infancy. No one can be indifferent to the statistics that four bottle babies die for every breast-fed one the first year. With those facts facing her every mother will make the most valiant effort to cling to breast feeding as long as possible.

But because things do not always work out just at first in practice as they do in theory, some mothers do have difficulty furnishing enough breast milk to satisfy and nourish the baby. Baby can't be allowed to starve on breast milk, so complementary feedings may have to be resorted to to keep baby happy and to add the necessary pounds until there is enough breast milk, or at least until what there is can be utilized.

There is not the slightest danger in giving both breast milk and cow's milk at the same feeding, and complementary feedings merely complement the inadequate breast feeding and directly precede or follow it.

GUESSWORK UNSATISFACTORY

When giving complementary bottles, the mother cannot guess how much the baby needs to take without having some idea of how much breast milk he has had. Mothers are poor guessers about this and often think the baby is getting a lot when by his poor gain in weight he shows that he is getting far from enough. The baby should be weighed before and after each nursing. His gain in ounces will be the amount he has just received from the breast. Suppose he weighs ten pounds before nursing and ten pounds three ounces afterward; the three ounces will represent the amount of milk he has received. Just here let me beg mothers to provide themselves with scales. Some mothers depend on a weekly weighing on the grocery scales, and, while that is better than nothing, scales weighing up to fifty pounds can be bought so cheaply that every household should possess one. Especially is one necessary when things are not going well with the baby, for the scales so accurately tell the story.

Having discovered how much breast milk the child has received, the mother, by taking note of the normal amounts necessary for a child of any age, can see how much cow's milk the baby will need to be satisfied. If the baby is 4 months of age, let us say, the ordinary feeding is six ounces, and if baby gets only three of this at the breast, then obviously three more must be furnished by bottle.

The strength of this complementary feeding depends on the baby's age, but up to 2 months of age perhaps one-third milk and two-thirds water would be a safe formula, with a tiny bit of sugar added. After two months the complementary feeding can be half milk and half water. These are merely guide lines. It is better to consult the doctor about these feedings if baby is small.

FOURTH AIRPORT SOUGHT

Valley in San Fernando Valley Canvassed as Possible Addition to System

A new one, it is hoped, will provide the city with another airport, which will be located in the San Fernando Valley. On recommendation of the Council's City Planning Commission, City Attorney Stephens has been instructed to negotiate with the Municipal Airport to work out an agreement whereby the city obtains possession permanently of the runways.

The runways will be 4000 feet long and 300 feet wide. According to the plans, the length of the runways will be dedicated to the city, zoning ordinances will be adopted and a scheme of fees and charges instituted.

The city then will have four airports, the others being Mines Field, Allen Field at the Harbor, and the Griffith Park Field.

NEWSBOYS GIVEN FEAST IN DOWNTOWN CAFE

More than 1500 newsboys were the guests of honor at a Thanksgiving banquet served yesterday at Herbert's Cafe, Eighth and Hill streets. The affair was sponsored by Albert Herbert, owner of the cafe, and Carlo Curtis, newsboy leader. It was the eighth anniversary dinner of the kind held in the cafe.

Newsboys from all over the city were welcomed to the dinner. They formed in long lines in front of the cafe and were fed in relays, the banquet lasting from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Elks' Lodge No. 99 band, led by Harold Roberts of Roberts's Golden State Band provided music.

A regular Thanksgiving menu was consumed by the newsboys. More than 300 turkeys, a barrel of cranberry sauce and huge quantities of olives, celery, mashed potatoes, ice cream, cake and various kinds of beverage went to satisfy the healthy appetites of those gathered at the tables.

Funds to defray part of the dinner expenses were raised at a benefit boxing performance given last Monday at the Main-street Athletic Club. Jack Doyle and Deacon Pyle, boxing promoters, also contributed.

NAVY DINES ON TURKEY AND MEN GET SHORE LEAVE

The battle fleet at the harbor yesterday celebrated the Navy's one hundred and fifty-second Thanksgiving with 18,000 officers and men partaking of sumptuous fare, of which twenty-two tons of turkey formed the chief item.

Admiral Pratt, commander-in-chief, accorded unusual leave and liberty privileges to the fleet personnel for the Thanksgiving week-end, closing the three weeks which the battleship divisions have enjoyed in port.

Next Monday, the armada will put to sea for two weeks' rehearsals and firing of antiaircraft practice, closing the gunnery schedule before the Christmas holidays, beginning December 17 for the fleet.

FIVE THOUSAND FED AT MIDNIGHT MISSION

Five thousand men who might have gone hungry yesterday had it not been for the Midnight Mission sat at the long tables of the mission as guests of Brother Tom Liddecoat, founder, and consumed three tons of beef as part of the annual Thanksgiving dinner bill of fare.

Men who were out of work and were without funds to purchase a meal crowded the tables inside and waited in line outside for their turn to eat.

Food supplies for the dinner were donated from towns all over Southern California, Brother Tom said, and included as part of the meals served 500 pounds of potatoes, twenty crates of cauliflower, two barrels of macaroni, five sacks of carrots, 2500 cakes and 3000 pies.

Student One of Pair Arrested in Tire Theft

Two youths, one of them a student at the University of Southern California, were arrested yesterday by Detective Harrah of the Georgia-street station, charged with suspicion of robbery in connection with the theft of fifty-five automobile tires from the store of the Speed Tire Company, 1703 South Main street. The young men are Graydon Carroll, 20 years of age, of 2719 Edendale Place, a student at U.S.C., and Llwelyn Butler, 20, of 419 West Santa Barbara avenue.

Butler and Carroll, according to Detective Harrah, specifically are charged with stealing seven tires. The other tires were taken by thieves who also got away with $28 in cash. Butler, according to the police, had borrowed his employer's automobile. The latter became suspicious later when Butler offered to sell him two tires and reported to the Georgia-street station.

PLAY TO BE REVIVED

"Rip Van Winkle" Will be Given By University Players

Students of the University of Southern California are to revive Joe Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle," on December 7, when the U.S.C. chapter of National Collegiate Players, national honorary dramatic fraternity, presents the legendary comedy in Bovard Auditorium, Thirty-fifth street and University avenue.

Dean Ray K. Immel of the school of speech will play the title role.

Beulah Yeager, co-ed, is to play the feminine lead of Gretchen Van Winkle, Rip's wife; Nick Vedder is to be characterized by Webster Hayne; Derrick von Beckman is to be be played by Stanley Ewens; Minie Van Winkle, Rip's daughter, is being rehearsed by Avalon Daggett; Henrick Vedder is Paul Klepe's part; Cockles is being portrayed by Bill Kauffman; Katchen by Fay Keyzers; and Seth by Bill Miller.

W. Ray MacDonald is directing the production. Paul Klepe is student manager.

MOTHER TRIES TO DIE

Despondent because she could not obtain work to provide for herself and her 8-year-old son, Mrs. Rose MacDougall, 29 years of age of 1348 1-2 West Fifty-seventh street, attempted suicide yesterday by slashing her wrists with a safety razor blade. After treatment at the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital she was placed in the psycopathic ward of the General Hospital. Her son was placed in the custody of a woman friend.

For the Big Game

—football fashions that are effective but not expensive are chosen at Dyas

DYAS Sports Shop suggests itself as the one place to choose appropriate togs for the big game Saturday; because here every type of sportswear is assembled from the robust sheep lined, fur collared leather jacket at 39.50, to four piece ensembles that will be seen, minus coat, at parties after the game. These are priced from 16.95 to 195.00.

Full length coats of American Glove leather, warmly lined, are priced 39.50. (Center sketch.)

Sheepskin lined jackets with fur collar, decidedly new and youthful, are 39.50.

NEW! These wool Ascot mufflers introduced by Chanel, at DYAS now, 7.95.

Slip-on sweaters in plain or tinsel-combined weaves that youth alone wears! A host of new styles at 10.00.

Felt sport hats in high colors, off the face, aviation and narrow brim styles at 10.00.

More of those popular Lambskins coats—so beaver-like in appearance, only a beige tone, are now in for the big game—85.00.

Frocks that possess chic as well as warmth and comfort for the game are of various weight knit wools, in one, two and three-piece styles at 16.95 to 39.50.

DRY OFFICIALS GUARD WOMAN

Threats in Letter Signed by Bootleggers

Federal and county dry agents operating under the direction of Federal Administrator McReynolds and Capt. Benton, head of the Sheriff's dry detail, yesterday began an investigation regarding threats which have been made to a woman agent acting under Capt. Benton.

The threat, which was contained in a typewritten letter addressed to the young woman, whose name is withheld, also contained a promise of a payment of $5000 for certain information and her promise not to report her information to either the Federal or county dry chiefs.

The communication was signed: "Bootleggers' Protection Club of Southeastern Los Angeles." It states that the writer knows the young woman has information regarding the activities of the outfit and offers her $5000 to "keep still."

In addition the writer quoted the names and descriptions of Federal and county dry agents. The letter ends with the statement: "If you turn this over to the police it will be just too bad for you."

Capt. Benton, to whom the letter was given, treated it as one of many that are received along the same line but, nevertheless, took steps to protect the woman.

Art Exhibition to be Opened in Barnsdall Park

To the works of these artists, Mr. Yens is adding several from his own brush. The exhibition will be on view in the club's galleries December 1 to 15, inclusive, and will be open to the public every day (except Mondays) from 2 to 5 p.m. On Thursdays the admission is free.

DATES GET CONFUSED

Witness Marks So Divorce Suit About Wife's Parties Postponed

When William A. Carne got all mixed up in his dates while testifying for his friend, Clare Henry, seeking a divorce from Vivian Henry, Superior Judge Brown continued the hearing for one week much to the chagrin of Henry, who wanted a separation from Vivian on the grounds of desertion. Carne could not remember when he came to California from the East.

Henry testified he was married at Salamanca, N. Y., on May 16, 1926. He told the court another fellow frequently called at the home and took his wife out for the evening.

"Didn't you object?" asked Judge Bowron.

"I did, but what could I do?" the husband answered.

Later, Henry declared, his wife left him for all time.

Picture Writer Asks Damages

Asserting that she was damaged to the extent of $10,000, when the H. I. L. Pictures Corporation failed to finish a film entitled "Broadway Bap" from a story she wrote, Maidee Thomas Crawford appeared in the court of Superior Judge Yankwich prepared to prosecute her law suit she brought against the company. The hearing was continued until January.

Miss Crawford declares that she was greatly injured as a story writer, when the picture concern failed to finish the film as it had been widely advertised it was in the making.

The tunnel being bored under the Pyrenees is the first to cross through the mountain barrier between France and Spain.

Garden Limits Picnic Rights

Picnic parties planning to use the grounds at the California Botanic Garden after December 1 will have to be Garden members, Dr. E. D. Merrill, director-general, announced yesterday. The Garden grounds have a capacity of eighty and every week-end hundreds of parties are turned away.

The rule giving members preference follows naturally upon the financial support they have given the Garden, Dr. Merrill said.

LIGHTING ASKED

The Central Motion-Picture District, Inc., has petitioned the Council for the installation of an ornamental lighting system in Riverside Drive between Tujunga and Laurel Grove avenues. This was referred to the Board of Public Works and the Traffic and Street Lighting Committee.

Another Julian Stock Suit Now in Submission

After hearing testimony for several days Superior Judge Price took under submission the law suit brought by John T. Lichtig against A. L. Jameson, stock broker, in which $8712 worth of overissued Julian stock is involved.

Lichtig in the prosecution of his action contended that he visited Jameson on March 15, 1927, and requested that the broker invest his money in Bank of Italy. Instead, the broker advised him to purchase Julian. The stock purchased was part of the overissue later declared worthless.

More than 2100 miles of motor mail postal routes were started in Germany in the past fiscal year.

AUTOPSY ORDERED IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Frances Morgan, 65 years of age, at her home, 1335 Downey Road, Downey, early yesterday, led investigating officers to request a Coroner's autopsy.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Emerson and W[illegible]dis, who investigated, the woman had made several remarks about suicide just before her death. The contents of a glass found on a chair beside her death bed will be analyzed by Dr. R. V. Stone.

LAST STRAW WINS

Mrs. Grace B. Fleming stood for many severe tongue lashings and ugly names her husband, Fred Fleming, called her, but when he called her a thief, it was the straw that broke the camel's back. Superior Judge Collier granted her a divorce and $40 a month alimony.
